More specifically, under DTC's voluntary offering program, DTC Participants, until the applicable cut-off time,[46] can elect to accept the offer by delivering letters of transmittal to DTC.[47] Participants also deliver to DTC voluntary offering instructions that request DTC to deliver by book-entry to the bidder's agent securities on deposit that are the subject of letters of transmittal.[48] Delivery of securities through DTC is subject to the terms of the offer, the letters of transmittal and the agreement between DTC and the agent. Significantly, instead of arranging for withdrawal of physical certificates for delivery by participants directly to the bidder's agent, DTC effects book-entry delivery of securities from participants' accounts to an account maintained for the bidder's agent solely for the purpose of the offer.[49] While the securities so delivered are subject exclusively to the control of the bidder's agent, the agent's agreement with DTC provides that book-entry delivery of securities to the agent's DTC account satisfies the delivery and deposit conditions necessary to accept the bidder's offer.[50]

In order to provide for exercise of withdrawal rights and for prorationing[51] and to provide protection for participants submitting guarantees of delivery on the last day of an offer, securities represented by book-entry positions, which are credited to the account of the bidder's agent, cannot be withdrawn from DTC by the agent until after expiration of the protect period.[52] At that time, the bidder's agent may request DTC to deliver certificates representing the net securities credited to the agent's account as a result of tenders. When certificates are delivered from DTC's inventory,[53] the certificates cash trades are usually then negotiated off the exchange floor, although transactions are reported on the consolidated tape with a special designation.

[44] These procedures were noticed for public comment in Securities Exchange Act Release No. 13865 [42 FR 43159 (August 26, 1977)] and were approved by the Division of Market Regulation, pursuant to delegated authority, in Securities Exchange Act Release No. 14208 (November 25, 1977). In addition, in order to provide for some depository processing during tender offers, procedures for bulk deliveries of certificates by depositories to the bidder's agent have been adopted by the Philadelphia Depository Trust Company in Securities Exchange Act Release No. 18967 (August 16, 1982) [47 FR 36742 (August 23, 1982)], and by Midwest Securities Trust Company (see MST System, Operations Handbook, § 7 (1974)).

[45] DTC's obligation to provide book-entry delivery of the subject company's securities from participants' positions to the bidder's agent is derived from the letter of agreement.

[46] Generally, when the bidder's depositary and fowarding agents are located outside New York City, the cut-off time is 11 a.m. on the day prior to the expiration date. When either of those agents are located in New York City, the cut-out time is 11 a.m. on expiration date.

[47] Due to the procedures DTC follows in processing participant acceptances of an offer, DTC will not provide for acceptance of offers by submission of letters of transmittal directly to DTC after the applicable cut-off time. Id. DTC's procedures do provide, however, for the surrender of securities by book-entry delivery to the agent through DTC after that time and until 11 a.m. on the last day of the protection period, provided the offer can be accepted by delivery of a transmittal letter or like document directly to the agent. Thus, deliveries that were not made prior to expiration can still be effected through DTC until 11 a.m. of the last day of the protection period. In that case, moreover, even though the letter of transmittal is the basic instrument authorizing the delivery and transfer of the subject company's securities from the participant to the bidder and its agent (see note 19 supra) and even though the letter of transmittal is submitted directly to the bidder's agent, DTC believes that the surrender of securities by book-entry from a participant's account at DTC to the bidder's agent is a legally effective transfer to the bidder's agent under § 8–320 of the Uniform Commercial Code and should satisfy the bidder's deposit requirement. See note 57 infra.

[48] While DTC undertakes no obligation to examine letters of transmittal or voluntary offering instructions, DTC usually will comply with a participant's instruction only to the extent that participant has a sufficient general free (unpledged) position in its account; otherwise, DTC may reject the insruction.

[49] After making book-entry deliveries of those securities, DTC forwards on that same day to the agent originals or facsimiles of the participants' letters of transmittal and/or voluntary offering instructions. DTC and the agent undertake daily control of all offer and acceptance activity processed through DTC, and DTC's program provides for daily balancing and reconciliation of daily and to-date acceptance figures. A cumulative record of all instructions submitted by each participant is also maintained by DTC.

[50] While DTC does not physically segregate certificates representing securities surrendered by participants and credited to the account of the bidder's agent, DTC does establish a separate account with a "contra security identification" number in the name of the bidder's agent for purposes of recording the cumulative quantity of tender activity by all participants, and that account is subject to the exclusive control of the agent.

[51] See Section 14(d)(5) of the Act and Rule 14d–7 [17 CFR § 240.14d–7] (withdrawal rights); Section 14(d)(6) of the Act and Rule 14d–8 [17 CFR 240.14d–8] (pro rata acceptance period, under Rule 14d–8, extends throughout period offer remains open).

[52] If the bider's agent desires certificates registered to a name specified by that agent, the agent may, at any time after expiration of the protect period, make a withdrawal-by-transfer request of DTC (see note 5 supra) to deliver certificates representing all or a portion of the net securities credited to the agent's account. In that case, DTC will request certificates from the appropriate transfer agent and deliver them to the bidder's agent as soon as DTC receives the certificates from the transfer agent. More than a week may elapse, however, before certificates in proper form and denomination become available for delivery by DTC to the bidder's agent. See note 65 infra. In addition, under DTC's standard procedures, DTC will not deliver from its vault inventory nominee name certificates (see note 5 supra) representing the agent's net securities position credited to its account until subsequent to five days after expiration of the protect period. DTC cannot assure that it will be able to deliver appropriately denominated certificates from its inventory prior to that time. If the agent requires earlier deliveries of certificates from DTC's inventory, it must so inform DTC prior to intry into the letter of agreement. Notwithstanding these standard procedures, however, DTC customarily attempts to accommodate early requests for nominee name certificates.

are registered in the name of DTC's nominee (i.e., Cede & Co.) or in street name and are specially endorsed by appointing the bidder's agent as attorney to request transfer on the books of the subject company.[54]

During, or after expiration of, the offer, the agent delivers payment—securities and/or cash—to DTC in respect of securities the bidder's agent has received through DTC and accepted pursuant to the terms of the offer. Payment can be made to DTC at the same time that similar payment is made to persons accepting the offer directly with the bidder's agent. DTC distributes that payment to its participants either through DTC's money settlement system or by book-entry.[55]

Automated voluntary offering procedures such as these provide numerous benefits to depository participants, bidders, depositary agents and others. First, when book-entry services continue uninterrupted during a tender offer, street-side settlement (i.e., settlement between broker-dealers) and customer-side settlement (i.e., settlement between the customer or its agent and the broker-dealer) of any heavy trading activity can occur quickly and efficiently. There is no need for large withdrawals of securities from the depository for settlement purposes. Instead, automated CNS and ID processing can occur,[56] and, as a result, "fails" can be more effectively managed and the need for remedial cash market purchases can be reduced.

Second, because the securities remain eligible for depository services, facilities are provided for processing delivery of tendered securities by depository participants and receipt of those securities by the bidder's agent within a centralized book-entry environment in an economical and orderly manner. These services enable book-entry delivery of securities tendered by participants within a centralized system to the account of the bidder's agent.[57] In addition, if the subject company's securities underlying acceptances are part of an automated transfer program, such as the Fast Automated Securities Transfer ("FAST") program,[58] certificates for those securities need not even be forwarded by the securities depository to the bidder's agent after expiration of the offer or at the end of the protect period;[59] instead, if the depositary subscribes to such a program, FAST-type balances can simply be reduced. Further, when a letter of transmittal has been submitted directly to the bidder's agent, securities can be surrendered to the bidder's agent through DTC until the cut-off time on the last day of the protect period without the inventory management problems that would exist were book-entry facilities not available.[60] Processing securities by book-entry delivery among accounts, therefore, keeps securities immobilized, permits optimal certificate control and reduces physical certificate handling by a depository, its participants and the bidder's agent.

Third, participants that have surrendered securities may obtain collateral loans by pledging by book-entry the "contra securities" (i.e., the consideration offered by the bidder) that have been credited to their accounts. These contra securities represent the participants' rights to receive through the depository from the bidder's agent after expiration of the offer either the specified payment for surrendered securities or the return of some or all of the surrendered securities.

Fourth, book-entry movement is available for the withdrawal of previously tendered securities from the agent's account to the general free account of the participant submitting withdrawal instructions and for book-entry return of tendered securities not taken down by the bidder (i.e., when the offer is oversubscribed and pro-rated or cancelled).[61] Thus unlike offers processed without depository services, physical certificates need not be shipped back to tendering shareholders.

Fifth, when book-entry facilities are available and when most tenders are submitted by depository participants in the form of street-name or nominee name securities, a shortened protection period may be possible for those securities (e.g., only a few days may be needed to correct any errors that occur in the processing of participants' instructions, especially those that may have been submitted on the day prior to expiration of an offer[62]). In that case, the usual full eight day protection period often may not be necessary, since book-entry processing obviates the need not only for participants to withdraw physical certificates but also for the depository to present jumbo certificates for transfer and breakdown into smaller denominations to satisfy those withdrawal requests.

Sixth, depository services provide facilities for expedited payment—securities and/or cash—by the depositary or transfer agent to DTC and, through DTC's money settlement system or by book-entry, to participants.[63] For [54] Occasionally, when the bidder's agent wants certificates quickly, DTC delivers street-name stock, duly endorsed.

[55] Since DTC has custody of the physical securities and since they are registered in the name of its nominee, distributions are, in the first instance, issued by the bidder's agent to DTC's nominee and then distributed by DTC to the appropriate participant. In the case of a cash payment for securities tendered, facilities exist for the prompt delivery of cash to DTC (e.g., through the Federal Reserve wire system), and payment can then be made promptly by DTC to participants. In the case of an exchange of securities, any newly issued securities, in order to accommodate participants, can be deposited in DTC for book-entry distribution to the tendering party, even though those securities are not otherwise depository eligible.

[57] Under §§ 8–320(1) and (3) of the Uniform Commercial Code, book-entry delivery is a legally effective transfer to the bidder's agent and, accordingly, should satisfy the bidder's deposit requirement.

[58] In order to provide participants with speedy withdrawals of certificates, DTC developed the FAST program. Under this program, instead of retaining at the depository FAST issue certificates registered to the participant in street name, these securities are left with transfer agent banks in the form of "balance" certificates for each issue. A "balance certificate" or "window certificate" is a physical certificate either evidencing the number of securities registered in the nominee name of the securities depository that are shown from time to time on the records of the issuer and are being held by the transfer agent or evidencing the issuer's duties to perform the obligation shown from time to time on the records of the issuer (i.e., a book-keeping entry on the records of the issuer maintained by the transfer agent). The balance certificate is adjusted daily to reflect deposit and withdrawal activity. For routine withdrawals-by-transfer under the FAST program, transfer agents can fulfill participant requests within the normal three to four business day turnaround time. See Rule 17Ad–2(a), (b) under the Act [17 CFR 240.17Ad–2(a), (b)] and see note 65 infra. For urgent COD withdrawals, transfer agents that subscribe to FAST must make certificates available overnight and twice each business day on two hours' notice for pickup by the depository or can mail them directly to the participant's customer. The FAST program, therefore, enables participants to obtain transfer services with minimal delay through their securities depositories. Other depositories have developed similar programs.

[60] See note 16 supra.

[61] These procedures also may ensure compliance with the obligation in Rule 14e–1(c) under the Act to return promptly after termination or withdrawal of an offer securities deposited but not accepted. See generally Securities Exchange Act Release No. 15548, 16 SEC Docket 973, 1006 & n.104 (February 5, 1979), 44 FR 9958, 9957 & n.104 (February 15, 1979) ("The Commission believes that [Rules 14e–1(c)] would protect investors by ensuring that deposited securities are not tied up for an unreasonable length of time * * * after termination of a tender offer").

[62] See notes 46 & 47 supra. The customary protection period, however, will be required when the depository must await delivery of certificates that have been presented for transfer by a participant (e.g., a broker-dealer) on behalf of a customer for registration in the name of the depository's nominee and when that participant has requested the depository to "cover" the guarantee of delivery while awaiting receipt of that certificate representing tendered securities.

[63] These settlement and delivery procedures may help ensure that a bidder meets its prompt payment obligation under Rule 14e–1(c) of the Act [17 CFR § 240.14e–1(c)].

example, in U.S. Steel Corporation's tender offer for Marathon Oil Co., DTC processed payments to participants from Banker's Trust Co. (the bidder's agent participating in DTC) of over $622 million in same-day funds on the first payment date. These funds were credited to tendering participants' accounts that day in DTC's clearinghouse (next-day) funds settlement system and invested ovenight by DTC; income received on the investment by DTC was allocated among, and credited to, those participants' accounts.[64]

Finally, unlike tender offers processed without depository services, in whch the bidder must request transfer of thousands of certificates from individual shareholders, the bidder (or its agent) can receive from the depository a few large denomination certificates, registered in the name of the bidder or the depository's nominee, representing all securities of the subject company tendered by participants through the depository. Accordingly, the bidder will not incur the usual protracted post tender offer physical processing time needed by the subject company's transfer agent to accomplish transfer of those certificates to the bidder.[65]

In the Commission's view, therefore, programs such as DTC's voluntary offering program beneficially integrate tender offer activity into the national clearance and settlement system.

IV. Proposed Rule 17Ad–14

A. Introduction. The processing problems and trading market impacts that can occur during large tender offers are complex in cause and effect. Intricate and diverse systems that ordinarily operate smoothly can become entangled in manual processing, confusion and delay. The Commission believes that, to ensure investor confidence and to avoid paperwork, market and capacity crises, the existing, sophisticated and reliable components of the national clearance and settlement system must be available during tender offers. The Commission, therefore urges the securities processing industry and affected financial institutions to recognize and publicize the benefits of increased securities depository usage and to work together to assure that securities processing activities during tender offers become fully integrated into the national system for prompt and accurate clearance and settlement of securities transactions.

Toward that end, the Commission also urges clearing corporations to concentrate their cooperative efforts toward resolving the problems associated with differing buy-in and liability notice rules and procedures.[66] Resolution of those problems not only would eliminate considerable confusion among broker-dealers attempting to resolve "fails" but more importantly would greatly reduce the accompanying financial uncertainty.

In addition, the Commission believes that automated systems of securities depositories should routinely be availabe and used during all tender offers for depository elighible securities. In that regard, the Commission has received correspondence on several occasions from DTC discussing the benefits of automated depository tender offer services and the problems presented to the financial community when those depository securities are unavailable. In that correspondence, DTC has urged the Commission to adopt a rule requiring bidders to make arrangements with qualified securities depositories for purposes of book-entry delivery of securities during tender offers.[67]

The Commission would prefer that bidders and their agents voluntarily participate in depository tender offer programs. The Commission believes that the economies, efficiences and safeguards associated with these programs make them highly desirable to bidders, depositaries, transfer agents and the investing public alike. The Commission recognizes, however, that the one-time transactional nature of tender offers may mean that many bidders and their attorneys and advisers do not properly familiarize themselves with and use the automated facilities of the national clearance and settlement system. For that reason, and because there can be significant adverse impact from the unavailabilty of automated depository services for the subject company's securities during a tender offer, including market confusion and singificant financial exposure for major securities firms and banks, the Commission believes that some near-term resolution of these problems is required. As a precautionary measure, therefore, and to focus further the attention of bidders, their attorneys and advisers and the securities processing industry on the need to employ automated securities depositories services during tender offers, the Commission is proposing for comment a rule that would require a bidder's "tender agent" to establish and maintain at all qualified registered securities depositories holding the subject company's securities specially designated accounts for purpose of receiving by book-entry the delivery of tendered securities from depository participants.[68]

B. Description of Rule 17Ad–14. Under the proposed rule, no registered transfer agent may act in any capacity as a "tender agent" for a bidder (i.e., as a forwarding agent, depositary,[69] disbursing or paying agent, or transfer or exchange agent [70]) unless that agent

[64] Thus, participants' "float" was not left idle, but instead earned interest while participants awaited receipt. See DTC Newsletter, January 1982, at 3. When an automated voluntary offering program is not available, participants may not receive early payments as quickly as other tendering shareholders, and any funds received would have to be handled and invested individually by participants.

[65] Transfer agents are afforded a certain period of time under the federal securities laws (the so-called "turnaround rules") within which to accomplish transfer. Pursuant to Rule 17Ad–2(a) of the Act [17 CFR 240.17Ad–2(a)], a registered transfer agent (except when acting as an outside registrar) must trunaround within three business days of receipt at least 90 percent of all routine items received for a month. An item is considered "routine" if, among other thing, it does not involve a tender offer or exchange. See Rule 17Ad–1(i)(5) of the Act [17 CFR 240.17Ad–1(i)(5)]. If an item is classified as "nonroutine," the usual three business day turnaround time does not apply. Instead, although that item must be turned around as soon as possible, see Rule 17Ad–2(e) [17 CFR 240.17Ad–2(e)], turnaround time may involve several days. In addition, the normal processing time of 24 hours for performance of the registrar function may need to be included, see Rule 17Ad–2(b) [17 CFR 240.17Ad–2(b)], before transfer is accomplished. See generally 17Ad–1(d) [17 CFR 240–17Ad–1(d)].

[67] See, letter to the Honorable Harold M. Williams, Chairman, SEC, from William T. Dentzer, Jr., Chairman of the Board of Directors and CEO, DTC, dated January 17, 1980; and letter to George Fitzsimmons, Secretary, SEC, from Edward J. McGuire, Jr., Counsel, DTC, April 13, 1979 (SEC File No. S7–770).

[68] In the past, the term "tender offer" has been applied to certain acquisitions that commonly are referred to as "unconventional" tender offers. See, e.g., Wellman v. Dickinson, 475 F. Supp. 783 (S.D.N.Y. 1979); S–G Securities Inc., v. Fugua Investment Co., 466 F. Supp. 1114 (D. Mass 1978); In re Paine Weber Jackson & Curtis, Inc., SEC File No. 3–6074 (administrative law judge's initial decision) (block trade). Generally, bowever, bidders engaged in unconventional tender offers do not employ "tender agents" and, therefore, would not be subject to proposed Rule 17Ad–14. In addition paragraph (d) of the proposed rule provides the Commission with the authority to exempt certain offers under specified terms and conditions when the Commission deems it appropriate to do so.

[69] See note 13 supra. Proposed Rule 17Ad–14 will not apply to depositaries that are not also registered transfer agents. In that regard, however, a depositary that acts as a tender agent, particularly in the case of an exchange offer, may fall within the definition of "transfer agent" in Section 3(a)(25) of the Act and may be required to register as a transfer agent before it can act as a tender agent. See § 17A(c)(1) of the Act.

[70] When the bidder makes an exchange offer (i.e., an offer of securities in the bidder's company for securities of the subject company), the bidder's transfer agent issues certificates for securities in the bidder's company or surviving company in exchange for the subject company's securities and may be requested by the bidder to make any cash establishes with all qualified registered securities depositories [71] within two business days after the tender or exchange offer is commenced [72] specifically designated accounts for purposes of receiving book-entry the delivery of tendered securities from depository participants.[73]

By requiring tender agents to maintain an account with a securities depository during the course of an offer, regular-way securities processing activity can continue uninterrupted. As discussed above,[74] there are several benefits that flow from ensuring depository eligibility of the subject company's securities and especially from the ability to deliver securities by book-entry movement.[75] With respect to tendered securities, depository participants can accept offers and satisfy a bidder's deposit requirement by book-entry delivery of securities; the bidder's as well as participants' accounts can simultaneously be credited and debited, usually on the same day as receipt of participant offering instructions; offers may be accepted on or near the expiration date, and the need for extended protection periods may be reduced; securities may be withdrawn by participants more efficiently and expeditiously;[76] securities not taken down or tendered in excess of the proration percentage may be returned in a timely manner;[77] and bidders can make payment for tendered securities through depository settlement systems.

With respect to settlement of trades on national securities exchanges in the subject company's securities, continued depository eligibility of those securities would ensure that clearing agencies could more readily clear and settle those transactions on an automated basis through guaranteed settlement systems.[78] In addition, broker-dealers could more readily meet settlement obligations because the number of multiple physical deliver and receive obligations and thus the number of "fails" would be reduced.

Proposed Rule 17Ad–14, therefore, by ensuring continued depository eligibility of the subject company's securities, would reduce the strain on existing systems for accepting deposits and delivery of securities being tendered and for clearing and settling transactions in those securities that occur within the national market system. The Commission believes that, should the industry not progress expeditiously toward the voluntary use of automated depository tender offer systems, adoption of proposed Rule 17Ad–14, by removing demonstrated impediments to tender offer and trade processing in the subject company's securities, may become a necessary step in integrating tender offers into the national clearance and settlement system which, under Section 17A(a) of the Act, the Commission is directed to facilitate.

V. Statutory Authority

Rule 17Ad.14 is being proposed pursuant to Sections 2, 11A(a)(1)(B), 14(d)(4), 15(c)(3), 15(c)(6), 17A(a), 17A(d)(1), and 23(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. 78b, 78k–1(a)(1)(B), 78n(d)(4), 78o(c)(3), 78o(c)(6), 78q–1(a), 78–1(d)(1) and 78w(a)]. The Commission believes that the proposed tender agent rule, Rule 17Ad–14, is necessary for the protection of investors and is consistent with the public interest.

Congress, in the Securities Acts Amendments of 1975, found, among other things, that the prompt and accurate clearance and settlement of securities transactions, including the transfer of record ownership, was necessary for the protection of investors, that inefficient clearance and settlement procedures imposed unnecessary costs on investors and persons facilitating transactions on behalf of investors, and that uniform standards and procedures for clearance and settlement reduce those costs and increase protection for investors and persons facilitating transactions on behalf of investors.[79]

As part of the Securities Acts Amendments of 1975, Congress also enacted Section 17A(d)(1) of the Act, which prohibits registered transfer agents and registered clearing agencies from engaging in any activity in contravention of such rules and regulations as the Commission may prescribe as necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. In light of the need to further the purposes of Section 17A(a)(1) of the Act in the context of tender offers and the need for increased investor protection when processing transactions in securities of the subject company during tender offers,[80] the Commission believes that it is appropriate to propose for comment Rule 17Ad–14.

In addition, the Commission believes that Rule 17Ad–14 will help maintain fair and orderly markets in the trading of the subject company's securities during a tender offer.[81] Because clearance and settlement in the subject company's securities will be less strained during a tender offer, market liquidity for those securities should be enhanced.

Finally, Section 14(d)(4) authorizes the Commission to prescribe rules regarding solicitations or recommendations to accept or reject a tender offer or requests or invitations for tenders. In soliciting tenders and acceptances of an offer, the bidder through its tender agent will need to provide for deposit and delivery of the subject company's securities at qualified registered securities depositories by establishing accounts with those depositories.

The Commission believes that the costs, if any, to bidders of complying with proposed Rule 17Ad–14 will be minimal. Currently, bidders do not incur any charges by DTC when using its voluntary offering programs. Instead, costs for operating these programs are allocated among DTC participants using these services. The Commission anticipates that depositories offering these programs will continue to assess tender offer service charges to net payments for the difference in value of those securities. Certificates representing the subject company's securities are then presented by the bidder to the subject company's transfer agent for cancellation and issuance of new certificates registered to the bidder.

[71] A "qualified" registered securities depository is a registered clearing agency that, at the time a tender offer is commenced under Rule 14d–2 of the Act [17 CFR 240.14d–2] has an automated tender offer processing program approved by the Commission pursuant to Section 19 of the Act that provides for book-entry delivery of the subject company's securities. Ultimately, the Commission hopes that all registered securities depositories will have procedures that provide for book-entry delivery of the subject company's securities from depository participants to the bidder's depositary.

[72] Unless the context would otherwise require, "commencement" of an offer will be determined under Rule 14d–2 of the Act [17 CFR 240.14d–2].

[73] Persons or entities that are not participants in securities depositories will continue to tender their securities either directly to the bidder's forwarding agent or depositary or indirectly through a "piggy-backing" arrangement with a correspondent that is a depository participant. Moreover, even under the proposed rule, a depository participant can choose to tender its securities directly to the agent.

[74] See discussion supra at 31–36.

[75] The Commission expects that, absent very compelling reasons, securities depositories would not "exit" the subject company's securities from their systems following commencement of an offer. Indeed, when filing processing procedures with the Commission to qualify under the rule, see note 71 supra, the depository must specify the circumstances under which that could occur.

VI. Text of Proposal

PART 240—GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS, SECURITIES EXCHANGE ACT OF 1934

In accordance with the foregoing, the Commission proposes to amend Part 240 of Chapter II of Title 17 of the Code of Federal Regulations as follows:

By proposing § 240.17Ad–14 be added to read as follows:

§ 240.17Ad–14 Tender Agents.

(a) Establishing book-entry depository accounts. When securities of a subject company have been declared eligible by one or more qualified registered securities depositories for the services of those depositories at the time a tender or exchange offer is commenced, no registered transfer agent shall act on behalf of the bidder as a forwarding, depositary, transfer, exchange, disbursing, paying or other agent in connection with the tender or exchange offer, unless that agent has established, within two business days after commencement and maintains throughout the duration of the offer, with all qualified registered securities depositories holding the subject company's securities, specially designated accounts for purposes of receiving from depository participants by book-entry delivery securities being tendered pursuant to transmittal letters and other documentation.

(b) Exclusions. The provisions of this rule shall not apply to tender or exchange offers (1) that are made for a class of securities of a subject company that has fewer than (i) 500 securityholders of record for that class, or (ii) 500,000 shares of that class outstanding; or (2) that are made exclusively to securityholders of fewer than 100 shares of a class of securities.

(c) Definitions. For purposes of this rule, (1) the terms "subject company," "business day," "securityholder," and "transmittal letter" shall be given the meaning provided in § 240.14d–1(b); (2) unless the context otherwise requires, a tender or exchange offer shall be deemed to have commenced as specified in § 240.14d–2; (3) the term "bidder" shall mean any person who makes a tender or exchange offer or on whose behalf a tender or exchange offer is made; and (4) a "qualified registered securities depository" shall mean a registered clearing agency that has rules and procedures approved by the Commission pursuant to Section 19 of the Act that provide for book-entry delivery of the securities of the subject company to the transfer agent through the facilities of that securities depository.

(d) Exemptions. The Commission may exempt from the provisions of this rule, either unconditionally or on specified terms and conditions, any registered transfer agent, tender or exchange offer, or class of tender or exchange offers, if the Commission determines that an exemption is consistent with the public interest, the protection of investors, the prompt and accurate clearance and settlement of securities transactions, the maintenance of fair and orderly markets, or the removal of impediments to a national clearance and settlement system.

VII. Request for Comments

Any interested person wishing to submit comments on proposed Rule 17Ad–14, as well as on other matters that might have an impact on the proposal contained herein, is requested to do so. Moreover, the Commission is specifically soliciting comments with respect to the following:

(1) Why have existing depository voluntary offering programs not been used in some tender offers? If such programs have not been used because of certain limitations or drawbacks, what are those limitations and drawbacks and how can they be corrected or eliminated to ensure use of depository voluntary offering programs?

(2) Instead of the approach taken in proposed Rule 17Ad–14, would it be more appropriate to impose a requirement directly on the bidder to establish and maintain an account at a securities depository during the pendency of a tender offer for purposes of accepting deposits and delivery of securities being tendered? If so, provide your reasons.

(3) Should a rule requiring depository usage apply to all tender offers? If not, which types or sizes of tender offers and why?

(4) Once a bidder has established an account with the securities depository for purposes of accepting tendered securities by book-entry delivery, should that securities depository be permitted under any circumstances to declare the subject company's securities ineligible for depository services after the tender offer is announced? If so, under what circumstances?

(5) Should proposed Rule 17Ad–14 require the bidder's agent to establish and maintain an account with one or more, rather than all, qualified securities depositors? If the rule operates in that way, should other qualified securities depositories be precluded from declaring the subject company's securities ineligible and be required to use the depository interfaces for book-entry tender? If not, why not?

(6) What effect, if any, would depository voluntary offering procedures and the proposed rule give have on the timing of certain critical events that occur in connection with a tender offer—such as, accrual of voting rights by the bidder for tendered securities and the time period for payment by the bidder of the offered consideration? In that regard, would § 8–320 of the UCC or comparable state law alter the timing of the bidder's right to vote the subject company's securities? In addition, what effect, if any, would depository voluntary offering procedures or the proposed rule have on the bidder's or the subject company's strategy or tactics in making and defending against a tender offer, respectively?

VIII. Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification

Section 603(a)[83] of the Administrative Procedure Act,[84] as amended by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (the "Flexibility Act"),[85] generally requires the Commission to undertake a regulatory flexibility analysis of all proposed rules or proposed rule amendments to determine the impact of that rulemaking on "small entities."[86] Section 605(b) of the Flexibility Act, however, specifically exempts from that requirement any proposed rule or proposed rule amendment for which the Chairman of the Commission certifies that, if adopted, would not have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities."

Entities likely to be affected by proposed Rule 17Ad–14 include bidders, banks and broker-dealers that are depository participants, clearing agencies and registered transfer agents. While a few of these entities may meet the definitions of "small business" or "small organization" established by the Commission for purposes of the Flexibility Act, none of those entities will experience a significant economic impact. Bidders, which will have accounts established on their behalf at securities depositories for purposes of receiving delivery from depository

[82] In order to obtain Commission approval as a qualified registered securities depository under proposed Rule 17Ad–14, each securities depository will be required to submit to the Commission as part of its tender offer processing plan filed under Section 19 of the Act a schedule of fees to be charged participants. Any changes to those fees will have to be re-filed pursuant to Section 19(b) of the Act and Rule 19b–4 thereunder [17 CFR 240.19b–4].

[86] Although Section 601(b) of the Flexibility Act defines the term "small entity," the statute permits agencies to formulate their own definitions. The Commission published its final definitions on the terms "small business" and "small organization" in Securities Act Release No. 6380 (February 4, 1982) [47 FR 5215].

participants, and banks, which participate in securities depositories, generally are not "issuers" or "persons" that are "small businesses" as defined in the Commission's rules under the Flexibility Act.[87] Bidders making tender offers for the securities of subject companies eligible for depository services and bank depository participants commonly have assets exceeding $3,000,000.[88]

In addition, most broker-dealer participants in depositories that will be tendering securities for delivery will not be "small businesses" or "small organizations" for purposes of the Flexibility Act.[89] For those few broker-dealer participants that might be deemed "small" for that purpose, on the basis of current charges to broker-dealer participants for tendering securities through a securities depository, the Commission believes that they will not individually experience any significant economic impact from either reduced tender or trade processing costs. Rather, any operational and financial benefits to accure from proposed Rule 17Ad–14 will be experienced in the aggregate by the brokerage industry as a whole.

Further, no securities depository having a voluntary offering program in effect, so as to be a "qualified" securities depository under proposed Rule 17Ad-14, would be deemed a "small business" clearing agency.[90] While only one of the four active registered securities depositories has established an automated program for the benefit of its participants,[91] and even though the other three securities depositories could establish such programs, none of these four existing securities depositories at which accounts would be established would have funds or securities of less than $200 million under its custody and control, and accordingly, none would qualify as "small" under the Flexibility Act.

Finally, few registered transfer agents that might act on behalf of bidders as depositaries or as other agents will be considered "small businesses" for the purposes of the Flexibility Act.[92] Bidders making tender offers for securities that are depository eligible probably will use, if not require, the services of much larger tender or transfer agents. Even if a "small" transfer agent were appointed as a depositary, the cost, if any, associated with establishing an account with a securities depository on behalf of the bidder would seem to be relatively insignificant,[93] and in any event, to the extent they are incurred at all, will be borne by the bidder or that depository's participants.[94]

Since the Commission does not believe, therefore, that proposed Rule 17Ad–14 will have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, and since the Commission believes that a Regulatory Flexibility Act certification is appropriate, the Chairman of the Commission has certified that proposed Rule 17Ad–14, if adopted, would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification

I, John S. R. Shad, Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, hereby certify pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 605(b) that the proposed rule, Rule 17Ad–14, set forth in Securities Exchange Act Release No. 19678, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities—namely, issuers, persons, broker-dealers, clearing agencies and transfer agents that are "small businesses" or "small organizations" as defined in Commission Rule 0–10 [17 CFR § 240.0–10]. Specifically, bidders engaged in tender offers are not charged by securities depositories for using automated tender offer services. Moreover, the number of banks and broker-dealers, which are depository participants, that might be deemed "small" for purposes of the Regulatory Flexibility Act is not substantial; and the economic impact, if any, on those entities is insignificant because of their limited involvement in tender offers to which the proposed rule would apply and because there will be no change, as a result of the proposed rule, in the level of charges they currently incur when using depository services in connection with tender offers. Furthermore, the rule would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of subject companies that are "small [87] For purposes of the Flexibility Act, no separate definition of "small business" has been provided in the case of a "bidder" or a "bank." The Commission has defined "issuer" and "person" in 17 CFR 240.0–10(a), however, to be as follows:

For the purposes of Commission rulemaking in accordance with the provision of Chapter Six of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and unless otherwise defined for purposes of a particular rulemaking proceeding, the term 'small business' or 'small organization' shall—(a) When used with reference to an issuer or a person, other than an investment company, under Section 12, 13, 14, 15(d) or 16(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, mean an 'issuer' or 'person' that, on the last day of its most recent fiscal year, had total assets of $3,000,000 or less." * * *

[88] Even if some bidders or bank participants were deemed "small businesses," that number would not be substantial and the economic impact on those entities would be negligible. For example, the cost, if any, to be incurred by a bidder having its tender agent establish an account with a securities depository is likely to be insignificant when measured against other costs of the tender offer (e.g., legal, accounting, printing, etc). In addition, while voluntary offering procedures and the proposed rule might result in a bidder forgoing income on a certain percentage of the "float" that otherwise could be earned during a more gradual or incremental payout to tendering securityholders, bidders currently using depository offering procedures make lump-sum payments to depository participants at the same time similar payments are made to tendering securityholders that are not depository participants. Moreover, Rule 14e–1(c) [17 CFR 240.14e1(c)] provides that, as a means reasonably designed to prevent fraudulent, deceptive or manipulative acts or practices within the meaning of Section 14(e) of the Act, a bidder shall not fail promptly to pay the consideration offered after termination of the tender offer Accordingly, any economic impact on bidders under the proposed rule would not be appreciable.

The charges currently assessed participants for using despository securities processing services are not significant. Further, no feasible non-cost alternative to proposed Rule 17Ad–14 apparently exists at this time for resolving the problems associated with depository ineligibility of the subject company's securities

The proposed rule would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of subject companies that are "small businesses" because few companies, if any, that are small businesses and whose securities are depository eligible are the subjects of tender offers.

[89] Section 240.0–1(c) states that "small business" and "small oranization":

When used with reference to a broker or dealer, mean a broker or dealer that: (1) Had total capital (net worth plus subordinated liabilities) of less than $500,000 on the date in the prior fiscal year as of which its audited financial statements were prepared pursuant to § 240.17a–5(d) or, if not required to file such statements, a broker or dealer that had total capital (net worth plus subordinated liabilities) of less than $500,000 on the last business day of the preceding fiscal year (or in the time that it has been in business, if shorter); and (2) Is not affiliated with any person (other than a natural person) that is not a small business or small organization as defined in this section.

[90] Section 240.10–0(d) states that "small business" and "small organization," when used with reference to a clearing agency, mean a clearing agency that:

(1) Compared, cleared and settled less than $500 million in securities transactions during the preceding fiscal year (or in the time that it has been in business, if shorter);

(2) Had less than $200 million of funds and securities in its custody or control at all times during the preceding fiscal year (or in the time that it has been in business, if shorter); and

(3) Is not affiliated with any person (other than a natural person) that is not a small business or small organization as defined in this section.

[92] Section 240.0–10(h) provides that "small business" and "small organization," when used with reference to a transfer agent, mean a transfer agent that

(1) Received [fewer] than 500 items for transfer and [fewer] than 500 items for processing during the preceding six months (or in the time that it has been in business, if shorter);

(2) Maintained master shareholder files that in the aggregate contained [fewer] than 1,000 shareholder accounts or was the named transfer agent for [fewer] than 1,000 shareholder accounts at all times during the preceding fiscal year (or in the time that it has been in business, if shorter); and businesses" because few companies that are small businesses and whose securities are depository eligible are the subjects of tender offers. Finally, any small transfer agent that might be appointed by a bidder to act as a depositary or other agent in connection with a tender offer will not incur significant costs, if any, because the cost of using a securities depository for book-entry delivery of tendered securities, for the most part, is borne by participants in the securities depository and not by the transfer agent.

(3) Is not affiliated with any person (other than a natural person) that is not a small business or small organization under this section.

Federal Energy Regulatory Commission

18 CFR Part 271

[Docket No. RM79-76-177 (Ohio-2 Addition)]

High-Cost Gas Produced From Tight Formations, Ohio; Proposed Rulemaking AGENCY: Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, DOE.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission is authorized by section 107(c)(5) of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 to designate certain types of natural gas as high-cost gas where the Commission determines that the gas is produced under conditions which present extraordinary risks or costs. Under section 107(c)(5), the Commission issued a final regulation designating natural gas produced from tight formations as high-cost gas which may receive an incentive price (18 CFR 271.703). This rule established procedures for jurisdictional agencies to submit to the Commission recommendations of areas for designation as tight formations. This Notice of Proposed Rulemaking by the Director of the Office of Pipeline and Producer Regulation contain the recommendation of the State of Ohio that the Berea Sandstone and the "Second Berea" zone of the Bedford Shale be designated as a tight formation under § 271.703(d). The proposed rule incorporates this recommended tight formation with the previously designated Berea Sandstone and "Second Berea" tight formation of Athens, Gallia, Meigs, Morgan, Muskingum, and Perry Counties, Ohio.

DATES: Comments on the proposed rule are due on June 3, 1983. Public hearing: No public hearing is scheduled in this docket as yet. Written requests for a public hearing are due on May 4, 1983.

ADDRESS: Comments and requests for hearing must be filed with the Office of the Secretary, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Issued: April 19, 1983.

I. Background

On January 12, 1983, the State of Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Oil & Gas (Ohio) submitted to the Commission a recommendation, in accordance with § 271.703 of the Commission's regulations (45 FR 56034, August 22, 1980), that the Berea Sandstone and the "Second Berea" zone of the Bedford Shale located in portions of Athens, Belmont, Meigs, Monroe, Morgan, Noble, and Washington Counties, Ohio, be designated as a tight formation. Pursuant to § 271.703(c)(4) of the regulations, this Notice of Proposed Regulation is hereby issued to determine whether Ohio's recommendation that the Berea Sandstone and the "Second Berea" zone of the Bedford Shale be designated a tight formation should be adopted. Ohio's recommendation and supporting data are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

II. Description of Recommendation

Ohio has recommended that the Berea Sandstone and the "Second Berea" zone of the Bedford Shale found in specified townships in Athens, Belmont, Meigs, Monroe, Morgan, Noble, and Washington Counties, Ohio, be designated as a tight formation. The recommended area comprises approximately 2,073 square miles and is an eastward extension of an area where the Berea Sandstone and the "Second Berea" have previously been designated as a tight formation. The recommended interval is a depositional unit of early Mississippian age, and lies on the northwestern flank of the Appalachian Basin in southeastern Ohio. It consists of interbedded sandstones, siltstones, and shales which dip gently to the southeast, toward the axis of the Appalachian Basin. The recommended interval is bounded above by the base of the Lower Mississippian Sunbury Shale (called "Coffee Shale" by drillers) and below by the top of the Upper Devonian Ohio Shale.

The depth to the top of the interval ranges from approximately 1,250 feet to 2,375 feet. The Berea Sandstone (called "First Berea" or "Berea Grit" by drillers) ranges from 10 to more than 40 feet in thickness, and is the uppermost formation in the recommended interval. The "Second Berea" is a drillers' term for a siltstone-sandstone lens near the base of the Bedford Shale, with a maximum thickness of 20 feet. The "Second Berea" is separated from the Berea Sandstone by approximately 10 to 50 feet of red and gray shales and siltstones.

III. Discussion of Recommendation

Ohio claims in its submission that evidence gathered through information and testimony presented at a public hearing held December 17, 1982, by Ohio on this matter demonstrates that:

(1) The average in situ gas permeability throughout the pay section of the proposed area is not expected to exced 0.1 millidarcy;

(2)The stabilized production rate, against atmospheric pressure, of wells completed for production from the recommended formation, without stimulation, is not expected to exceed the maximum allowable production rate set out in § 271.703(c)(2)(i)(B); and

(3) No well drilled into the recommended formation is expected to produce more than five (5) barrels of oil per day.

Ohio further asserts that existing State and Federal Regulations assure that development of this formation will not adversely affect any fresh water aquifers.

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to the Director of the Office of Pipeline and Producer Regulation by Commission Order No. 97, issued in Docket No. RM80-68 (45 FR 53456, August 12, 1980), notice is hereby given of the proposal submitted by Ohio that the Berea Sandstone and the "Second Berea" zone of the Bedford Shale, as described and delineated in Ohio's recommendation as filed with the Commission, be designated as a tight formation pursuant to § 271.703.

IV. Public Comment Procedures

Interested persons may comment on this proposed rulemaking by submitting written data, views or arguments to the Office of the Secretary, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, on or before June 3, 1983. Each person submitting a comment should indicate that the comment is being submitted in Docket No. RM79-76-177 (Ohio-2 Addition) and should give reasons including supporting data for any recommendations. Comments should include the name, title, mailing address, and telephone number of one person to whom communications concerning the proposal may be addressed. An original and 14 conformed copies should be filed with the Secretary of the Commission. Written comments will be available for public inspection at the Commission's Division of Public Information, Room 1000, 825 North Capitol Street, NE., Washington, D.C., during business hours.

Any person wishing to present testimony, views, data, or otherwise participate at a public hearing should notify the Commission in writing of a desire to make an oral presentation and therefore request a public hearing. Such request shall specify the amount of time requested at the hearing. Requests should be filed with the Secretary of the Commission no later than May 4, 1983.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Internal Revenue Service

26 CFR Part 1

Substantiation of Charitable Contributions

AGENCY: Internal Revenue Service, Treasury.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations relating to substantiation requirements for charitable contributions by itemizing and nonitemizing taxpayers. The proposed regulations are prompted by changes to the applicable tax law made by the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981. The regulations would affect all taxpayers claiming deductions for charitable contributions.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by June 24, 1983. The proposed amendments provide new rules for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1982.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T, [LR–255–81], Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Linda M. Kroening of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224 (Attention: CC:LR:T) (202–566–3297).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Section 121 of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 amended sections 63 and 170 of the Code by providing a deduction from adjusted gross income for charitable contributions made by taxpayers who do not itemize deductions. The legislative history of the new provision reflects the expectation that regulations would be developed to provide appropriate substantiation requirements, in addition to the currently applicable requirements, to assure substantiation and verification of charitable deductions.

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under sections 63 and 170 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. These amendments provide new substantiation requirements for taxpayers claiming charitable contribution deductions. The amendments are to be issued under the authority contained in section 7805 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (68A Stat. 917; 26 U.S.C. 7805).

Explanation of Provisions

For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1982, the proposed amendments would require a corporate or individual taxpayer making a charitable contribution of money to maintain a canceled check, a receipt, or other reliable written evidence showing the amount of the charitable contribution, the date contributed, and the name of the donee. This information would have to be stated in the taxpayer's income tax return if required by the return form or its instructions. For purposes of these proposed amendments, a letter or other communication from the donee acknowledging receipt of the contribution and showing the date and amount of the contribution would constitute a receipt. In the absence of a canceled check or receipt, the reliability of the other written evidence will depend on the facts and circumstances of a particular case but, in all events, the burden shall be on the taxpayer to establish reliability. Factors indicating that such other written evidence is reliable include, but are not limited to, the contemporaneous nature of the writing evidencing the contribution, the regularity of the taxpayer's recordkeeping procedures, and, in the case of a contribution of a small amount, any other written evidence from the donee charitable organization evidencing receipt of a donation that would not otherwise constitute a receipt under § 1.170A–13(a)(2).

The proposed amendments would generally require a corporate or individual taxpayer making a charitable contribution of property other than money to have a receipt from the donee charitable organization and a reliable written record of specified information with respect to the donated property. A receipt would have to include the name of the donee, the date and location of the contribution, and a description of the property in sufficient detail to identify the particular property contributed. A letter or other communication from the donee charitable organization acknowledging receipt of a donation and describing the donated property in sufficient detail to identify the particular property contributed would constitute a receipt for purposes of these proposed amendments. An exception to the receipt requirement is provided in cases where the contribution is made in circumstances where it is impractical to obtain a receipt. In these cases, the taxpayer would be required to maintain the reliable written record of specified information with respect to each item of donated property. The reliability of such written records will depend on the facts and circumstances of a particular case but, in all events, the burden shall be on the taxpayer to establish reliability. Factors indicating that such written records are reliable include, but are not limited to, the contemporaneous nature of the writing evidencing the contribution, and the regularity of the taxpayer's recordkeeping procedures. Information contained in a receipt or in a written record would have to be stated in the taxpayer's income tax return if required by the return or its instructions.

Finally, for charitable contributions of property other than money for which the taxpayer claims a deduction in excess of $500, the taxpayer would be required to maintain additional records regarding the manner of acquisition of the property and the property's cost or other basis if it was held for less than one year prior to the date of contribution. For property held for one year or more preceding the date of contribution, cost or other basis information should be maintained by the taxpayer if it is available. The information required by the proposed amendments would have to be stated in the taxpayer's income tax return if required by the return form or its instructions.

Regulatory Flexibility Act and Executive Order 12291

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this rule is not a major rule for purposes of Executive Order 12291. Accordingly, a regulatory impact analysis is not required. The Secretary of the Treasury has certified that this regulation if promulgated will not have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, a regulatory flexibility analysis is not required.

Comments and Requests for a Public Hearing

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably seven copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the Federal Register.

Drafting Information

The principal author of these proposed regulations was Linda M. Kroening of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnei from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulation, on matters of both substance and style.

Proposed Amendments to the Regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 are as follows:

PART 1—[AMENDED]

Paragraph 1. New § 1.170A–13 is added immediately after 1.170A–12 to read as follows:

§ 1.170A–13 Recordkeeping and return requirements for deductions for charitable contributions.

(a) Post–1982 charitable contributions of money. In regard to claims for deductions for charitable contributions of money for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1982, the taxpayer shall maintain one of the following for each contribution:

(1) A canceled check;

(2) A receipt from the donee charitable organization showing the date of the contribution, the amount, and the name of the donee (including a letter or other communication from the donee acknowledging receipt of the contribution and showing the date and amount of the contribution);

(3) In the absence of a canceled check or a receipt from the donee charitable organization, other reliable written evidence showing the name of the charitable donee and the date and amount of the contribution. The reliability of such other written evidence is to be determined on the basis of all of the facts and circumstances of a particular case. In all events, however, the burden shall be on the taxpayer to establish reliability. Factors indicating that such other written evidence is reliable include, but are not limited to:

(i) The contemporaneous nature of the writing evidencing the contribution and the regularity of the taxpayer's recordkeeping procedures. For example, a contemporaneous diary entry stating the amount and date of the donation and the name of the donee charitable organization made by a taxpayer who regularly makes such diary entries would generally be considered reliable.

(ii) In the case of a contribution of a small amount, any written or other evidence from the donee charitable organization evidencing receipt of a donation that would not otherwise constitute a receipt under paragraph (a)(2) of this section (including an emblem, button, or other token traditionally associated with a charitable organization and regularly given by the organization to persons making cash donations).

Information concerning the date and amount of the contribution and the name of the donee shall be stated in the taxpayer's income tax return if required by the return form or its instructions.

(b) Post-1982 charitable contributions of property other than money—(1) In general. If a taxpayer makes a charitable contribution of property other than money in a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1982, the taxpayer shall have in his or her records a receipt from the donee charitable organization that includes the name of the organization to which the contribution was made, the date and location of the actual contribution, and a description of the property in sufficient detail to identify the particular property contributed. A letter or other communication from the donee charitable organization acknowledging receipt of a donation and describing the donated property in sufficient detail to identify the particular property contributed constitutes a receipt for purposes of this paragraph. A receipt is not required if the contribution is made in circumstances where it is impractical to obtain a receipt (e.g., by depositing property at a charity's unattended drop site). In all cases, however, the taxpayer shall maintain reliable written records with respect to each item of donated property that include the information required by subdivisions (i) through (vii) of this paragraph. Factors indicating that such written records are reliable, include, but are not limited to, the contemporaneous nature of the writing evidencing the contribution and the regularity of the taxpayer's recordkeeping procedures. In all events, the burden shall be on the taxpayer to establish the reliability of such written records. These written records shall include the following informtion and such information shall be stated in the taxpayer's income tax return if required by the return form or its instructions:

(i) The name of the organization to which the contribution was made.

(ii) The date and location of the actual contribution.

(iii) A description of the property in sufficient detail to identify the particular property contributed, including in the case of tangible property the physical condition of the property at the time of the contribution, and, in the case of securities, the name of the issuer, the type of security, and whether or not such security is regularly traded on a stock exchange or in an over-the-counter market.

(iv) The fair market value of the property at the time the contribution was made, the method utilized in determining the fair market value, and, if the valuation was determined by appraisal, a copy of the signed report of the appraiser.

(v) In the case of property to which section 170(e) applies, the cost or other basis, adjusted as provided by section 1016, the reduction by reason of section 170(e)(1) in the amount of the charitable contribution otherwise taken into account, and the manner in which such reduction was determined. A taxpayer who elects under paragraph (d)(2) of § 1.170A–8 to apply section 170(e)(1) to contributions and carryovers of 30 percent capital gain property shall maintain a written record indicating the years for which the election was made and showing the contributions in the current year and carryovers from preceding years to which it applies. For the definition of the term "30-percent capital gain property", see paragraph (d)(3) of § 1.170A–8.

(vi) If less than the entire interest in the property is contributed during the taxable year, the total amount claimed as a deduction for the taxable year due to the contribution of the property, and the amount claimed as a deduction in any prior year or years for contributions of other interests in such property, the name and address of each organization to which any such contribution was made, the place where any such property which is tangible property is located or kept, and the name of any person, other than the organization to which the property giving rise to the deduction was contributed, having actual possession of the property.

(vii) The terms of any agreement or understanding entered into by or on behalf of the taxpayer which relates to the use, sale, or disposition of the property contributed, as, for example, the terms of any agreement or understanding which—

(A) Restricts temporarily or permanently the donee's right to dispose of the donated property,

(B) Reserves to, or confers upon anyone other than the donee organization or other than an organization participating with such organizations in cooperative fundraising, any right to the income from such property or to the posssion of the property, including the right to vote securities, to acquire such property by purchase or otherwise, or to designate the person having such income, possession, or right to acquire, or

(C) Earmarks contributed property for a particular charitable use, such as the use of donated furniture in the reading room of the donee organization's library.

(2) Deductions in excess of $500 claimed for a charitable contribution of property other than money. In addition to the information required under paragraph (b)(1) of this section, if a taxpayer makes a charitable contribution of property other than money in a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1982, and claims a deduction in excess of $500 in respect of the contribution of such item, the taxpayer shall maintain written records that include the following information with respect to such item of donated property, and shall state such information in his or her income tax return if required by the return form or its instructions:

(i) The manner of acquisition, as, for example by purchase, gift bequest, inheritance, or exchange, and the approximate date of acquisition of the property by the taxpayer or, if the property was created, produced, or manufactured by or for the taxpayer, the approximate date the property was substantially completed.

(ii) The cost or other basis, adjusted as provided by section 1016, of property, other than securities held by the taxpayer for a period of less than one year immediately preceding the date on which the contribution was made and, when the information is available, of property, other than securities, held for a period of one year or more preceding the date on which the contribution was made.

Par. 2 Paragraph (a) of § 1.170A–1 is amended by removing its heading, redesignating paragraph (a)(1) as paragraph (a), adding two cross-references, and removing "section 170(h)" and adding "section 170(g)" in lieu thereof. These redesignated, added, and revised provisions read as follows:

§ 1.170A–1 Charitable, etc., contributions and gifts; allowance of deduction.

(a) Allowance of deduction. Any charitable contribution, as defined in section 170(c), actually paid during the taxable year is allowable as a deduction in computing taxable income irrespective of the method of accounting employed or of the date on which the contribution is pledged. However, charitable contributions by corporations may under certain circumstances be deductible even though not paid during the taxable year, as provided in section 170(a)(2) and § 1.170A–11. For rules relating to record keeping and return requirements in support of deductions for charitable contributions (whether by an itemizing or nonitemizing taxpayer) see § 1.170A–13 The deduction is subject to the limitations of section 170(b) and § 1.170A–8 or § 1.170A–11. Subject to the provisions of section 170(d) and §§ 1.170A–10 and 1.170A–11, certain excess charitable contributions made by individuals and corporations shall be treated as paid in certain succeeding taxable years. For provisions relating to direct charitable deductions under section 63 by nonitemizers, see section 63 (b)(1)(C) and (i) and section 170(i). For rules relating to the determination of, and the deduction for, amounts paid to maintain certain students as members of the taxpayer's household and treated under section 179(g) as paid for the use of an organization described in section 170(c) (2), (3), or (4), see § 1.170A–2. For the reductrion of any charitable contributions for interest on certain indebtedness, see section 170(f)(5) and § 1.170A–3. For a special rule relating to the computation of the amount of the deduction with respect to a charitable contribution of certain ordinary income or capital gain property, see section 170(e) and § 1.170A–4 and § 1.170A–4A. For rules for postponing the time for deduction of a charitable contribution of a future interest in tangible personal property, see section 170(a)(3) and § 1.170A–5. For rules with respect to transfers in trust and of partial interests in property, see section 170(e), section 170(f) (2) and (3), § 1.170A–4, § 1.170A–6, and § 1.170A–7. For definition of the term "section 170(b)(1)(A) organization," see § 1.170A–9. For valuation of a remainder interest in real property, see section 170(f)(4) and the regulations thereunder. VETERANS ADMINISTRATION

Health Professional Scholarship Program

AGENCY: Veterans Administration.

ACTION: Proposed regulations.

SUMMARY: The Veterans' Administration Health Care Amendments of 1980, Public Law 96–330, established the Veterans' Administration Health Professional Scholarship Program. Under that law, the Veterans Administration was authorized to award scholarships only to students attending school full-time. Section 3 Public Law 97–251, Veterans' Administration Health-Care Programs Improvement and Extension Act of 1982, amended the law to authorize the Veterans Administration to award scholarships to full-time Veterans Administration employees working in Veterans Administration health care facilities, who will attend school part-time. These proposed changes to Veterans Administration medical regulations will implement provisions of Section 3 of Public Law 97–251.

DATE: Comments must be received on or before May 25, 1983.

ADDRESS: Interested persons are invited to submit written comments, suggestions, or objections regarding this proposed regulation to: Administrator of Veterans Affairs (271A), 810 Vermont Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20420. All written comments received will be available for public inspection only in the Veterans Services Unit, room 132, of the above address, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday (except holidays) until June 9, 1983.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ms. Dorothy E. Reese, Director, VA Health Professional Scholarship Program (202) 389–5071.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Excutive Order 12291

The Administrator has determined that these regulations are non-major as that term is defined by Executive Order 12291. The proposed regulations will apply to individuals seeking benefits of the program. The proposed regulations will not result in (1) an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more; (2) a major increase in costs or prices for consumer, individual industries, Federal, State or local government agencies or geographic regions; or (3) significant adverse effects on competition, employment investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprise to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

Regulatory Flexibility

The Administrator has certified that these proposed regulations will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as they are defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), 5 U.S.C. 601–612. Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 605(b), these proposed regulations are therefore exempt from the initial and final regulatory flexibility analyses requirements of sections 603 and 604. The reason for this certification is that these proposed rules will, almost exclusively, be directed to individuals who wish to apply for assistance from the VA Health Professional Scholarship Program. They will, therefore, have no significant direct impact on small entities (i.e., small business, small private and non-profit organizations, and small governmental jurisdictions.)

Paperwork Reduction Act

Information collection requirements contained in these regulations (38 CFR 17.600–17.612) have been approved by the Office of Management and Budget under the provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, P.L. 96–511, and have been assigned OMB control number 2900–0352.

The Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance number for this program is 64.023.

* * * * *

(r) "Part-time student" means an individual who is a VA employee permanently assigned to a VA health care facility who has been accepted for enrollment or enrolled for study leading to a degree in medicine, osteopathy or nursing on a less than full-time but not less than half-time basis.

3. In § 17.602, paragraph (b) is redesignated as paragraph (c) and revised and a new paragraph (b) is added so that the added and revised material reads as follows:

§ 17.602 Eligibility.

* * * * *

(b) To be eligible for a scholarship as a part-time student under this program, an applicant must satisfy requirements of paragraph (a) of this section and in addition must—

(1) Be a full-time VA employee permanently assigned to a VA health care facility at the time of application and on the date when the scholarship is awarded;

(2) Remain a VA employee for the duration of the scholarship award. (38 U.S.C. 4142(g)(1))

(c) Any applicant who, at the time of application, owes a service obligation to any other entity to perform service after completion of the course of study is ineligible to receive a scholarship under the Veterans Administration Scholarship Program. (38 U.S.C. 4142(a)(4))

§ 17.603 [Amended]

4. Section 17.603 is amended by adding the following sentence to the end of that section: "The Administrator has the authority to determine the number of scholarships to be awarded in any fiscal year, and the number that will be awarded to full-time and part-time students."; and by adding "and (d)(1)" after "(c)(2)" in the authority citation.

5. Section 17.605 is revised to read as follows:

§ 17.605 Selection of participants.

(a) General. In deciding which Scholarship Program applications will be approved by the Administrator, priority will be given to applicants who previously received scholarship awards and who meet the conditions of paragraph (d) of this section. Except for continuation awards (see paragraph (d) of this section) applicants will be evaluated under the criteria specified in paragraph (b) of this section. A situation may occur in which there are a larger number of equally qualified applicants than there are awards to be made. In such cases, a random method may be used as the basis for selection. In selecting participants to receive awards as part-time students, the Administrator may, at his/her discretion—

(1) Award scholarships geographically to part-time students so that available scholarships may be distributed on a relatively equal basis to students working throughout the VA health care system, and/or

(2) Award scholarships on the basis of retention needs within the VA health care system. (38 U.S.C. 4142(c)(1))

(b) Selection. In evaluating and selecting participants, the Administrator will take into consideration those factors determined necessary to assure effective participation in the Scholarship Program. The factors may include, but not be limited to—

(1) Work experience, including prior health care employment and VA employment;

(2) Faculty and employer recommendations;

(3) Academic performance; and

(4) Career goals. (38 U.S.C. 4142(i))

(c) Selection of part-time students. Factors in addition to those specified in paragraph (b) of this section, which may be considered in awarding scholarships to part-time students may include, but are not limited to:

(1) Length of service of a VA employee in a health care facility;

(2) Honors and awards received from the VA, and other sources;

(3) VA work performance evaluation;

(4) A recommendation for selection for a part-time scholarship from a VA Medical District. (38 U.S.C. 4142(d)(1))

(d) Duration of scholarship award. Subject to the availability of funds for the Scholarship Program, the Administrator will award a participant a full-time scholarship under these regulations for a period of from 1 to 4 school years and a participant of a part-time scholarship for a period of 1 to 6 school years. (38 U.S.C. 4142(e)(1)(A) and (g)(3); 4146)

(e) Continuation awards. Subject to the availability of funds for the Scholarship Program and selection, the Administrator will award a continuation scholarship for completion of the degree for which the scholarship was awarded if—

(1) The award will not extend the total period of Scholarship Program support beyond 4 years for a full-time scholarship, and beyond 6 years for a part-time scholarship; and

(2) The participant remains eligible for continued participation in the Scholarship Program. (38 U.S.C. 4142(c)(1)(i))

6. Section 17.606 is revised to read as follows:

§ 17.606 Award procedures.

(a) Amount of scholarship.—(1) A scholarship award will consist of (i) tuition and required fees, (ii) other educational expenses, including books and laboratory equipment, and (iii) except as provided in paragraph (a)(2) of this section, a monthly stipend, for the duration of the scholarship award. All such payments to scholarship participants are exempt from Federal taxation. (38 U.S.C. 4145)

(2) No stipend may be paid to a participant who is a full-time VA employee.

(3) The Administrator may determine the amount of the stipend paid to participants, whether part-time students or full-time students, but that amount may not exceed the maximum amount provided for in 38 U.S.C. 4142(f)(1)(B).

(4) In the case of a part-time student who is a part-time employee, the maximum stipend, if more than a nominal stipend is paid, will be reduced in accordance with the proportion that the number of credit hours carried by such participant bears to the number of credit hours required to be carried by a full-time student in the course of training being pursued by the participant.

(5) A full stipend may be paid only for the months the part-time student is attending classes. (38 U.S.C. 4142(g)(2)(A))

(6) The Administrator may make arrangements with the school in which the participant is enrolled for the direct payment of the amount of tuition and/or reasonable educational expenses on the participant's behalf. (38 U.S.C. 4142(f)(1) and (2); 4145)

(b) Leave-of-absence, repeated course work. The Administrator will suspend scholarship payments to or on behalf of a participant if the school (1) approves a leave-of-absence for the participant for health, personal, or other reasons, or (2) requires the participant to repeat course work for which the Administrator previously has made payments under the Scholarship Program. Additional costs relating to the repeated course work will not be paid under this program. Any scholarship payments suspended under this section will be resumed by the Administrator upon notification by the school that the participant has returned from the leave-of-absence or has satisfactorily completed the repeated course work and is proceeding as a full-time student in the course of study for which the scholarship was awarded. (38 U.S.C. 4142(i))

7. In § 17.607, paragraphs (b) and (c) are revised, paragraph (d) is redesignated as (e) and a new paragraph (d) is added; paragraph (e) is redesignated as (f); and the title of new paragraph (e) is changed from "Service by detail." to "Service in another Federal agency or the Armed Forces." Revised and added paragraphs (b), (c) and (d) read as follows:

* * * * *

(b) Beginning of service.—(1) Except as provided in paragraph (b)(2) of this section, a participant's obligated service shall begin on the date the Administrator appoints the participant as a full-time VA employee in the VA's Department of Medicine and Surgery in a position for which the degree program prepared the participant. The Administrator shall appoint the participant to such position within 60 days after the participant's degree completion date, or the date the participant becomes licensed in a State to practice nursing, medicine, or osteopathy, whichever is later. At least 60 days prior to the appointment date, the Administrator shall notify the participant of the work assignment, its location, and the date he or she must begin work.

(2) Obligated service shall begin on the degree completion date for a participant who, on that date, is a full-time VA employee working in a capacity for which the degree program prepared the participant. (38 U.S.C. 4143 (b) and (c))

(c) Duration of service. The period of obligated service for a participant who attended school as a full-time student shall be one year for each school year for which the participant received a scholarship award under these regulations, or two years, whichever is greater. The period of obligated service for a participant who attended school as a part-time student shall be reduced from that which a full-time student must serve in accordance with the proportion that the number of credit hours carried by the part-time student in any school year bears to the number of credit hours required to be carried by a full-time student, whichever is the greater, but shall be a minimum of one year of full-time employment (38 U.S.C. 4142(e)(1)(B)(iv))

(d) Location for service. A participant who received a scholarship as a part-time student may serve the period of obligated service at the health care facility where the individual was assigned when the scholarship was awarded. (38 U.S.C. 4143(c)(1) (A) and (B))

* * * * *

8. In § 17.610, paragraph (b) is revised to read as follows:

§ 17.610 Failure to comply with terms and conditions of participation.

* * * * *

(b) If a participant:

(1) Fails to maintain an acceptable level of academic standing;

(2) Is dismissed from the school for disciplinary reasons;

(3) Voluntarily terminates the course of study or program for which the scholarship was awarded including in the case of a full-time student, a reduction of course load from full-time to part-time before completing the course of study or program;

(4) Fails to become licensed to practice medicine or osteopathy in a state or fails to become licensed as a registered nurse in a State within one year from the date such person becomes eligible to apply for State licensure; or

(5) Is a part-time student and fails to maintain employment in a permanent assignment in a VA health care facility while enrolled in the course of training being pursued, the participant must instead of performing any service obligation, pay to the United States an amount equal to all scholarship funds awarded under the written contract executed in accordance with § 17.602. Payment of this amount must be made within 1 year from the date academic training terminates unless a longer period is necessary to avoid hardship. No interest will be charged on any part of this indebtedness. (38 U.S.C. 4144(b))

Operation of Self Powered Vehicle Detectors in Highway Maintenance Radio Service

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: In this Notice of Proposed Rule Making, the Commission is responding to comments received following issuance of a Notice of Inquiry which sought to determine the degree of interest in a newly developed device, the Self Powered Vehicle Detector. This device, coupled with conventional traffic signal controllers will sense traffic movements and adjust traffic light timing without the need for wires buried in the pavement as present systems require. It is expected to provide high reliability at lower cost and less maintenance then loop detectors.

Proposed Rule Making

In the matter of: amendment of part 90 of the Commission's rules regarding the allocation and assignment of radio frequency channels for a self-powered vehicle detector; PR Docket 82-326, RM-3909.

Adopted: April 7, 1983.

Released: April 14, 1983.

By the Commission: Commissioner Fogarty absent.

Summary

1. In this Notice of Proposed Rule Making, the Commission proposes to amend the Highway Maintenance Radio Service Rules to provide for operation of self-powered vehicle detectors. These devices, developed by the Federal Highway Administration, can be used for traffic flow monitoring and control purposes without the use of buried wires connecting them to signal controllers of traffic counting devices. They would be particularly useful for temporary setups at construction sites where they could be installed on short notice and removed when they were no longer required. It is proposed that they be operated in the 47 MHz range.

Background

2. On May 20, 1981, the Commission received a Petition for rule making from the Department of Transportation (RM-3909) asking that the rules be amended to provide frequencies for a newly-developed device, the self-powered vehicle detector (SPVD).

3. The petition was placed on public notice and comments were received from three parties, all of them addressing the question of possible interference to existing services. Since no comments were received from organizations that desired the Commission to proceed with a rule making action looking toward adoption of rules to permit the operation of the SPVD, on June 15, 1982, the Commission adopted a Notice of Inquiry to determine whether or not there was sufficient interest to justify initiation of a rule making proceeding (FCC 82-276, 47 FR 28429, June 30, 1982).

4. In response to this Notice of Inquiry, comments were received from the following parties:

American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials, Inc. (AASHTO)
CBS, Inc. (CBS)
City of Kettering, Ohio (Kettering)
City of Overland Park, Kansas (Overland Park)
City of San Antonio, Texas (San Antonio)
County of Nassau, New York (Nassau County)
County of Volusia, Florida (Volusia County)
Department of Transportation (DOT)
General Electric Company (GE)
Metropolitan Dade County (Dade County)
Montgomery County, Maryland (Montgomery County)
N.A.P. Consumer Electronics Corp. (N.A.P.)
Solid State Devices (Solid State)
State of Maine Department of Transportation (Maine)

Reply comments were received from the U.S. Department of Transportation and Associated Public Safety Communications Officers, Inc. (APCO). The Comments from the Department of Transportation were accompanied by letters from 53 municipalities and other organizations endorsing the concept of the self-powered vehicle detector and urging the Commission to assign frequencies for its use.

5. The self-powered vehicle detector is a battery operated device encased in a cylinder that can be buried in a traffic lane for the purpose of detecting vehicles as they pass. It consists of a magnetometer which senses the distortion of the earth's magnetic field whenever a ferromagnetic object is nearby. The magnetometer output is fed into a radio transmitter which transmits two 30 millisecond pulses for each vehicle detected. Transmitter output is radiated by a spiral-wound antenna which is intergral with the transmitter housing. The entire device including the antenna is placed in a hole drilled in the road surface in each traffic lane to be monitored. For a dual highway where every lane must be monitored at an intersection, eight units would be required plus four more if there are left turn lanes. To avoid destructive interference among the units, eight or twelve frequencies would be needed at each such intersection. The range of the units, however, is so short that the same frequencies can be re-used at successive intersections unless they are unusually close together. When a vehicle is detected, the transmitted pulses are received by a nearby receiver whose output is routed to a micro-computer which monitors all lanes at the intersection. The microcomputer adjusts the traffic signal cycle in accordance with traffic flow in the various lanes.

6. Both the N.A.P. and CBS comments addressed the possibility of interference to television reception based on the original proposal to use frequencies between 45.07 and 45.85 MHz in the Police and Local Government Radio Services. None of the other comments addressed this subject.

7. Nassau County, Maine, Overland Park, Volusia County, and Montgomery County all expressed enthusiasm for the SPVD, pointing to its ease of maintenance and cost effectiveness. Solid State Devices urged the Commission to assign frequencies for the SPVD so it could proceed with refinement and marketing of the device. Kettering responded to the question in the NOI regarding possible interference from patrol car transmissions. They reported no such interference based on their experience with an SPVD installed at an intersection for two years. During that time, the controller malfunctioned occasionally, but not the SPVD. APCO supported AASHTO, which recommended the assignment of frequencies for the operation of the SPVD. Other comments were also supportive. None were negative. General Electric suggested that the proposed operation be placed in the low-band channels of the Highway Maintenance Radio Service and be subject to coordination by the Highway Maintenance Coordinator for the area.

Discussion

8. The Commission is convinced by the number and strength of the comments in response to the NOI that there is a demonstrated need for these devices and that no harmful interference will result from their use.[1] Notwithstanding the demonstrated low likelihood of interference to television receivers, the Commission will not now propose to assign frequencies for the SPVD's in the 45 MHz range. Instead, the Commission will propose operation in the Highway Maintenance Radio Service between 47.02 and 47.40 MHz so as to obviate entirely any likelihood of interference to television reception. Moreover, we are proposing that all operation of SPVD's be on a secondary, non-interference basis to those land mobile stations authorized to use these frequencies on a primary basis. The attached Appendix lists the frequencies on which SPVD operation is proposed.

9. Regarding the need for separate authorizations for SPVD, in Docket 82-183 (47 FR 54450, December 3, 1982), we eliminated the requirement in the public safety radio services for separate licenses for operation of radar units if they already operated land mobile stations. It appears that the same approach is appropriate for SPVD's, which share a number of characteristics of the Doppler radar units—low likelihood of interference to other services, large numbers expected to be used, and operation only by public safety users. Respondents to this Notice of Proposed Rule Making should address the question of whether the Commission should require separate licensing of SPVD's or permit their operation by any public safety radio service user who is the licensee of a land mobile radio, as proposed. A second, and related, question that we would like prospective users to consider in their comments is: Should the Commission require SPVD users to maintain records of the number of units used on each frequency as is now required of police radar users?

10. The Notice of Inquiry, asked those commenting to state whether they favored operation of the SPVD's under Part 15 or under Part 90. Under Part 15, no license would be required, whereas under Part 90, some licensing procedure would apply. Only two commenters responded to this question, AASHTO and DOT. The reason given by both for preferring licensing under Part 90 was the same, that coordinators can select frequencies with low probability of interference to the SPVD from other services. However, we do not anticipate that frequency coordination will be necessary for these devices, if specific licensing is not required. Interested parties should, therefore, address this issue.

11. The Commission certifies that Sections 603 and 604 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 do not apply to the rules proposed in this Notice of Proposed Rule Making because they will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The proposed rules do not place any requirements on any entity, large or small. The use of selfpowered vehicle detectors would be authorized under the proposed rules to those entities that wish to use them. It is anticipated that a small benefit will accrue to those who choose to use these devices because of the lower cost and greater reliability, compared to currently available traffic control sensing devices.

12. Accordingly, notice is hereby given of rule making to amend Part 90 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations in accordance with the proposal set forth in the attached Appendix. The Secretary is directed to serve a copy on the Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration.

13. We encourage all interested parties to respond to this Notice since such information as they may provide often forms the basis for further Commission action. For purposes of this non-restricted notice and comment rule making proceeding, members of the public are advised that ex parte contacts are permitted from the time the Commission adopts a Notice of Proposed Rule Making until the time a public notice is issued stating that a substantive disposition of the matter is to be considered at a forthcoming meeting or until a final order disposing of the matter is adopted by the Commission, whichever is earlier. In general, an ex parte presentation is any written or oral communication (other than formal written comments/pleadings and formal oral arguments) between a person outside the Commission and a Commissioner or a member of the Commission's staff which addresses the merits of the proceeding. Any person who initiates an oral ex parte presentation addressing matters not fully covered in any previously filed written comments for the proceeding must prepare a written summary of that presentation. On the day of oral presentation, that written summary must be served on the Commission's Secretary for inclusion in the public file, with a copy to the Commission official receiving the oral presentation. Each ex parte presentation described above must state on its face that the Secretary has been served, and must also state by docket number the proceeding to which it relates. See generally, § 1.1231 of the Commission's Rules, 47 CFR 1.1231.

14. Authority for issuance of the Notice is contained in Sections 4(i) and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. 4(i) and 303(r). Pursuant to procedures set out in § 1.415 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations, 47 CFR 1.415, interested persons may file comments on or before: May 23, 1983 and reply comments on or before: June 7, 1983. All relevant and timely comments will be considered by the Commission before final action is taken in this proceeding. In reaching its decision, the Commission may take into account information and ideas not contained in the Comments, provided that such information or a writing indicating the nature and source of such information is placed in the public file, and provided that the fact of the Commission's reliance on such information is noted in the Report and Order.

15. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.419 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations, 47 CFR 1.419, formal participants shall file an original and five (5) copies of their comments and other materials. Participants wishing each commissioner to have a personal copy of their comments should file an original and eleven (11) copies. Members of the general public who wish

[1] The SPVD operates with a power input to the final amplifier stage of 200 milliwatts. Transmitter output is 100 mw. Since the radiated signal at 300 feet distance is only 77 uv/m and the duty cycle is two 30 ms. pulses for each vehicle detected, interference to existing services is believed to be unlikely. Ten Year License Terms in General Mobile Radio Service

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: The Commission proposes to amend Part 95 of its Rules to authorize ten year license terms in the General Mobile Radio Service (GMRS). The Communications Amendments Act of 1982 authorized a license term not to exceed ten years in the General Mobile Radio Service. We find it necessary to extend the licensing term to save Commission resources and to reduce public burden hours.

DATES: Comments are due by June 13, 1983 and replies by July 13, 1983.

Proposed Rule Making

Adopted: March 31, 1983.
Released: April 13, 1983

By the Commission:

In the matter of: Amendment of part 95 of the Commission's Rules to authorize ten year license terms in the General Mobile Radio Service (GMRS); PR Docket No. 83–330.

Introduction

1. The Commission proposes to amend Part 95 to authorize ten year license terms in the General Mobile Radio Service (GMRS).

Background

2. The General Mobile Radio Service is a private short-distance radio-communications service for the business or personal activities of licensees. During 1982 there were over 2200 new licenses issued in the GMRS; over 600 licenses were modified and 200 licenses were renewed. These licenses were granted for terms of five years. However, the Communications Amendments Act of 1982, Pub. L. 97–259, enacted September 13, 1982, has made it possible to extend the maximum license term to ten years.

Proposal

3. The Commission proposes to extend the maximum license term in the GMRS to ten years. Extending license terms in the GMRS from five to ten years would significantly reduce the number of license renewals processed. While the GMRS data base would only be expunged every ten years, we believe that maintaining licensees who are no longer active on the Commission's records would not have any substantial adverse impact, and that the resources saved and decrease of administrative burden on the Commission resulting from permitting ten year licenses far outweigh this consideration. We anticipate that adoption of the ten year license in the GMRS would result in an annual public burden hour savings of 33 hours.[1]

[1] While we have severe reservations as to possible confusion which may be created, we would, nevertheless, be interested in comments as to the feasibility of immediate implementation of 10-year terms by extending all current licenses by an additional 5 years. We inquire, therefore, whether licenses should be given a blanket, 5-year extension, or whether we should phase-in 10 year licenses as they come up for renewal.

4. Notice is hereby given that it is proposed to amend 47 CFR Part 95 in accordance with the proposed rules set forth in the attached Appendix.

Procedural Matters

5. For purposes of this non-restricted notice and comment rule making proceeding, members of the public are advised that ex parte contacts are permitted from the time the Commission adopts a Notice of Proposed Rule Making until the time a public notice is issued stating that a substantive disposition of the matter is to be considered at a forthcoming meeting or until a final Order disposing of the matter is adopted by the Commission, whichever is earlier. In general, an ex parte presentation is any written or oral communication (other than formal written comments/pleadings and formal oral arguments) between a person outside the Commission and a Commissioner or a member of the Commission's staff which addresses the merits of the proceeding. Any person who submits a written ex parte presentation must serve a copy of that presentation on the Commission's Secretary for inclusion in the public file. Any person who makes an oral ex parte presentation addressing matters not fully covered in any previously-filed written comments for the proceeding must prepare a written summary of that presentation; on the day of oral presentation that written summary must be served on the Commission's Secretary for inclusion in the public file, with a copy to the Commission official receiving the oral presentation. Each ex parte presentation described above must state on its face that the Secretary has been served, and must also state by docket number the proceeding to which it relates. See generally, Section 1.1231 of the Commission's rules, 47 CFR 1.1231. A summary of the Commission's procedures governing ex parte contacts in informal rule makings is available from the Commission's Consumer Assistance Office, FCC Washington, DC 20544, (202) 632–7000.

6. Authority for issuance of this Notice is contained in Sections 4(i) and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. 154(i) and 303(r). Pursuant to applicable procedures set forth in § 1.415 of the Commission's Rules, interested persons may file comments on or before June 13, 1983, and reply comments on or before July 13, 1983. All relevant and timely comments will be considered by the Commission before final action is taken in this proceeding. In reaching its decision, the Commission may take into consideration information and ideas not contained in the comments, provided that such information or a writing indicating the nature and source of such information is placed in the public file, and provided that the fact of the Commission's reliance on such information is noted in the Report and Order.

7. In accordance with Section 1.419 of the Commission's Rules 47 CFR 1.419, formal participants must file an original and five copies of their comments and other materials. Participants who wish each Commissioner to have a personal copy of their comments should file an original and eleven copies. Members of the general public who wish to express their interest by participating informally may do so by submitting one copy. All comments are given the same consideration, regardless of the number of copies submitted. Each set of comments must state on its face the proceeding to which it relates (PR Docket Number) and should be submitted to: The Secretary, Federal Communications Commission, Washington, DC 20554. All documents will be available for public inspection during regular business hours in the Commission's Public Reference Room at its headquarters in Washington, D.C.

8. In accordance with Section 605 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 (5 U.S.C. 605), the Commission certifies that this rule would not, if promulgated, have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, because this proposal would simply extend the maximum license term in the General Mobil Radio Service, and because this rule would have no foreseeable impact on manufacturers of GMRS equipment.

9. It is ordered that the Secretary shall cause a copy of this Notice to be served upon the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration and that the Secretary shall also cause a copy of this Notice to be published in the Federal Register.

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

In the matter of amendment of Part 97 of the Commission's rules to authorize ten year operator and station license terms and a two year period of grace for renewal of expired licenses in the Amateur Radio Service; [PR Docket No. 83-337; RM-4249.

Adotped: March 31, 1983.
Released: April 13, 1983.

By the Commission:

Introduction

1. The Commission proposes to amend Part 97 to authorize ten year operator and station license terms in the Amateur Radio Service. The Commission also proposes to change the period of grace for renewal of expired amateur radio station and operator licenses to two years.

Background

2. The Commission has before it a petition for rule making, RM–4249, by the American Radio Relay League, Inc. (ARRL) filed on November 30, 1982. This petition requests the Commission to "extend the term for which amateur operator and amateur station licenses are valid, from five years to ten years from the date of issuance of a new or renewal license." The ARRL further requested amendment of the Amateur Rules "to extend from one to two years the grace period in which application may be made to renew an amateur station license which has been allowed to expire."

3. Under the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the maximum license term was five years for licensees other than broadcasting licensees. The Communications Amendments Act of 1982, Pub. L. 97–259, enacted September 13, 1982, extended the maximum license term to ten years.

4. The ARRL claimed that extension of the license terms and the period of grace for renewing expired station licenses as requested would reduce the burden on the public and on the Commission by decreasing the number of renewal applications filed and that "the ten year terms would decrease the burden of filing and processing renewal applications without adversely affecting the Commission's spectrum management capabilities."

5. There are currently over 413,000 licensed amateur radio operators in the Amateur Radio Service. Over 56,000 amateur licenses were modified during 1982 either by change in class of operator license or by change of address of either the licensee or the station location. There were over 25,000 new and 36,000 renewed amateur radio licenses issued by the Commission during this same period.

6. Amateur radio licenses are issued for a full term when modified and it is anticipated that during a ten year term the percentage of licenses modified prior to expiration of a full term will substantially increase

7. With a ten year license, amateur radio station license renewals are projected to decline by approximately 12,000 applications each year. We anticipate that adoption of the ten year license in the Amateur Radio Service will result in an annual public burden hour savings of 100 hours. In addition, extension of the grace period from one two years is expected to materially reduce the number of inadvertently lapsed station licenses.

Proposal

8. The Commission proposes to grant Amateur Radio Service licenses up to a maximum term of ten years with a two year period of grace for the renewal of expired licenses. We anticipate that the extension of license terms will result in a reduction of the time period between application and granting of licenses due to the decrease in the number of license applications for any one year. While the amateur license data base would only be expunged every ten years we believe that maintaining licensees who are no longer active on the Commission's records would not have any substantial adverse impact, and that the resources saved and decrease of administrative burden on the Commission resulting from permitting ten year licenses far outweigh this consideration.[1]

Conclusion

9. Notice is hereby given that it is proposed to amend 47 CFR Part 97 in accordance with the proposed rules set forth in the attached Appendix.

Procedural Matters

10. For purposes of this non-restricted notice and comment rule making proceeding, members of the public are advised that ex parte contacts are permitted from the time the Commission adopts a Notice of Proposed Rule Making until the time a public notice is issued stating that a substantive disposition of the matter is to be considered at a forthcoming meeting or until a final Order disposing of the matter is adopted by the Commission, whichever is earlier. In general, an ex parte presentation is any written or oral communication (other than formal written comments/pleadings and formal oral arguments) between a person outside the Commission and a Commissioner or a member of the Commission's staff which addresses the merits of the proceeding. Any person who submits a written ex parte presentation must serve a copy of that presentation on the Commission's Secretary for inclusion in the public file. Any person who makes an oral ex parte presentation addressing matters not fully covered in any previously-filed written comments for the proceeding must prepare a written summary of that presentation; on the day of oral presentation, that written summary must be served on the Commission's Secretary for inclusion in the public file, with a copy to the Commission official receiving the oral presentation. Each ex parte presentation described above must state on its face that the Secretary has been served, and must also state by docket number the proceeding to which it relates. See generally, § 1.1231 of the Commission's Rules, 47 CFR 1.1231. A summary of the Commission's procedures governing ex parte contacts in informal rule makings is available from the Commission's Consumer Assistance Office, FCC Washington, DC 20554, (202) 632–7000.

11. Authority for issuance of this Notice is contained in Sections 4(i) and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. 154(i) and 303(r). Pursuant to applicable procedures set forth in § 1.415 of the Commission's Rules, interested persons may file comments on or before June 13, 1983, and reply comments on or before July 13, 1983. All relevant and timely comments will be considered by the Commission before final action is taken in this proceeding. In reaching its decision, the Commission may take into consideration information and ideas not contained in the comments, provided that such information or a writing indicating the nature and source of such information is placed in the public file, and provided that the fact of the Commission's reliance on such information is noted in the Report and Order.

12. In accordance with § 1.419 of the Commission's Rules, 47 CFR 1.419, formal participants must file an original and five copies of their comments and other materials. Participants who wish each Commissioner to have a personal copy of their comments should file an original and eleven copies. Members of the general public who wish to express their interest by participating informally may do so by submitting one copy. All comments are given the same consideration, regardless of the number of copies submitted. Each set of comments must state on its face the proceeding to which it relates (PR Docket Number) and should be submitted to: The Secretary, Federal Communications Commission, Washington, DC 20554. All documents will be available for public inspection during regular business hours in the Commission's Public Reference Room at its headquarters in Washington, D.C.

13. In accordance with Section 605 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 (5 U.S.C. 605), the Commission certifies that these rules would not, if promulgated, have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, because these entities may not use the Amateur Radio Service for commercial radio communication (see 47 CFR 97.3(b)) and because these rules would have no foreseeable impact on manufacturers of Amateur Radio Service equipment.

ACTION: Extension of comment period.

SUMMARY: On March 3, 1983 (March 10, 1983; 48 FR 10096), the Agency announced the publication of an Evaluation Report on Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 105, Hydraulic Brake Systems (49 CFR 571.105). The report evaluates the effectiveness and costs of dual master cylinders and front disc brakes for passenger cars. The report is published in response to Executive Order 12291 and is a component of the Departmental Priority Review process for existing regulations. The Agency set May 9, 1983, as the closing date for submitting comments on the evaluation report.

On April 4, 1983, the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association requested the Agency to extend by 60 days the period for submitting comments on the evaluation report. MVMA asked for the extension because they are currently occupied with a review of the Agency's evaluation report on Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard 301 (48 FR 1089).

In order to give additional time to thoroughly analyze the evaluation report, the Agency has decided to extend the comment closing date to June 8, 1983. A further extension would be unacceptable because the comments on the report form an integral part of the Priority Review of Standard 105, which needs to be completed expeditiously.

DATE: Deadline for submission of comments is extended to June 8, 1983.

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration

50 CFR Part 662

[Docket No. 30316–40]

Northern Anchovy Fishery; Notice of Approval and Availability of an FMP Amendment; AGENCY: National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Commerce.

ACTION: Proposed rule; notice of approval and availability of an FMP amendment.

SUMMARY: The Assistant Administrator for Fisheries, NOAA, has approved Amendment 4 to the Northern Anchovy Fishery Management plan (FMP). This action announces the availability of the amendment and proposed regulations for public review. The intended effect of this action is to improve the efficiency of the anchovy reduction fishery operating in the fishery conservation zone off California and to compensate for current uncertainties in biomass estimates.

DATE: Comments are invited until June 9, 1983.

ADDRESSES: Comments should be addressed to Alan W. Ford, Director, National Marine Fisheries Service, Southwest Region, 300 South Ferry Street, Room 2016, Terminal Island, CA 90731. Mark "Comments on Anchovy Amendment" on the outside of the envelope. Copies of the amendment and regulatory impact review are available by writing to either Alan W. Ford or Joseph C. Greenley, Executive Director, Pacific Fishery Management Council, 526 S.W. Mill Street, Portland, OR 97201.

FOR FURTHER IMFORMATION CONTACT: Alan W. Ford, Regional Director, 213–548–2575 or Joseph C. Greenley, Executive Director, 503–221–6352.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Amendment 4 makes two principal changes. The first eliminates the minimum size limit for anchovies landed for reduction purposes and institutes a minimum mesh size to be effective April 1, 1986. The second prescribes a reserve of the reduction harvest quota that would be withheld if scientific evidence demonstrates that the original biomass estimate was too high.

Minimum mesh size

When implemented in 1978, the minimum size limit prohibited the landing for reduction purposes of anchovies less than five inches in total length, with a 15 percent tolerance for undersized fish. The rationale for this restriction was that achovies less than five inches long were not sexually mature and had not yet spawned. However, in 1980, 1981, and 1982, approximately 90 percent of anchovies between four and five inches long were found to be sexually mature. In light of this new information, the size limit restriction was viewed as excessively conservative. Moreover, the size limit was viewed as duplicative. Since immature anchovies are known to concentrate near shore, they alredy are protected from the reduction fishery by existing California area closures within three miles of shore south of Pt. Buchon and by extensions of these closed areas beyond the three-mile zone in five separate areas. In addition, economc disincentives, such as the low oil content of small anchovy and their tendency to become gilled in the nets, thereby slowing fishing operations, will discourage reduction fishery fishermen from purposely catching small anchovy. The minimum mesh-size requirement would prevent the fishery from adopting smaller mesh sizes than are currently used. Although nearly all nets currently used in the reduction fishery would comply with the proposed mesh size requirement, its three-year delayed effectiveness would allow fishermen ample time to replace any nets that may not comply. The use of nets with abnormally small mesh during the grace period is not anticipated, due to the expense of new nets and their relatively long-lived usefulness.

Reduction quota reserve

Due to uncertainty over the accurancy of the official biomass estimate on which harvest quotas are based, the proposed new regulation would reserve half of the total annual reduction quota and half of the total allowable level of foreign fishing (TALFF) for later release if experience in harvesting the first part of the quota verifies the original biomass estimate. The second half of the reduction quota and TALFF would not be released if scientific evidence of anchovy abundance, submitted to the Southwest Regional Director, indicated that the spawning biomass would fall below one million tons (expressed in terms of a larva census or equivalent) if continued harvest in U.S. waters were allowed. The northern area reserve of 10 percent of the total reduction quota or 10,000 short tons, whichever is less, will not be affected by this amendment except as the proposed reduction quota reserve affects the total reduction quota. That is, the 10 percent reserved for the northern area will be calculated based on the first half allocation at the start of the season and on the final reduction quota after the decision is made regarding release of the second half of the reserve. The 10,000 ton ceiling on the northern area reserve will remain in effect.

Classification

The Assistant Administrator has determined that this amendment to the FMP and the proposed implementing regulations comply with the national standards, other provisions of the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act (16 U.S.C. 1801 et seq.), and other applicable law.

The amendment is deemed consistent with the California Coastal Zone Management Plan. Concurrence with this position has been requested from the California Coastal Commission.

An Environmental Assessment (EA) was filed with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) on February 25, 1983. The EA concludes that implementation of this amendment would not have a significant effect on the environment. The optimum yield specified in the FMP remains unchanged. The environmental impacts are positive because the amendment is designed to reduce waste of undersized anchovy, increase efficiency of the reduction fishery, and permit in-year decrease of the reduction harvest quota in light of a revised biomass estimate.

Based on a regulatory impact review, the Administrator of NOAA has determined that the regulations implementing this amendment are not major under Executive Order 12291 and do not require a regulatory impact analysis. These regulations are designed to increase the efficiency of the anchovy reduction fishery in achieving optimum yield without significant adverse impact. Economic impacts will be beneficial. Fishermen will have ample opportunity (three years) to comply with the mesh-size requirements. In addition, fishermen will be able to save the effort they previously spent dumping catches of anchovy that exceed the current size-limit tolerance factor.

The General Counsel of Commerce certified that the regulations implementing this amendment will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities; therefore, no regulatory flexibility analysis is required under provisions of the Regulatory Flexibilty Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.)

The proposed regulations do not require any new "collection of information" as defined in the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. 4501 et seq.); therefore, no paperwork reduction analysis is required.

List of Subjects in 50 CFR Part 662

Fish, Fisheries, Fishing.

Dated: April 19, 1983.

Carmen J. Blondin,

Acting Deputy Assistant Administrator for Fisheries Resource Management, National Marine Fisheries Service.

For the reasons stated in the preamble, 50 CFR Part 662 is proposed to be amended as follows:

PART 662—NORTHERN ANCHOVY FISHERY

1. The authority citation for 50 CFR Part 662 reads as follows:

Authority: 16 U.S.C. 1801 et seq.

2. In § 662.3, paragraph (f) is added to read as follows:

§ 662.3 Quota.

(f) Reduction harvest quotas derived according to the procedure in paragraph (c) of this section will be allocated in two halves. The first half will be release at the beginning of the open season. When 25 percent of the total reduction harvest quota has been landed, but not later than February 1, the Regional Director will issue a public notice of the intent to release the second half and will provide the opportunity for the submission of evidence that the second half should not be released. The Regional Director will not release the second half of the reduction quota if, after consultation with the California Department of Fish and Game and the Public Fishery Management Council, documented indices of anchovy abundance indicate that the anchovy spawning biomass would fall below one million short tons (expressed in terms of a larva census or equivalent) if continued harvest in U.S. waters were allowed. The second half of the reduction harvest quota will be released no later than April 1 if no evidence is submitted or if the Regional Director, in consultation with the California Department of Fish and Game and the Pacific Fishery Management Council, determines that the evidence is insufficient to warrant withholding the second half of the reduction harvest quota.

3. In § 662.5, paragraph (c) is revised to read as follows:

§ 662.5 Reduction fishery.

* * * * *

(c) Minimum mesh size. Authorized fishing gear for the reduction fishery means round haul nets, including purse seines and lampara nets, which have a minimum wet-stretch mesh size of $^{1}\%_{16}$ of an inch, except that the bag portion of a purse seine when wet must have a minimum mesh size of $\%_{16}$ of an inch. The bag portion of a purse seine must be constructed as a single unit and must not exceed 12.5 percent of the total area of the net. Minimum mesh-size requirements are met if a stainless steel wedge can be passed with a thumb pressure only through 16 of 20 sets of two meshes each of wet mesh.

* * * * *

4. In § 662.8, paragraph (b) is revised to read as follows:

§ 662.8 General restrictions.

* * * * *

(b) No person shall take, retain, or land anchovies for reduction purposes unless they are taken with fishing gear authorized in § 662.5(c).

Masters, Mates and Pilots MATES Program; Decision on Application for Duty-Free Entry of Scientific Instrument

The following is a decision on an application for duty-free entry of a scientific instrument pursuant to Section 6(c) of the Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Materials Importation Act of 1966 (Pub. L. 89-651, 80 Stat. 897) and the regulations issued pursuant thereto (15 CFR 301 as amended by 47 FR 32517).

A copy of the record pertaining to this decision is available for public review between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. in Room 1523, Statutory Import Programs Staff, U.S. Department of Commerce, 14th and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20230.

Docket No.: 82-00332. Applicant: Masters, Mates and Pilots MATES Program, 5700 Hammonds Ferry Road, Linthicum Heights, Maryland 21090. Instrument: Ship Operational Research and Education Facility. Manufacturer: Vereinigte Flugtechnische Werke, West Germany. Intended use of instrument: See Notice on page 41798 in the Federal Register of September 22, 1982.

Comments: No comments have been received with respect to this application Decision: Application denied. Because the article possesses no scientific value for the purposes for which it is intended, a prima facie case is not presented upon which to base a finding of scientific equivalency.

Reasons: This application (a resubmission of Docket Number 82-00077) is substantially identicle to Docket Number 82-00194. In that case the applicant disputed our denial without prejudice to resubmission of its initial submission, Docket Number 81-00244. In this application the applicant includes the arguments presented in Docket Number 82-00194 and expands on them. The discussion in our denial of Docket Number 82-00194 (published in this issue of the Federal Register) also applies to this case. Discussion of one of the additional arguments raised by the applicant follows.

In the decision on Docket Number 82-00194 we cited a number of cases showing our consistent administrative practice of either refusing to decide or denying applications under item 851.60 where the intended use of the foreign equipment had no scientific value. In this case, Docket Number 82-00332, the applicant cites several past cases in an attempt to show that we have allowed duty-free entry to equipment imported for vocational purposes.

All but one of these cases involved, what the applicant states is, "approval of numerous applications by occupational and training organizations and junior and community colleges of the West German Clemenz standard construction device for the theory of electricity, designed for instructing students in the principles of electricity for obvious vocational purposes." The remaining case involved our consideration of an application for a planetarium projector intended, the applicant states, "for demonstration purposes and to allow student participation in such courses as Celestial Navigation and Astronomy Workshops for Teachers * * *."

As the applicant indicates the Theory of Electricity kit is designed to teach basic principles of electricity. The manufacturer's literature indicates that one can use the kit for a very wide range of experiments in electromagnetism, electromagnetic induction, measuring instruments, transformers, motors and generators. Forty specific experiments can be conducted. In a memorandum dated July 15, 1968, relating to two of the applications the applicant cited, the National Institutes of Health advised that "* * * These articles are properly classified in the areas of physics, engineering or metrology * * *" Further, in each of the applications cited, the National Bureau of Standard's advice gave no hint that its experts considered the applicant's use of teaching of a non-scientific trade. We, of course, considered teaching the underlying theory of electricity a scientific educational purpose, even though such training was being given in vocational schools or community colleges. If the Department erred in an earlier case, involving a theory of electricity device, which we do believe was the case, we are not obligated to perpetuate the error. We do not believe the case cited involving the planetarium projector is inconsistent with the decision in question here. This planetarium projector is used to teach the science of astronomy. While the institute might regard the Astronomy Workshop for Teachers as vocational training, it fails to consider other scientific uses of the projector in the teaching such as General Astronomy; concepts in Contemporary Astronomy; Concepts in Science, Grades 3 through 12 (how could this be vocational training?) and Our Galaxy and the Universe. Clearly the projector is intended for a variety of scientific education purposes, while the equipment to which this application (Docket Number 82-00332) relates is intended solely to teach a non-scientific trade.

Masters, Mates and Pilots MATES Program; Decision on Application for Duty-Free Entry of Scientific Instrument

The following is a decision on an application for duty-free entry of a scientific instrument pursuant to Section 6(c) of the Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Materials Importation Act of 1966 (Pub. L. 89-651, 80 Stat. 897) and the regulations issued pursuant thereto (15 CFR 301 as amended by 47 FR 32517).

A copy of the record pertaining to this decision is available for public review between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. in Room 1523, Statutory Import Programs Staff, U.S. Department of Commerce, 14th and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20230.

Docket No.: 82-00194. Applicant: Masters, Mates & Pilots MATES Program, 5700 Hammonds Ferry Road, Linthicum Heights, MD 21090. Instrument: Radar Navigational Aid Apparatus. Manufacturer: Vereinigte Flugtechnische Werke (VFW), West Germany. Intended use of instrument: See Notice on page 25396 in the Federal Register of June 11, 1982.

Comments: No comments have been received with respect to this application.

Decision: Application denied. Because the article possesses no scientific value for the purposes for which it is intended, a prima facie case is not presented upon which to base a finding of scientific equivalency.

Reasons: The Institute has disputed our denial without prejudice of Docket No. 81-00244 and asserts that item 851.60 is not limited exclusively to articles imported for use in scientific research or science-oriented education. It argues that item 851.60 also addresses articles intended for use in non-science-oriented education. We are, however, unpersuaded by the Institute's contentions.

Item 851.60 and the preceding superior heading read as follows:

> Articles entered for the use of any non-profit institution, whether public or private, established for educational or scientific purposes:
> 851.60 Instruments and apparatus, if no instrument or apparatus of equivalent scientific value for the purposes for which the instrument or apparatus is intended to be used is being manufactured in the United States (see headnote 6 of this part) (Italics added).

Thus, unless an applicant actually intends that an article will be used by an institution "established for educational or scientific purposes" in a manner which has some "scientific value," within the context of its intended use, the required scientific equivalency determination would be meaningless. Accordingly, to qualify for duty-free entry under item 851.60, an applicant must show that it intends to use the foreign article in either scientific research or formal science-oriented education. Only then can an applicant demonstrate that the foreign article has at least some "scientific value for the purposes for which the instrument or apparatus is intended to be used."

The Institute, however, intends to use the simulator for which it seeks duty-free entry in a manner which we have concluded has no scientific value. As indicated in the initial submission of this application, the Institute intends to use the simulators exclusively to train professional deck officers handling new design ships. Such occupational training is purely vocational in nature and possesses no intrinsic scientific value which will help expand scientific knowledge or our collective understanding of science, either in the abstract or in the applied sense, through scientific research or science-oriented education. Consequently, an article such as this which is intended for purely nonscientific vocational purposes does not qualify for duty-free entry because a prima facie case is not presented on which to base a finding of scientific equivalency. Moreover, if we were to accept the Institute's argument, an instrument or apparatus of any kind manufactured in the United States would certainly have at least an equivalent scientific value (i.e., no scientific value), thereby causing the Institute's application to fail the requirements of item 851.60.

Our reasoning comports with Commerce's consistent administrative practice of either refusing to decide or denying applications under item 851.60 where the applicant's intended use of the foreign article had no scientific value. The first of these actions involving an application in which the intended use lacked scientific value, Application of South Shore Vocational Technical High School, 32 FR 8184 (1967) (intended use: vocational training in precision sheetmetal industry), which is analogous to the instant application, was made shortly after the enactment of item 851.60. See also Application of Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 33 FR 2573 (1968) (art work restoration); Application of Alabama Educational TV Commission, 33 FR 18059 (1968) (normal television broadcasts); Application of Washington State Department of Agriculture, 37 FR 10601 (1972) (enforcement of state regulations); and Application of American Museum of Natural History, 47 FR 31032 (1982) (permanent museum exhibition). In fact, Commerce has utilized this policy in other 851.60 applications for articles intended for maritime training because the intended use lacked scientific value. See Application of Maritime Administration, Doc. No. 73-00214-99-26200 (1972) (marine radar simulator system), and Application of David Lipscomb College (consolidated decision) (see specifically Application of Maritime Administration, Doc. No. 73-00097-99-26200), 38 FR 1656, 1657 (1973) (radar simulator boards)).

Headnote 6, part 4, schedule 8 of the Tariff Schedules of the United Sates, which is referenced item 851.60, also supports our conclusion. Headnote 6(b) provides in relevant part that "[a]n institution desiring to enter an article under item 851.60 shall make application therefor to the Secretary of the Treasury including therein * * * the basis for the institution's belief that no instrument or apparatus of equivalent scientific value for such purposes is being manufactured in the United States * * *" If the application is in proper form,[1] it is forwarded to the Secretary of Commerce who, pursuant to headnote 6(c), solicits comments regarding "the question of whether an instrument or apparatus or equivalent scientific value for the purpose for which the article is intended to be used is being manufactured in the United States." (Italics added)

Headnote 6(c) continues by requiring the Secretary of Commerce, after consideration of these comments, to:

> Determine whether an instrument or apparatus of equivalent scientific value to such article, for the purposes for which the instrument or apparatus is intended to be used, is being manufactured in the United States. Each finding by the Secretary of Commerce under this paragraph shall be promptly reported to the Secretary of the Treasury and to the applicant institution. (Italics added.)

[1] Involves determining whether the institution is qualified, whether the article is classified among tariff items eligible for duty-free entry consideration under item 851.60, TSUS, and whether the application is otherwise complete.

Finally, headnote 6(d) provides:

Item 851.60 shall not apply with respect to any instrument or apparatus unless a bona fide order therefor has been placed, by the institution making the application under this headnote, on or before the sixtieth day following the day on which a finding of the Secretary of Commerce favorable to the institution has become final and conclusive.

Thus, under headnote 6(d), item 851.60 can apply only to articles for which a "favorable" finding as to scientific equivalency of intended purpose has been made by the Secretary of Commerce. No provision broading the scope of article 851.60 appears elsewhere in headnote 6.

Indeed, it is inescapable that Congress intended for the scientific equivalency determination to be the key criterion in determining whether duty-free entry is appropriate. For example, both the Senate and House Reports which accompanied the legislation implementing item 851.60 contain the following unequivocal language:

The most important qualification upon the duty-free entry of instruments and apparatus under item 851.60 is that they are entitled to such treatment only if the Secretary of Commerce finds that no instrument or apparatus of equivalent scientific value for the purposes for which they are intended to be used is being manufactured in the United States.

H.R. Rep. No. 1779, 89th Cong., 2d Sess. 18 (1966); S. Rep. No. 1678, 89th Cong., 2d Sess. 12 (1966).

Thus, unless an applicant intends that the article for which it seeks duty-free entry will serve a scientific purpose, a substantive equivalency determination would be impossible, as it is in this case where the Institute intends to use the simulators in a manner which the record clearly shows and which we find is non-scientific. Accordingly, the simulators are not qualified for item 851.60 treatment.

Furthermore, even if we were to entertain the Institute's arguments regarding the scope of item 851.60, we would still be forced to deny the application. As a matter of procedure, the Institute's resubmitted application failed to comply with former 15 CFR 301.8 (1980). (15 CFR 301.8 was amended after the Institute resubmitted its application. See 47 FR 32517, 32524 (1982). Therefore, the version in effect at the time of resubmission controls for purposes of this case.) Former 15 CFR 301.8 provides in relevant part that after receiving notice of denial without prejudice:

The applicant shall on or before the 20th day following the date of such notice, inform the Deputy Assistant Secretary whether it intends to resubmit another application for the same article for the same intended purposes to which the denied application relates. The applicant shall then resubmit the new application on or before the 90th day following the date of notice of the denial without prejudice * * *. If the applicant fails, within the applicable time periods specified above, to * * * resubmit the new application, the prior denial without prejudice to resubmission shall have the effect of a final decision by the Deputy Assistant Secretary. (Italics supplied.)

In an effort to establish some scientific value in the foreign article the applicant, in its resubmitted application, redefines what in its original submission was termed the "ship-handling simulator," as a "radio and radar navigational aid apparatus identified as a Ship Operational Research and Educational Facility." Arguably, the resubmitted application is not for the "same article," as required by former 15 CFR 301.8. More important, the resubmission introduces for the first time "research" purposes which relate to the informal approach of a "representative of the Navy Department" regarding a study of stress on deck officers and a proposal under consideration by the applicant to the Panama Canal Company to perform simulations useful in the redesign of the Canal.

In the resubmission the applicant also states, "The primary educational, scientific and research field in which the facility and its support systems will be used will be ocean, harbor, rivers and territorial water navigation and ship operation." For an accurate designation of the foreign article one need only to review the specifications for the foreign article: "This specification describes the functional requirements for a ship simulator installation for practical training of experienced ships officers in shiphandling." The entirely new purposes introduced in the resubmission cannot be considered by the Departments in accordance with 15 CFR 301.8

Even if this procedural defect regarding the newly declared research purposes were overcome, however, the resubmitted application fails to meet the requirements of former 15 CFR 301.5 (1980) regarding the intended purpose of the article for which the duty-free entry is sought. (Once again, 15 CFR 301.5 was amended by 47 FR 32517, 32520 (1982). Therefore, former 15 CFR 301.5 applies to the instant case.) Part of that provision specifically states that "[p]rograms that may be undertaken in some unspecified future period shall not be considered in the (scientific equivalency) comparison." The program to study stress on deck officers may never develop and even if it did, could not be considered by the Department. The other program which the Institute describes in its resubmission as being oriented toward scientific research concerns merely a proposal under consideration to do research for the Panama Canal Authority at some future date. No present research purpose is described. Moreover, since articles entered duty-free under item 851.60 TSUS are to be entered for the use of qualified institutions and not used for commercial purposes for a period of 5 years (presumably contract work for the Panama Canal Authority would be commercial) such uses would likely disqualify the foreign article for duty-free entry under item 851.60 TSUS. Therefore, the resubmitted application lacks any valid claim, for purposes of duty-free treatment, that the article will be used for a present scientific research purpose.

In conclusion, we note the scientific consultants at the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) returned the initial submission of this application without any finding on scientific equivalency because the "intended proposed use of the foreign article, although educational in purpose, appears to be vocational training which cannot be considered scientific research or science-oriented education. We are therefore, unable to attach a measure of scientific value to the foreign article." With respect to the characteristics of the foreign article alleged pertinent by the applicant in the resubmission NBS advised, on October 20, 1982, that either: (1) The domestic manufacturer met the specification as requested by the applicant (360° field of view; a continuous, seamless presentation; and a full color day or night presentation), (2) the Institute had not demonstrated the domestic article could not meet the capabilities (a high degree of resolution) or (3) the stated requirements were matters of cost not pertinent to the evaluation of the instruments (a reasonable operation staff level and low operation cost). The NBS consultants concluded that the domestic firms ATS & Sperry who "are in the forefront of simulation technology", if given the opportunity, could provide nocturnal navigation simulators meeting the applicant's requirements. Thus, even if the article possessed the requisite scientific value for the purposes intended, the required demonstration of the nonequivalency of the domestic instruments has not been made. We also note the contacts the Institute made with the domestic firms took place more than three years before the foreign article was ordered. (The records shows that Sperry's latest proposal to the applicant occurred almost four years before purchase.) Based on the NBS advice and the domestic firms' established record in simulation technology, no facts have been supplied to support a conclusion that the domestic firms would have been unable or unwilling to supply equivalent systems had they been formally requested to bid. The dated correspondence between the applicant and the potential domestic suppliers does not evidence the inability to supply an equivalent custom-made system.

Elemental Sulphur From Mexico; Final Results of Administrative Review and Modification of Revocation in Part of Antidumping Finding AGENCY: International Trade Administration, Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of final results of administrative review and modification of revocation in part of antidumping finding.

SUMMARY: On January 3, 1983, the Department of Commerce published the preliminary results of its administrative review of the antidumping finding on elemental sulphur from Mexico. The review covers the one known exporter of this merchandise to the United States currently covered by the finding and the period June 1, 1980 through May 31, 1982.

Interested parties were given an opportunity to submit oral or written comments on the preliminary results. We received no comments. Based on our analysis, the final results of review are unchanged from those presented in the preliminary results of review.

EFFECTIVE DATE: April 25, 1983.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Linda L. Pasden or Robert J. Marenick, Office of Compliance, International Trade Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230, telephone: (202) 377-3601/5255.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On June 28, 1972, the Treasury Department published in the Federal Register (37 FR 12727) a dumping finding with respect to elemental sulphur from Mexico. On January 3, 1983, the Department of Commerce ("the Department") published in the Federal Register (48 FR 49-50) the preliminary results of its last administrative review of the finding. The Department has now completed the administrative review.

Scope of the Review

Imports covered by the review are shipments of elmental sulphur. Basically there are two types of sulphur, "bright" and "dark." Chemically these two types are almost equal, the dark sulphur being discolored by certain hydrocarbon impurities. The greatest single use of sulphur is in the manufacture of sulphuric acid. In elemental form or as sulphuric acid it enters into the production or processing of hundreds of products. Among the most important are fertilizers, chemicals, titanium and other pigments, pulp and paper, rayon, film, iron and steel, dyestuffs, vulcanized and synthetic rubber, insecticides, fungicides, fuels and explosives. Elemental sulphur is currently classifiable under item 415.4500 of the Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated.

The review covers the one known exporter of elemental sulphur from Mexico to the United States currently covered by the finding, Agro Centro, S.A., and the period June 1, 1980 through May 31, 1982.

On January 5, 1978, the Treasury Department published a "Modification of Dumping Finding" (43 FR 954-5) covering sulphur produced and sold by Azufrera Pan-Americana, S.A. ("APSA"). We have amended the wording of the modification for APSA to read "except that produced and/or sold by Azufrera Pan-Americana, S.A."

Final Results of the Review

Interested parties were invited to comment on the preliminary results. The Department received no wirtten comments or requests for a hearing. Based on our analysis, the final results of our review are the same as those presented in the preliminary results of review, and we determine that a margin of 33 percent exists for sales by Agro Centro for the period June 1, 1980 through May 31, 1982.

The Department shall determine, and the U.S. Customs Service shall assess, dumping duties on all appropriate entries made with purchase dates during the period of review. The Department will issue appraisement instructions directly to the Customs Service.

Further, as provided for in § 353.48(b) of the Commerce Regulations, a cash deposit of estimated antidumping duties of 33 percent shall be required on all shipments of Mexican sulphur from Agro Centro, S.A. entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on or after the date of publication of this notice. For any shipment from a new exporter not covered in this or prior reviews, whose first shipments occurred after May 31, 1982 and who is unrelated to any covered firm, a cash deposit shall be required on future entries at the 33 percent rate. These deposit requirements shall remain in effect until publication of the final results of the next administrative review. The Department intends to begin immediately the next administrative review. The Department encourages interested parties to review the public record and submit applications for protective orders, if desired, as early as possible after the Department's receipt of the informatin during the next administrative review.

This administrative review and notice are in accordance with section 751(a)(1) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1675(a)(1)) and §353.53 of the Commerce Regulations (19 CFR 353.53).

Dated: April 18, 1983.

Deputy Assistant Secretary for Import Administration.

Consequently, the United States Department of Commerce has initiated separate investigations to determine whether increased imports into the United States of articles like or directly competitive with those produced by each firm contributed importantly to total or partial separation of the firm's workers, or threat thereof, and to a decrease in sales or production of each petitioning firm.

Any party having a substantial interest in the proceedings may request a public hearing on the matter. Maritime Institute of Technology and Graduate Studies; Decision on Application for Duty-Free Entry of Scientific Instrument

The following is a decision on an application for duty-free entry of a scientific instrument pursuant to Section 6(c) of the Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Materials Importation Act of 1966 (Pub. L. 89–651, 80 Stat. 897) and the regulations issued pursuant thereto (15 CFR 301 as amended by 47 FR 32517). A copy of the record pertaining to this decision is available for public review between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. in Room 1523, Statutory Import Programs Staff, U.S. Department of Commerce, 14th and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20230.

Docket No.: 82–00022. Applicant: Maritime Institute of Technology and Graduate Studies, 5700 Hammonds Ferry Road, Linthicum Heights, MD 21090. Instrument: Radio Navigation Simulator with Accessories. Manufacturer: Simrad, A/S Norway. Intended use of instrument: See Notice on page 57719 in the Federal Register of November 25, 1981.

Comments: No comments have been received with respect to this application.

Decision: Application denied. Because the article possesses no scientific value for the purposes for which it is intended, a prima facie case is not presented upon which to base a finding of scientific equivalency.

Reasons: Item 851.60 of the Tariff Schedules of the United States (TSUS) provides, inter alia, for duty-free treatment with respect to "Articles entered for the use of any nonprofit institution, whether public or private, established for educational or scientific purposes * * * if no instrument or apparatus of equivalent scientific value for the purposes for which the instrument or apparatus is intended to be used is being manufactured in the United States" (Italics supplied). The law provides that the Secretary of Commerce, whose authority has been delegated to this Office, is to determine "whether an instrument or apparatus of equivalent scientific value to such (the foreign) article, for the purposes for which the instrument or apparatus is intended to be used, is being manufactured in the United States" (headnote 6(c), Schedule 8, Part 4, TSUS). In order to make the determination of scientific equivalency, it is clear that some scientific use for the foreign article, whether educational or research, must be intended (See also application of Masters, Mates & Pilots MATES Program, Doc. No. 82–00194, published in this issue of Federal Register). Although the foreign article falls within the tariff items eligible for duty-free entry consideration, it is intended to be used to improve proficiency in electronic shipboard navigation. It is not being used for a specific experiment or to obtain scientific knowledge nor is it being used to teach science. In connection with this use, the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) advises in its memorandum dated March 5, 1982, that the foreign article is used exclusively in the teaching of a nonscientific trade. In view of the intended use of the article and the above stated requirements of Pub. L. 89–651 (Item 851–60, TSUS), the Department cannot make the finding on scientific equivalency upon which duty-free entry must be based. Therefore, the application is denied.

Decision: Application denied. Because the article possesses no scientific value for the purposes for which it is intended, a prima facie case is not presented upon which to base a finding of scientific equivalency.

Reasons: Item 851.60 of the Tariff Schedules of the United States (TSUS) provides, inter alia, for duty-free treatment with respect to "Articles entered for the use of any nonprofit institution, whether public or private, established for educational or scientific purposes * * * if no instrument or apparatus of equivalent scientific value for the purposes for which the instrument or apparatus is intended to be used is being manufactured in the United States" (Italics supplied). The law provides that the Secretary of Commerce, whose authority has been delegated to this Office, is to determine "whether an instrument or apparatus of equivalent scientific value to such (the foreign) article, for the purposes for which the instrument or apparatus is intended to be used, is being manufactured in the United States" (headnote 6(c), Schedule 8, Part 4, TSUS). In order to make the determination of scientific equivalency, it is clear that some scientific use for the foreign article, whether educational or research, must be intended (see also Application of Masters, Mates & Pilots MATES Program, Doc. No. 82–00194, published in this issue of the Federal Register). Although the foreign article falls within the tariff items eligible for duty-free entry consideration, it is intended to be used for instruction in Licensed Advancement Program for the purpose of obtaining U.S. Coast Guard Mariner's License. In connection with this use, the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) advises in its memorandum dated October 5, 1981, that the foreign article does not qualify for duty-free entry under Pub. L. 89–651 (Item 851.60, TSUS) because it is not intended for scientific educational purposes but is an article for vocational training. In view of the intended use of the article and the above stated requirements of Pub. L. 89–651, the Department cannot make the finding on scientific equivalency upon which duty-free entry must be based. Therefore, the application is denied.

Transfer of Control of Non-Expansive Balloons From Office of Munitions Control, Department of State, to Office of Export Administration, Department of Commerce

AGENCY: Office of Export Administration, International Trade Administration, Commerce.

SUMMARY: The Departments of State and Defense are continuing their review, pursuant to section 38(f) of the Arms Export Control Act, to remove items from the U.S. Munitions List that no longer warrant strategic control under the Act and the International Traffic in Arms Regulations (ITAR). This review has resulted in a decision to transfer control of non-expansive balloons from the U.S. Munitions List to the Commodity Control List. Accordingly, the Department of Commerce has agreed to assume jurisdiction over non-expansive balloons under the Export Administration Regulations. These items, previously in Category VIII(f) of the U.S. Munitions List, will now be included in the Commodity Control List, except those non-expansive balloons that contain or carry:

(1) Mylar, kevlar, or other advanced materials which exhibit both high strength and very low helium or hydrogen gas leak rates;

(2) Any system(s) for super-pressurization; or

(3) Propulsion and/or power techniques permitting very long endurance.

Also still controlled on the U.S. Munitions List are those non-expansive ballooons that are configured for or carry any articles on the U.S. Munitions List.

This announcement gives notice that non-expansive balloons that do not meet the foregoing special qualifications are non-strategic and are included on the Commodity Control List, Supplement No. 1 to § 399.1 of the Export Administration Regulations, under Export Control Commodity Number 6499G, controlled to Country Groups S and Z. This means that the balloons included in 6499G may be shipped to all destinations under general license, with the exception of shipments to countries in two groups mentioned above.

EFFECTIVE DATE: April 25, 1983.

Powerplant and Industrial Fuel Use Act of 1978; Electric Utility Conservation Plans

AGENCY: Economic Regulatory Administration, Energy.

ACTION: Notice of approval of conservation plan of Western Farmers Electric Cooperative, Anadarko, Oklahoma.

SUMMARY: The Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) of the Department of Energy (DOE) has received an electric utility conservation plan developed and submitted by Western Farmers Electric Cooperative (Western Farmers) for DOE approval pursuant to secton 808 of the Powerplant and Industrial Fuel Use Act of 1978, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 8301 et seq. ("FUA" of "the Act"). Pursuant to 10 CFR 508.5(b) (47 FR 25729, June 15, 1982), DOE hereby gives Notice of Approval of the Conservation Plan submitted by Western Farmers.

The public file for Western Farmers containing this Notice of Approval of Conservation Plan and all other pertinent documents is available for inspection at the Department of Energy, Freedom of Information Reading Room, 1000 Independence Avenue, S.W., Room 1E–190, Washington, D.C. 20585, telephone (202) 252–6020, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday except Federal holidays. Approval of a conservation plan is based on ERA's consideration of the entire record of the proceeding, including any comments received during the public comment period for such plan.

DATE: In accordance with 10 CFR 508.5(b), this Notice shall take effect on April 25, 1983.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Edward J. Peters, Jr., Office of Fuels Programs, Economic Regulatory Administration, Forrestal Building, Room GA–073 G, 1000 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20585; (202) 252–8162; or Allan Stein, Esq., Office of the General Counsel, Forrestal Building, Room 6B–222, 1000 Independance Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20585; (202) 252–2967.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 1023 of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, Pub. L. 97–35 (OBRA) amended FUA by adding a new section 808, entitled "Electric Utility Conservation Plan.".

Section 808 requires utilities which own or operate any existing electric powerplant which used natural gas as a primary energy source between August 14, 1980 and August 13, 1981, and which also plan to use natural gas in any electric powerplant, to develop and submit to DOE for approval a conservation plan to conserve electric energy. The plan must set forth the means to achieve the conservation of electric energy at a level equal to 10 percent of the electric energy output of the utility sold within its own system which was attributable to natural gas during the four calendar quarters ending on June 30, 1981. Approved plans must be fully implemented during the five year period following DOE approval

Notice of Receipt of Western Farmers' proposed conservation plan providing for a thirty (30) day public comment period during which interested persons were invited to submit written comments concerning the content of the plan, was published in the Federal Register on December 16, 1982 (47 FR 56386). No comments on the proposed plan were received.

Based upon the entire record of this proceeding, ERA has determined that Western's Farmers' conservation plan meets the requirements for approval contained in 10 CFR 508.8. ERA is restricted by the 120 day time limitation imposed by the Act on the plan approval process as to the amount of information which can be analyzed in order to ascertain the environmental significance of approval of this plan. However, based on the information contained in Western Farmers' submittal, ERA has determined, pursuant to 10 CFR § 508.5, that the conservation programs contained in the plan should not produce environmental consequences significant enough to warrant detailed documentation pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act or its implementing regulations (40 CFR Part 1500 et seq.). Thus this action clearly does not represent a major Federal action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment. Pursuant to 10 CFR 508.5 and section 808(D)(1) of FUA, DOE hereby approves Western Farmers' electric utility conservation plan.

Western Farmers shall annually submit a report to ERA pursuant to 10 CFR 508.7 (47 FR 25733, June 15, 1982) identifying the steps taken during the preceding year to implement its approved plan. Each such report shall be sumittted within thirty (30), days after the close of a calendar year, beginninng with the close of calendar year 1983. The report shall be sent to: Steven E. Ferguson, Director, Fuels Conversion Division, Office of Fuels Programs, Economic Regulatory Administration, Forrestal Building, Room GA–093, 1000 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20585.

Issued in Washington, D.C. on April 19, 1983.

[Docket No. CP77-521-002]

Columbia Gulf Transmission Co. and Texas Eastern Transmission Corp.; Petition To Amend

April 19, 1983.

Take notice that on March 16, 1983, Columbia Gulf Transmission Company (Columbia Gulf), P.O. Box 683, Houston, Texas 77001, and Texas eastern Transmission Corporation (TETCO), P.O. Box 2521, Houston, Texas 77252, filed in Docket No. CP77-521-002 a joint, petition to amend to order issued September 22, 1977,[1] in Docket No. CP77-521-000 pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act so as to authorize the transportation and redelivery of natural gas from additional sources, all as more fully set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Petitioners propose to expand the service authorized in Docket No. CP77-521-000 in accordance with an agreement between Columbia Gulf and TETCO which was amended on January 28, 1981. Petitioners state that the amended agreement provides for a transportation service by TETCO for Columbia Gulf of natural gas volumes purchased by Columbia Gulf in Ship Shoal Blocks 247 and 248, offshore Louisiana, in addition to the certificated transportation service by Columbia Gulf for TETCO from West Cameron Block 606.

Petitioners further state that the transportation service for Columbia Gulf would be rendered by virtue of Columbia Gulf's utilizing TETCO's capacity interest in the TTT pipeline. It is indicated that under the amended agreement Columbia Gulf would deliver its gas at a point on the TTT pipeline in Eugene Island Block 278, offshore Louisiana. The gas would be redelivered to Columbia Gulf at the interconnection of the TTT pipeline and the Columbia Gulf/Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company, a Division of Tenneco Inc., Blue Water pipeline system in Ship Shoal Block 198, offshore Louisiana, it is explained.

Petitioners indicate that under the amended agreement, TETCO has agreed to pay Columbia Gulf a monthly demand charge for the transportation service, which charge is determined by multiplying 53.96 cents by the contract demand quantity and by the ratio of the number of days such contract demand was in effect to the number of days in the month. Petitioners further indicate that under the amended agreement TETCO would receive a credit for volumes transported for the account of Columbia Gulf through the TTT pipeline against the charge by Columbia Gulf for transporting gas reserves from West Cameron Block 606, which credit would be equal to the charge for equal volumes of gas transported from West Cameron Block 606.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said petition to amend should on or before May 10, 1983, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a motion to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 385.214 or 385.211) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a motion to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Secretary.

[Docket Nos. ER83-333-000 and ER83-351-000]

Dayton Power & Light Co.; Order accepting for Filing and Suspending Rates, Noting Interventions, Denying Summary Disposition, Establishing Procedures, and Consolidating Dockets

Issued: April 18, 1983.

On February 18, 1983, Dayton Power & Light Company (DP&L) filed proposed increases in rates for firm power (full and partial requirements) and transmission service to fourteen municipal customers (Municipalities) served under two electric tariffs (Docket No. ER83-333-000).[1] On February 25, 1983 DP&L, also filed a proposed increase in rates for firm service to the City of Piqua, Ohio (Piqua) under a separate rate schedule (Docket No. ER83-351-9990).

The proposed rates would result in an increase of about $3.7 million (19.2%) to the Municipalities and about $265,000 (20.0%) to Piqua for the calendar year 1983 test period. DP&L requests effective dates of April 19, 1983, for the revised tariff rates and April 26, 1983, for the proposed Piqua rate schedule. However, to make the proposed increases coincide with DP&L's currently pending general retail rate increase before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO), DP&L requests that its proposed rates be suspended until the retail rates become effective, if later than April 19, 1983 (Docket No. ER83-333-000), and April 26, 1983 (Docket No. ER83-351-000).[2]

Notices of the filings were published in the Federal Register, with comments due on or before March 21, 1983 (Docket No. ER83-333-000), and March 24, 1983 (Docket No. ER83-351-000). On March 22, 1983, in each docket, the Municipalities and Piqua filed a protest, motion to intervene, motion for partial summary judgment, motion for consolidation, and request for a five month suspension of the proposed rates. In lieu of making separate submissions, the intervenors filed the same pleading in each docket together with a motion to intervene one day out of time in Docket No. ER83-333-000.

The intervenors request summary judgment with respect to their claim that DP&L has included $24,000,000 in rate base which is attributable to AFUDC booked to the new Killen generating unit after the plant was placed in service. In addition, the intervenors seek a five month suspension on the grounds that the proposed rates are substantially excessive when tested by the standards of our policy enunciated in West Texas Utilities Company, Docket No. ER82-23-000, 18 FERC ¶ 61,189 (1982). In support of their position, they raise a number or rate base, cost of service, and demand allocation issues.[3] The intervenors also recommend consolidation of Docket Nos. ER83–333–000 and ER83–351–000.

[1] FERC Electric Tariff, Original Volume No. 1 serves the Villages of Arcanum, Eldorado, Lakeview, Mendon, New Breman, New Knoxville, Tipp City, and Waynesfield. FERC Electric Tariff, Original Volume No. 2 serves Celina, Jackson Center, Minster, St. Marys, Versailles, and Yellow Springs. See Attachment A for rate schedule designations.

[2] The PUCO must act on retail rate applications within nine months of their tender date. DP&L's pending application was submitted in July, 1982, and DP&L's expects an effective date in late April, 1983.

[3] These issues include: (1) excessive cash working capital and prepayments; (2) reduction of oil fuel stock to 90 day supply; (3) excess spare parts for the Killen unit; (4) steam production operating expenses; (5) PUCO and Ohio Consumer Counsel's Office (OCC) maintenance taxes; (6) excessive regulatory expenses; (7) revenue crediting of short-term sales; (8) excess depreciation of the Killen unit; (9) adjustments to transmission and Piqua demand allocation factors; (10) return on equity; and (11) excessive common equity ratio.

The intervenors have also requested that we specifically note that this proceeding may require a price squeeze investigation, although they have not pointed to any specific information upon which to base this belief. Finally, the intervenors contend that DP&L's proposed revision of the partial requirements tariff is unduly restrictive. The proposed modification would limit a customer's additional demand to 20% of the demand shown on the customer's current three year schedule.

On April 6, 1983, DP&L timely answered the intervenors' motions. DP&L does not oppose the motions to intervene or to consolidate these dockets. It does, however, object to the motions for partial summary judgment and a five month suspension. DP&L disputes the intervenors' proposed adjustments and further contends that, even assuming their appropriateness, the cost of service impact of these adjustments has been overstated. DP&L further argues that its AFUDC treatment of the Killen unit cannot be resolved summarily.

Discussion

Under Rule 214 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 385.214), the intervenors' unopposed motion to intervene in Docket No. ER83–351–000 serves to make them parties in that docket. The Commission also finds that participation by the intervenors in Docket No. ER83–333–000 is in the public interest and that no prejudice to the company would result from allowing them to intervene one day out of time based on the identical legal and factual assertions.

As noted, the intervenors have requested summary judgment as to DP&L's AFUDC booked to the Killen unit. We believe that this matter presents questions of law or fact more appropriately resolved on the basis of an evidentiary hearing. We shall therefore deny the motion for summary judgment.

Our preliminary examination of DP&L's filing and the pleadings indicates that the proposed rates have not been shown to be just and reasonable and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential, or otherwise unlawful. Accordingly, we shall accept the rates for filing and suspend them as ordered below.

The Commission explained its suspension policy in West Texas Utilities Company, supra. There we stated that, where preliminary examination indicates that revised rates may be unjust and unreasonable and may be substantially excessive, as described in West Texas, we will ordinarily suspend the rates for the maximum five months. In the case at hand, our preliminary review suggests that the proposed rates may yield substantially excessive revenues. As a result, we shall suspend the rates for five months from sixty days after filing, to be effective, subject to refund, on September 20, 1983 (ER83–333–000), and September 27, 1983 (ER83–351–000).

With respect to the Customers' price squeeze concerns, we shall institute price squeeze procedures and phase those procedures in accordance with the Commission's policy and practice established in Arkansas Power & Light Company, Docket No. ER79–339–000, 8 FERC ¶ 61,131 (1979).

We agree with the intervenors' position on consolidation of these dockets. We find that common questions of law and fact may be presented in Docket Nos. ER83–333–000 and ER83–351–000. As a result, we shall consolidate these dockets for purposes of hearing and decision.

The Commission orders:

(A) The intervenors' motion for summary judgment is hereby denied.

(B) DP&L's submittal is hereby accepted for filing and the rates are suspended for five months to become effective on September 20, 1983 (ER83–333–000), and September 27, 1983 (ER83–351–000), subject to refund.

(C) The untimely intervention in this proceeding is hereby granted subject to the Commission's Rules of Parctice and Procedure.

(D) Pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by section 402(a) of the Department of Energy Organization Act and by the Federal Power Act, particularly sections 205 and 206 thereof, and pursuant to the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure and the regulations under the Federal Power Act (18 C.F.R., Chapter I), a public hearing shall be held concerning the justness and reasonableness of DP&L's rates.

(E) Docket Nos. ER83–333–000 and ER83–351–000 are hereby consolidated for purposes of hearing and decision.

(F) The Commission Staff shall serve top sheets in this proceeding within ten (10) days of the date of this order.

(G) A presiding administrative law judge, to be designated by the Chief Administrative Law Judge, shall convene a conference in this proceeding to be held within approximately fifteen (15) days after service of top sheets in a hearing room of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426. The presiding judge is authorized to establish procedural dates and to rule on all motions (except motions to dismiss) as provided in the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure.

(H) The Commission hereby orders initiation of price squeeze procedures and further orders that this proceeding be phased so that the price squeeze procedures begin after issuance of a Commission opinion establishing the rate which, but for consideration of price squeeze, would be just and reasonable. The price squeeze portion of this case shall be governed by the procedures set forth in § 2.17 of the Commission's regulations as they may be modified prior to the initiation of the price squeeze phase of this proceeding.

(I) The Secretary shall promptly publish this order in the Federal Register.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

[Docket No. CP83-264-000]

Northwest Central Pipeline Corp., Application

April 19, 1983.

Take notice that on April 6, 1983, Northwest Central Pipeline Corporation (Applicant), P.O. Box 25128, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma 73125, filed in Docket No. CP83-264-000 an application pursuant to Section 7 of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of 10-inch and 6-inch replacement pipeline and for permission and approval of the abandonment of approximately 30.7 miles of its Dilworth-Cambridge 16-inch pipeline and appurtenant facilities, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant proposes to replace three segments of its 16-inch coupled pipeline extending from Kay County, Oklahoma, to Cowley County, Kansas, with 10-inch and 6-inch pipeline and appurtenant facilities. Applicant states that the existing pipeline was constructed in 1917 and is ineffectively coated and obsolete and that the replacement of the three segments proposed herein are part of a long range program to completely replace the pipeline. Applicant proposes to replace the 16-inch with 10-inch and 6-inch pipeline since this line is no longer used as a major transmission pipeline and the smaller pipeline is sufficient to handle the volumes of gas now being transported through these facilities.

Applicant states that the proposed facilities would cost approximately $2,944,100 which would be paid from treasury cash.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before May 10, 1983, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a motion to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 385.214 or 385.211) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a motion to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by Sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no motion to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate and permission and approval for the proposed abandonment are required by the public convenience and necessity. If a motion for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Secretary.

[Docket No. CP70-243-000]

Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co.; Petition To Amend

April 19, 1983.

Take notice that on March 28, 1983, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company (Panhandle), P.O. Box 1642, Houston, Texas 77001, filed in Docket No. CP70-243-000 a petition to amend the order issued June 19, 1970,[1] as amended, in Docket No. CP70-243 pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act so as to authorize the transportation of natural gas from a new receipt point from Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Company, Inc. (Kansas-Nebraska), all as more full set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Panhandle states that it was authorized by order issued June 19, 1979, to construct and operate facilities and to exchange volumes of gas in Wyoming and Oklahoma pursuant to the terms of gas exchange agreement between Panhandle and Kansas-Nebraska dated March 27, 1970, as amended. Pursuant to the terms of the Agreement, Panhandle delivers up to 100,000 Mcf of its own gas per day to Kansas-Nebraska in Douglas County, Wyoming, and Kansas-Nebraska delivers equivalent volumes to Panhandle at Panhandle's Aledo processing plant, it is averred. Kansas-Nebraska also has an option to purchase a portion of Panhandle's Wyoming gas when the volumes exceed 1,000,000 Mcf per month, it is further averred.

Due to declining production in its Oklahoma supply area, it is asserted that Kansas-Nebraska is not able to deliver enough gas to Panhandle at the Aledo plant to keep the exchange in balance. The petition to amend states that Panhandle and Kansas-Nebraska have entered into February 7, 1983, amendment to the agreement providing for a new delivery point from Kansas-Nebraska to Panhandle in Texas County, Oklahoma, to enable Kansas-Nebraska to deliver additional gas to Panhandle in order to eliminate the exchange imbalance.

It is stated that the facilities necessary to utilize the proposed delivery point have been previously installed by Panhandle would be maintained and operated by Panhandle.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said petition to amend should on or before May 10, 1983, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a motion to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 385.214 or 385.211) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a motion to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Tapoco, Inc. and Nantahala Power and Light Co.; Order Denying Rehearing

Issued: April 18, 1983.

On March 18, 1983, Tapoco, Inc. (Tapoco,) filed a request for rehearing, reconsideration, and clarification of The Commission's order issued in this proceeding on February 18, 1983 [22 FERC ¶61,209]. In that order the Commission, inter alia, initiated a public hearing concerning the justness and reasonableness of Tapoco's and Nantahala Power and Light Company's (Nantahala) filings, and the appropriateness of further proceedings under sections 19 and 20 of the Federal Power Act (FPA). The Commission also denied a request by the Town of Highlands, North Carolina (Highlands) to condition the acceptance of Tapoco's and Nantahala's filings upon Tapoco's agreement to provide wholesale service to Highlands. Tapoco requests dismissal of the allegations relating to sections 19 and 20 of the FPA, as well as any issues that may have been raised by Highlands under section 202(b) of the FPA.

Background

On September 3, 1982, and September 23, 1982, Tapoco and Nantahala filed (Docket Nos. ER82-774-000 and ER82-829-000) Notices of Termination of their filed rate schedules known as the New Fontana Agreement (NFA) and the related 1971 Apportionment Agreement. Both of these contracts provided for expiration by their own terms on December 31, 1982.

The Commission issued an order on November 22, 1982, which inter alia, accepted the Notices of Termination for filing, set the matter for hearing, and responded to the references by the intervenors to sections 19 and 20 of the FPA by leaving the question open and allowing the presiding judge to make a preliminary recommendation as to whether further proceedings are warranted under sections 19 and 20 of the FPA.

On December 23, 1982 and December 30, 1982, Tapoco and Nantahala submitted for filing in Docket Nos. ER83-209-000 and ER83-219-000 proposed new agreements to replace the NFA and the 1971 Apportionment Agreement. In response to these filings, several protests and motions to intervene were received by the Commission.[1] Among the issues raised by the intervenors were possible FPA violations and the appropriateness of a Commission order compelling Tapoco to provide wholesale service directly to Highlands.

Discussion

Tapoco, in its request for rehearing, states that it is concerned that the mass of pleadings in these dockets has created a confusion over which issues are properly the subject of the consolidated proceeding in Docket Nos. ER82-774-000, ER82-829-000, ER83-209-000, ER83-219-000, and ER83-227-000. Therefore, Tapoco seeks reconsideration and clarification as to the scope of the proceding with regard to issues concerning possible violations of the FPA and interconnection under section 202(b) of the FPA.

In support of its request rehearing, Tapoco asserts that there are no proper sections 19, 20, or 202(b) issues in this proceeding. Tapoco presents several bases for its contentions.

Tapoco asserts that Nantahala's customers have not properly filed a section 19 and 20 complaint, because the procedures required by section 306 of the FPA and Rule 206 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedures have not been followed. Specifically, Tapoco asserts that the charges of wrongdoing by the intervenors have not been stated with the specificity required by section 306 and Rule 206, and that Tapoco has never been afforded the opportunity to formally answer to the intervenor's charges. As we stated in our order of November 22, 1982, the references of the intervenors to sections 19 and 20 of the FPA in relation to the hydroelectric license operations of Tapoco and Nantahala provided insufficient information for the Commission to determine whether action would be warranted or appropriate. We therefore, set those matters for hearing insofar as was required to allow the presiding judge to make a preliminary recommendation as to whether further proceedings under sections 19 and 20 are appropriate. Whether or not the allegations of the intervenors with respect to sections 19 and 20 are considered to be a formal complaint under section 306 and Rule 206, we perceive no prejudice to Tapoco as a result of our treatment of this issue. While Tapoco objects that it has not had an opportunity to answer the "complaint," it has filed responsive pleadings addressing the matters raised. We note that the Commission has yet to take action of the merits of the issues presented under sections 19 and 20; Tapoco will have the opportunity to fully express its position before the presiding judge. We further note that the sufficiency of the intervenors' pleading as a "complaint" is largely irrelevant, given the fact that the Commission is authorized to proceed as it has done, viz. to determine whether legitimate issues exist, on its own initiative.

In addition, Tapoco asserts that there are no section 19 and 20 issues that relate to Tapoco proposed new rate schedules. It is Tapoco's contention that no nexus has been established between Tapoco's new rate schedules, and sections 19 and 20. Moreover, Tapoco states that section 19 has nothing to do with a filing to change a rate schedule by a public utility regulated under Part II of the FPA. Once again, we have determined that the question of whether the allegations relating to sections 19 and 20 would justify further proceedings under Part I of the FPA is a matter more properly determined in the first instance by the presiding judge in these dockets.

Finally, Tapoco asserts that the section 19 and 20 allegations raised by the intervenors in these dockets have already been litigated before the Commission and were resolved in Opinion Nos. 139 [19 FERC ¶61,152] and 139-A [20 FERC ¶61,430].[2] Therefore, according to Tapoco, the principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel preclude the intervenors from rainsing those issues again. We note, first, that the recently proposed rate schedules and the transactions thereunder are not precisely the same as those which were the subject of Opinion Nos. 139 and 139-A. Therefore, we do not agree that all issues conserning sections 19 and 20, as they relate to the proposed new rate schedules, have been "fully litigated" in Docket Nos. ER76-828-000 and EL78-18-000. Furthermore, we have previously advised the presiding judge in Docket Nos. ER82-774-000 and ER82-829-000 to take necessary measures to avoid unnecessary relitigation of issues (21 FERC ¶61,112). For these reasons, and the reasons stated above, we shall deny Tapoco's request to dismiss the allegations relating to sections 19 and 20 of the FPA at this time.

Tapoco also sets forth two bases for its contention that there are no possible section 202(b) issues in the proceeding. First, Tapoco suggests that the section 202(b) interconnection issue has already been fully litigated and resolved by the Commission and is now barred by res judicata and collateral estoppel. This is the same argument as that previously advanced by Tapoco in its response to the original protests in Docket No. ER83-209-000. In our order of February 18, 1983, we addressed Tapoco's argument stating that we do not agree that the issue of a section 202(b) interconnection was "fully litigated" in the proceeding underlying Opinion Nos. 139 and 139-A. We find that the order which initiated that earlier proceeding is abundantly clear in that it expressly dismissed Highlands' request for section 202(b) relief at the outset.[3] Tapoco's reliance on other language contained in that order and in Opinion 139 is misplaced. Furthermore, we continue to believe, as we stated in our previous order, that it is not clear from Highlands' discussion of this issue whether it seeks relief exclusively under section 202(b).

[1] Protests and motions to intervene were filed by the Town of Highlands, North Carolina, the Attorney General of the State of North Carolina, the North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation, and the Haywood Electric Membersip Corporation.

[2] Docket Nos. ER76-828-000 and EL78-19-000.

Second, Tapoco states that there can be no section 202(b) issue relating to Tapoco because it has no electric energy available to sell to Nantahala's customers. Tapoco asserts that if it were required to supply Highlands with energy, its service to its existing customer, Aluminum Company of America [ALCOA], would be impaired, clearly a situation which is not permitted by section 202(b).[4] We believe that this question is one which is more properly resolved on the basis of a hearing record. For this reason, and those stated above, we shall deny Tapoco's request to dismiss any section 202(b) issues that have been raised by Highlands.

The Commission orders:

(A) Tapoco's request for rehearing of the Commission's order of February 18, 1983, in the docket is hereby denied.

(B) The Secretary shall promptly publish this order in the Federal Register.

[Docket No. CP80-83-004]

Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co. a Division of Tenneco Inc., Petition To Amended

April 19, 1983.

Take notice that on March 31, 1983, Tennessee Gas pipeline Company, a Division of Tenneco Inc. (Petitioner), P.O. Box 2511, Houston, Texas 77001, filed in Docket No. CP80-83-004 a petition to amend the order, as amended, issued in the instant docket on January 28, 1980, pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act and § 157.7(b) of the Regulations thereunder (18 CFR 157.7(b)) so as to waive the single project limitation for the construction of a specific gas supply facility prescribed by § 157.7(b) (1)(ii) of the Regulations for the calendar year 1982, all as more fully set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Petitioner states that on January 28, 1980, it was issued a budget-type certificate authorizing, inter alia, the construction of gas supply facilities. Total annual expenditures were limited to $20 million with no single onshore project to exceed $2.5 million, it is said.

Petitioner further states that on July 21, 1982, in Docket No. CP80-83-003, the Commission issued an order amending the existing authorization to provide for an increase in the total cost limitation for gas supply facilities during calendar year 1982 from $20 million to $50 million without changing the cost limitation applicable to single onshore or offshore projects.

It is stated that a single project to connect the Ozark Basin Area gas (Buzzard Gap Project) in Latimer County, Oklahoma, was $2,547,307 exceeding the single onshore project limit by $47,307.

Petitioner indicates that numerous factors contributed to the cost overrun of the Buzzard Gap Project the most significant of which was unanticipated rocky terrain which forced the contractor to make changes in the route of the pipeline.

Petitioner, therefore, requests waiver of the single project limitation to the extent required for the construction of the Buzzard Gap Project facilities. Docket No. CP80-83-004

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said petition to amend should on or before May 10 1983, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a motion to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 385.214 or 385.211) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate acton to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a motion to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION

[Docket No. 82–54; Agreements Nos. 9718–7, 9718–8, 9731–8, 9835–5, 9975–7, 10116–4, and 10274–1]

Space Charter and Cargo Revenue Pooling Agreements in the United States/Japan Trades; Availability of Finding of No Significant Impact

Upon completion of an environmental assessment, the Federal Maritime Commission's Office of Energy and Environmental Impact has determined that the Commission's decision on Docket No. 82–54 will not constitute a major Federal action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment within the meaning of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, 42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq., and that preparation of an environmental impact statement is not required.

The proceeding involves Agreements Nos. 9718, 9731, 9835, and 9975. These Agreements are space chartering agreements between various parties. The parties to Agreement No. 9718, Japan Line, Ltd. (JL), Kawasaki Kisen Kaisha (K Line), Mitsui O.S.K. Lines (MOL) and Yamashita-Shinnihon Steamship Co., Ltd. (Y–S), operate eight containerships between California ports and ports in Japan. Nippon Yusen Kaisha (NYK) and Showa Line (Showa) are parties to Agreement No. 9731 and operate four vessels between Japan, and Hawaii, Alaska and California ports. All six lines are parties to Agreement No. 9835 in the Japan/Oregon and Washington trade. The parties to Agreement No. 9975 operate eight containerships in the Japan/U.S. Atlantic Coast trades.

Agreements Nos. 10116 and 10274 are revenue pooling arrangements. All six Japanese carriers are members to Agreement No. 10116 under which revenues in the Japan/U.S. West Coast trades (Agreements Nos. 9718, 9731 and 9835) are divided. Under Agreement No. 10274, the parties to Agreement No. 9975 divide revenues in the Japan/U.S. Atlantic Coast trades.

The agreements allow the parties to maintain a regular service while deploying a minimum number of vessels. This has resulted in lower fuel consumption than if each of the carriers were to expand their fleets to provide current levels of service to all U.S. coasts.

This Finding of No Significant Impact (FONSI) will become final within 20 days of publication of this notice in the Federal Register unless a petition for review is filed pursuant to 46 CFR 547.6(b).

The FONSI and related environmental assessment are available for inspection on request from the Office of the Secretary, Room 11101, Federal Maritime Commission, Washington, D.C. 20573, telephone (202) 532–5725.

2. All mineral deposits in the land so patented, and to it, or persons authorized by it, the right to prospect, mine, and remove such deposits from the same under applicable law and such regulations as the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe.[1]

And will be subject to:

1. An easement for roadways, public utilities, and flood and control purposes to be located along the boundary of said land as follows:

The north 50 feet and the west 30 feet, together with a spandrel area being the southeast corner of the intersection bounded as follows: on the north by the south line of the north 50 feet, on the west by the east line of the west 30 feet and on the southeast by the arc of a curve, concave southeasterly having a radius of 25 feet and being tangent to the south line of the north 50 feet and

National Park Service

Land and Water Conservation Fund; 1983 Appropriation for Rehabilitation and Development Grants

AGENCY: National Park Service, Interior.

ACTION: Notice of supplemental FY 1983 appropriation for L&WCF-rehabilitation and development grants.

SUMMARY: This notice explains the intent of the Land and Water Conservation Fund (L&WCF) and Pub. L. 98-8, emergency jobs legislation, regarding the availability of additional grant funds for Fiscal Year 1983.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Sam L. Hall, Recreation Grants Division, National Park Service, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240; (202) 343-3700.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Forty (40) million dollars in additional Land and Water Conservation Funds are available for assistance to States during FY 1983 "only for development or redevelopment purposes" (excluding acquisition and planning). These grants will be utilizing funds appropriated under Pub. L. 98-8 to meet urgent national needs and result in productive jobs.

Eligibility Requirements: Fifty (50) percent matching grants from L&WCF money appropriated under this law are available to the States, and through the States to local units of government, for rehabilitation and development (excluding acquisition and planning) of public outdoor recreation areas. These funds will be used by the States and local governments to accelerate the approval and completion of park development and redevelopment projects only. In addition, each grant project must be in accord with the State Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan (SCORP). With regard to the recent requirement for use of the Open Project Selection (OPS) process, and in an effort to expedite job-creating projects under this supplemental appropriation, the OPS process may be waived at the discretion of an individual State.

Special Provisions of Pub. L. 98–8: To encourage job creation in areas of high unemployment, and thereby meet a critical national need, the public law states that: "States, or political subdivisions of States, which receive allotment of funds under this title shall to the extent practicable utilize such funds in a manner which maximizes immediate creation of new employment opportunities to individuals who were unemployed at least 15 of the 26 weeks immediately preceding the date of enactment of this Act" (March 24, 1983). In the event a State cannot obligate their apportioned funds within a reasonable period, the funds will revert to a special National Reapportionment account and become available to States which have demonstrated need on a first-come first-served basis.

Grant Implementation and Timing: To assure rapid implementation of work to be accomplished under these grants, grantees are advised that funds appropriated under Pub. L. 98–8, "shall be available only for grants for which: (1) Obligations are entered into before October 1, 1983, (2) work will be in progress before January 1, 1984, and (3) all Federal funds will be outlayed before September 30, 1984." Failure to meet these time frames will be grounds for termination of grants. Grantees are also required to comply with all applicable federal laws and regulations as they apply to the L&WCF program.

These requirements must be met to assure rapid implementation of work under the grants, which will maximize the impact of the appropriating legislation to meet urgent national needs and result in productive jobs. It is the intent of Congress that Pub. L. 98–8 be promptly carried out, and that the severity of the economic situation demands prompt action.

Interested applicants should contact their State Liaison Officer, and/or National Park Service regional office for further information.

Motor Carriers; Lease and Interchange of Vehicles by Motor Carriers

Decided: April 18, 1983.

Joseph Moving and Storage Co., Inc. (Certificate and Permit Nos. 146496 and Permit No. 144010) petitions for waiver of paragraph (c) of Section 1057.12 of the Lease and Interchange of Vehicles regulations (49 CFR Part 1057) with respect to equipment with drivers leased by petitioner from the Continental Shippers Association, Inc.

We Find:

Petitioner is seeking the same type relief on a specific basis which was given by the Commission in general to authorized carriers and shippers by its modification of the leasing regulations in its decision and order in Ex Parte No. MC-43(sub-No. 13), Leasing Rules Modifications, 132 M.C.C. 927, 946 (1982). However, that decision and order has been temporarily stayed by the United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit January 5, 1983, pending further order of that court. The Motor Carrier Leasing Board not only cannot anticipate the United States Court of Appeals disposition of this issue which is now under review by that court, but by acting in an affirmative manner, the Board could conceivably be held in contempt of court.

It is ordered:

The petition of Joseph Moving and Storage, Inc. (Certificate and Permit Nos. 146496 and Permit No. MC-140010) is denied.

By the Motor Carrier Leasing Board, Board Members J. Warren McFarland, Bernard Gaillard, and John H. O'Brien.

SUMMARY: The Office of Federal Procurement Policy has submitted to OMB for review a proposal for the collection of information under the provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. Names and addresses of such firms are to be compiled by the contractor in cooperation with six agencies that have high volumes of small purchase activity (Department of Defense, Veterans Administration, Department of Agriculture, Department of the Interior, the General Services Administration, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration). A formal questionnaire will be mailed to the small business concerns in the sample.

Self-Regulatory Organizations; Proposed Change by Boston Stock Exchange Clearing Corp.; Relating to Increased Fees for Institutional Services

Pusuant to Section 19(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78s(b) (1), notice is hereby given that on March 14, 1983, the Boston Stock Exchange Clearing Corporation filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission the proposed change as described in item I, II, and III below, which items have been prepared by the self-regulatory organization.

The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change.

The Boston Stock Exchange Clearing Corporation has proposed to establish new fees as contained in Exhibit I attached.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change.

In its filing with the Commission, the self-regulatory organization included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places set forth in Item IV below. The self-regulatory organization has prepared summaries, set forth in Section (A), (B) and (C) below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

(A) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change.

(a) Due to the changing economic and operational environment of the Clearing Corporation, a Fee Committee was established to review projected costs and revise, where appropriate, all fees of the Clearing Corporation. In reviewing the preliminary budget, the Fee Committee recommended and the Board of Directors approved to establish a number of changes in its fee structure.

(b) The proposed rule change is consistent with the requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and the rules and regulations thereunder applying to the Boston Stock Exchange Clearing Corporation because it continues the equitable allocation of fees charged to all participants. The proposed rule change will be implemented consistently with the safeguarding of securities and funds in its custody or control or for which it is responsible because it would insure an efficient system for the settlement of trades and the safekeeping of assets.

(B) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of Burden on Competition.

No burden on competition is perceived by adoption of the proposed rule change.

(C) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received from Members, Participants of Others.

At any time within 60 days of the filing of such rule change, the Commission may summarily abrogate the rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

IV. Solicitation of Comments.

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and agruments concerning the foregoing. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 Fifth Street, NW., Washington, DC 20549. [Release No. 19527; File No. SR-BSE-83-3]

Filing and Immediate Effectiveness of Proposed Rule Change By Boston Stock Exchange, Inc.

February 22, 1983.

Pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Act"), 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1), notice is hereby given that on February 7, 1983, the Boston Stock Exchange ("BSE") filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission the proposed rule change as described herein. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

The purpose of the proposed rule change is to increase the original listing fee from $5,000 to $6,000 for each class of stock or bonds applied for in the original listing application; to increase the annual listing maintenance fee from $500 for each issue to $750 for the first issue and $500 for each additional issue; and to increase the maximum listing fee for additional shares from $2,000 to $2,500. The BSE states in its filing that the increase in the listing fees was necessitated by the increasing costs of supplying services by the Exchange to listed companies and to raise additional revenue. According to the PSE, the statutory basis is Section 6(b)(4) of the Act which permits the rules of the Exchange to provide for equitable allocation of reasonable dues, fees, and other charges among its members, issuers and other persons using its services.

The foregoing change has become effective, pursuant to Section 19(b)(3)(A) of the Act and subparagraph (e) of Rule 19b-4 under the Act. At any time within 60 days of the filing of such proposed rule change, the Commission may summarily abrogate such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the submission within 21 days after the date of publication in the Federal Register. Persons desiring to make written comments should file six copies thereof with the Secretary of the Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 5th Street, Washington, D.C. 20549. Reference should be made to File No. SR-BSE-83-3.

Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change which are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those which may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying at the Commission's Public Reference Room, 450 5th Street, NW., Washington, D.C. Copies of the filing and of any subsequent amendments also will be available for inspection and copying at the principal office of the above-mentioned self-regulatory organization.

For the Commission, by the Division of Market Regulation pursuant to delegated authority.

George A. Fitzsimmons,

Secretary.

Self-Regulatory Organization, Proposed Rule Change By the Pacific Stock Exchange Incorporated

Pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1) notice is hereby given that on March 4, 1983, the Pacific Stock Exchange Incorporated filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission the proposed rule change as described in Items I, II and III below, which Items have been prepared by the self-regulatory organization. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The Pacific Stock Exchange Incorporated ("PSE" or "Exchange") proposes to amend Article V, Section 1, of its Constitution as follows: (Brackets indicate deleted language; italics indicate added language.)

Article V—Membership in the Exchange

Number of Memberships

Sec. 1. The number of authorized memberships in the Exchange shall be 516. [742, provided that the 522 additional memberships authorized in 1975 can be sold by the Board of Governors only in accordance with the Options Funding Plan of 1975.] The sale or lease of additional memberships by the Exchange, beyond those authorized in the preceding sentence, or rights to trade on any facility of the Exchange similar to memberships, shall only be made if authorized by a majority of the Governors voting at a meeting at which a quorum is present and thereafter such action is approved by a majority of the members of the Exchange in writing or at a meeting. The provisions of Article XVII, Section 1, of this Constitution requiring the affirmative vote of at least two-thirds of the members voting shall not be applicable to the approval required by this Section, and this Section shall not apply to the sale of memberships pursuant to any rights offering authorized by the Board prior to March 1, 1983.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the self-regulatory organization included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The self-regulatory organization has prepared summaries, set forth in Sections (A), (B), and (C) below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

(A) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change. In 1975, Exchange members approved the issuance of up to 522 additional memberships, primarily to make possible funding of the initial costs of the commencement of trading of options on the Exchange. As a result of the Options Funding Plan of 1975 (the "1975 Plan") and subsequent transactions, including rights offerings approved by the Board of Governors in March of 1981 and February of 1983, there are currently 742 authorized memberships of which 484 are presently outstanding. An additional 32 memberships could be created pursuant to the most recent rights offering.

The proposed Constitutional amendment would repeal the authority given to the Board of Governors in the 1975 Plan to issue additional memberships. The Constitutional amendment would require a majority vote of the members before any future membership offerings could be affected. While this amendment would clearly lessen the Board's flexibility, the Board and the Exchange Membership Committee are sympathetic to arguments made by members that they should have a direct say in actions that affect their ownership interest.

(B) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition. The proposed rule change imposes no burden on competition.

(C) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants or Others. Comments on the proposed rule change were nether solicited nor received.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Within 35 days of the date of the publication of this notice in the Federal Register or within such longer period: (i) As the Commission may designate up to 90 days of such date if it finds such longer period to be appropriate and publishes its reasons for so finding; or (ii) as to which the self-regulatory organization consents, the Commission will:

(A) By order approve such proposed rule change; or

(B) Institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule change should be disapproved.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views, and arguments concerning the foregoing. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 Fifth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20549. Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change that are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those that may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying in the Commission's Public Reference Section, 450 Fifth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. Copies of such filing will also be available for inspection and copying at the principal office of the above-mentioned, self-regulatory organization. All submissions should refer to the file number in the caption above and should be submitted within 21 days after the date of this publication.

Dated: March 16, 1983.

Secretary.

Self-Regulatory Organizations; Amended Proposed Rule Change By National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc.

Pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78s(b)(1), notice is hereby given that on March 15, 1983, the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. ("Association") filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") the amended proposed rule change as described in Items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by the self-regulatory organization. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change and amendments thereto from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The Association is proposing minor amendments to the proposed rule change to Schedule E under Article IV, Section 2 of the By-Laws of the Association filed with the Commission on December 31, 1980.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement Regarding the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the self-regulatory organization included amended statements concerning the purpose of and the basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The self-regulatory organization has prepared summaries, set forth in sections (A), (B), and (C) below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

(A) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change. The Association is charged under both Sections 15A(b)(2) and 15(A)(b)(6) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 with the responsibility of promulgating rules which prevent fraudulent and manipulative practices, promote just and equitable principles of trade, remove impediments to and perfect the mechanisms of a free and open market and generally protect investors. Schedule E was designed to further these purposes by placing restrictions on the participation of members in a public distribution of their own securities or those of affiliates.

The proposed rule change to Schedule E filed with the Commission on December 31, 1980 ("proposal") significantly alters both the scope of Schedule E and substantive restrictions on members' participation in public offerings of their own securities or those of affiliates. The proposal was the result of the Association's determination that many of the existing restrictions in Schedule E do not serve any valid regulatory purpose or unjustifiably impede the capital raising efforts of broker/dealers. No comments were received following publication of the proposal. However, after further consideration, it was determined that some of the requirements in Schedule E which were deleted in the proposal and certain additional requirements should appear in the rule for the protection of public investors who purchase securities issued by a member or an affiliate of a member in an offering in which said member participates.

Perhaps the most significant amendment appears in Subsection 3(c)(1) pursuant to which a member may participate in the distribution of a public offering of its securities or those of an affiliate if the public offering price is no lower than that recommended by one qualified independent underwriter. Under both the proposal and existing Schedule E, members' participation in the distribution of their own securities or those of affiliates is conditioned upon the participation in the offering of two qualified independent underwriters. The cost of two underwriters has been found to be an impediment to capital raising efforts of broker/dealers.

There are two important amendments relating to the scope of Schedule E. Under both the proposal and the proposed amendment, an affiliate is defined as a company which controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with the member. Under the proposal, a presumption of control is established by ownership of 25 percent or more of the outstanding corporate voting securities or partnership interests. Under the amendment, while affiliation is determined on a finding of actual control, a 10 percent rather than 25 percent ownership interest establishes a rebuttable presumption of control. This approach represents a codification of existing Association practice and a clarification of the scope of the rule.

The Association also proposes to return to the existing debt rating standards (Baa or better by Moody's or Bbb or better by Standard and Poor's) required to utilize the exemption in Subsection 3(c)(3). Under the proposal, however, a member satisfying specified criteria relating to experience and financial stability could participate without limitation in the distribution of a public offering of its own securities if the offering was of a class of securities rated Ba or better by Moody's or Bb by Standard and Poor's.

After reconsideration, it was determined that the exemptive standard in Subsection 3(c)(3) should parallel the Commission's rating requirement for debt issues which may be registered on Form S–3. Such a change is also consistent with the Association's proposed revision of the filing requirements of the Corporate Financing Interpretation under Article III, Section 1 of the Rules of Fair Practice (NASD Manual (CCH) ¶2151).

The Association proposes to restore the requirement that a member which makes a public distribution of its securities send to its investors a summary statement of its operations on a quarterly basis and independently audited and certified financial statements on an annual basis. This amendment to the proposal was made because investor protection is enhanced by the periodic receipt of information regarding an issuer's financial condition.

Finally, the amendment requires disclosure in the offering materials of the date by which the contingencies of the offering must be met, as well as disclosure of the procedure for return of investors' funds if such contingencies are not met. This replaces the requirement in existing Schedule E that an offering of a member's securities be completed within 60 days. No such requirement appears in the proposal.

(B) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition. Because the amendments proposed restore provisions in existing Schedule E, represent a codification of existing practices under Schedule E, or relax certain provisions of Schedule E, they do not impose an additional burden on competition.

(C) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received from Members, Participants, or Others. The Association filed the proposal with the Commission on December 31, 1980. The proposal was published for comment by publication in Securities Exchange Act Release No. 17488 (January 27, 1981), and by publication in the Federal Register 46 FR 11077 (February 5, 1981). No comments were received on the proposal.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Within 35 days of the date of publication of this notice in the Federal Register or within such longer period: (i) As the Commission may designate up to 90 days of such date if it finds such longer period to be appropriate and publishes its reasons for so finding or (ii) as to which the self-regulatory organization consents, the Commission will:

(A) By order approve such proposed rule change, or

(B) Institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule change should be disapproved.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the foregoing. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 Fifth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20549. Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change that are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those that may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying in the Commission's Public Reference Section, Washington, D.C. 20549. Copies of such filing will also be available for inspection and copying at the principal office of the above-mentioned self-regulatory organization. All submissions should refer to the file number in the caption above and should be submitted within 21 days after the date of this publication.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Any person may obtain a copy of this draft AC by writing to: Federal Aviation Administration, Aircraft Certification Division, Regulations and Policy Office (ACE–110), 601 East 12th Street, Kansas City, Missouri 64106.

Background

Recently, there has been a trend towards replacing fuel pressure indicators and analog reading fuel flowmeters with digital fuel flowmeters/fuel totalizers. New developments in microprocessor technology have resulted in digital fuel flow computer systems that are very accurate and that provide data for improved fuel management. These digital fuel flow computer systems may also display total fuel consumed, total fuel remaining and time remaining. However, these readings are dependent upon the initial fuel supply entered into the fuel computer. The precise digital readings that are displayed to the nearest tenth of a gallon could give the pilot a false sense of accuracy and security, especially the readings for total fuel remaining and time remaining.

Digital fuel flowmeters should not be considered a fuel quantity or a fuel pressure indicator. Different interpretation of the FARs has caused conflict and lack of national standardization for installation of fuel pressure indicators and fuel flowmeters/fuel totalizers in small airplanes that have continuous-flow, fuel-injection systems. Inquiries from members of the aviation community and manufacturers have indicated a need for information concerning approval and installation of digital fuel flowmeters/fuel totalizers.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Roger D. Mingo, Systems Analysis Branch, (202) 426–0570, or Mr. Michael J. Laska, Office of the Chief Counsel, (202) 426–0761, Federal Highway Administration, 400 Seventh Street, SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. Office hours are from 7:45 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. ET, Monday through Friday.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Sections 138 and 415 of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982 (Pub. L. 97–424, 96 Stat. 2126, 2161) directs the Department of Transportation, after consultation with the transportation officials and governors of the several States and after an opportunity for public comments, to submit to Congress a detailed report regarding a national intercity truck route network for the operation of a special class of longe combination commercial motor vehicles. The network to be evaluated is to consist of controlled-access interconnecting segments of the Interstate System and other highways of comparable design and capacity. Longer combination vehicles means truck-tractor-semitrailer-full-trailer (double) and truck-tractor-semitrailer-full-trailer-full-trailer (triple) combinations up to 110 feet with gross combination weights subject to the bridge formula and the single and tandem axle weight limits set forth in 23 U.S.C. 127.

The report is to include:

(1) A plan for the establishment of a national intercity truck route network and the designatoin of highway segments that would be required to connect the major distribution centers and markets;

(2) An analysis of the estimated volume of intercity motor freight that would be anticipated to be transported over such a network;

(3) An analysis of the anticipated fuel savings to be derived from the establishment of a network;

(4) An analysis of the productivity gains that would result;

(5) An analysis of fuel conservation and productivity gains that have been historically achieved by operators of longer vehicles;

(6) An analysis of the safety record of longer combination vehicles; and

(7) An anlysis of the effect of size and weight limitations established by the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982.

Study Need

Implicit in the concept of a network for longer combination vehicles are several assumptions. One is that there is a network that can safely accommodate longer vehicles. A second is that productivity of long-haul carriers will increase through the use of the longer vehicles and that lower transportation costs will translate into lower shipping rates and ultimately into lower prices for goods. Additionally, it could be anticipated that fuel consumption would be reduced in the transportation sector.

It is our intent to evaluate these assumptions and to consider the impacts of such a network. Costs, such as safety, pavement and bridge damage, are to be compared to the overall benefits that could result from a network for longer combination vehicles.

Scope of the Study

The scope of the study involves the identification of vehicles and their performance characteristics, designation of networks for analysis, determination of mode shift and estimation of the impacts on carriers, shippers, and the public. Several potential networks will be identified and evaluated with respect to geometric roadway design and operating standards. Mode shift analysis, to include estimation of diversion from rail, will be performed For each network, the following impacts will be determined: volume of freight carried over the network; fuel consumption; operating costs; productivity; shipper/receiver benefits; safety; highway investment needs; and traffic operating characteristics.

Methodology

Two analysis approaches will be used: historical case study and model simulation. Historical information on the operation of longer combination vehicles in the United States and Canada will be obtained, including: conditions of operation, routes, access to designated routes, fuel consumption, types of commodities hauled, types of operations, operating costs, productivity, typical gross weight and payloads, accident rates, and handling and tracking capabilities.

Standard network analysis methods will be used, commodity flow analyzed and the markets and major distribution centers identified. For each designated network, the following will be estimated by means of model simulation:

A. The volume of commodities transported.
B. Fuel consumption;
C. Vehicle miles traveled;
D. Pavement damage and costs;
E. Transportation cost;
F. Population exposure;
G. Network congestion;
H. Vehicle mix;
I. Carrier productivity;
J. Coverage of economic activities;
K. Deterioration of bridges and costs;
L. Accident rates and costs.

Additionally, a detailed analysis of mode shift and industry benefits will be performed.

Reports

Those interested in providing information, papers or case study materials on topics mentioned in the scope are requested to send them to the docket. Interim progress reports will be available to all who request them. The final report will be completed by July 1984.

Issued April 15, 1983.

Urban Mass Transportation Administration

Implementation of the Federal Public Transportation Act of 1982

AGENCY: Urban Mass Transportation Administration, DOT.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Federal Public Transportation Act of 1982 (Pub. L. 97-424) establishes a new FY 1983 Section 9A formula program. This Notice contains the complete apportionments for non-urbanized areas and urbanized areas under 200,000 population and 90.3% of the apportionments for urbanized areas over 200,000 population under the formula for Section 9A.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Kenneth E. Bolton, Director, Office of Policy, (202) 426-4060, 400 Seventh Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20590.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Federal Public Transportation Act of 1982 (Pub. L. 97-424), effective January 6, 1983, established a new FY 1983 Section 9A formula program funded from the Mass Transit Account of the Highway Trust Fund for transit capital projects. On January 24, 1983, UMTA published in the Federal Register (48 FR 3300) a notice which included preliminary apportionments for this program for FY 1983; 65% of the total funds authorized were apportioned. A partial apportionment was made because the Section 9A statutory formula requires for its calculaton, data which had not previously been submitted to UMTA. UMTA has allowed two months for the submission of such supplemental data and those data are now being reviewed and validated. Based on a preliminary review of the supplemental data, UMTA is now able to make this more complete apportionment.

UMTA also brings to the attention of grantees congressional intent that the funds be obligated and disbursed as rapidly as possible so as to quickly assist the unemployed and the needy.

This notice thus makes the following further apportionments for the Section 9A and Section 18 programs.

Urbanized Areas under 200,000 Population. All of the funds authorized for urbanized areas under 200,000 population are apportioned in this Notice. The amounts authorized for these urbanized areas can be completely apportioned since the Section 9A formula for such area is based upon 1980 Census data.

Non-Urbanized Areas. 2.93 percent of the FY 1983 contract authorization by statute is directed to UMTA's Section 18 non-urbanized program. All of the funds authorized for this program are apportioned in this Notice since the Section 18 formula also is based upon 1980 Census data.

UZAs of 200,000 or more Population. For these areas, 90.3 percent of the funds authorized are being apportioned. The apportionment uses the same data that were used in the January 24, 1983, apportionment. The remaining 9.7 percent is being reserved to allow for adjustments in the final apportionment due to supplemental data submissions now being reviewed by UMTA, as discussed above. Preliminary review of the data indicates that subsequent adjustments can be covered by a reserve of this amount.

With respect to a UZA of 200,000 or more population, it must be emphasized that this apportionment is still preliminary and does not necessarily represent the exact amount to be ultimately apportioned when the supplemental data now being reviewed by UMTA is validated. In fact, some UZAs may be apportioned somewhat more or less than the amount shown on the apportionment because of recomputations required on the basis of supplemental data submitted. Apportionments for Trenton and UZAs in Connecticut may undergo reductions of more than 10 percent based upon preliminary analysis of the commuter rail supplemental data submitted by these and other localities. UMTA will advise any such areas in writing, and will publish the remaining 9.7 percent apportionment as soon as possible but no later than July 1, 1983.

Issued on: April 19, 1983.

Arthur E. Teele, Jr.,

Administrator.

REGULATORY INFORMATION SERVICE CENTER

AGENCY: Regulatory Information Service Center.

ACTION: Introduction to the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: Executive Order 12291 (Federal Regulation) and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 USC 605) require that agencies publish semiannual regulatory agendas describing regulatory actions they are developing. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Bulletin 83-8 (December 15, 1982) requires that each agency agenda include, at a minimum, certain specific types of information for each entry, and that all agendas be published together as a Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations. The Bulletin states that agencies may publish their agendas either in a uniform format or a format of the agency's choosing. This edition of the Agenda is the first in which entries appear in a uniform format.

The following Parts in this issue of the Federal Register are the agency agendas, which together comprise the April 1983 edition of the semiannual Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

ADDRESS: Regulatory Information Service Center, Room 5216, New Executive Office Building, 726 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20503.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information about specific regulatory projects, please refer to the Agency Contact listed for each entry. To provide comment on or to obtain further information about the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations, contact:

About the Unified Agenda

The Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations is a project of the Regulatory Information Service Center undertaken for the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget. The Center provides information about federal regulatory activity to the President and his Executive Office, the Congress, agency managers, and the public. The Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs is responsible for overseeing the federal government's regulatory and information-management activities and implementing President Reagan's Executive Order 12291.

This edition of the Unified Agenda includes 48 federal departments, agencies, and commissions. Agencies of the United States Congress are not included. The first edition of the Unified Agenda, published in October 1982, provided the first uniform reporting of data on regulatory activities under development throughout the federal government. The Center produced the first edition by compiling individual agency documents into one Federal Register issue.

For this edition of the Unified Agenda, 41 of the 48 agencies produced their agendas through a computer system designed by the Center with the advice and assistance of the Government Printing Office. The system was designed to save agencies time and money by automating the preparation and printing of their agendas. It was also designed to make the agenda easier to use--all agendas produced in this manner appear in a uniform format to help readers locate essential information quickly. In the future, the system may provide computer-generated indices and appendices of the information in the agendas.

The other seven agencies used their own formats rather than the standard format. Regardless of format, however, all agendas contain uniform data elements--regulation title, agency contact, small business effects, CFR citation, legal authority, abstract, and timetable--which should be readily identifiable in each agenda. Agencies also included any additional information they considered important. If any of these elements are not included, the agency either did not report the information, or may provide an explanation in its individual preamble. For further information, please contact the individual agency.

The Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations is published in April and October of each year. We welcome comments on this second edition and suggestions for improving future ones. We are especially interested in comments on the usefulness of the new uniform format. We hope it will facilitate using the agendas by helping readers easily find the information of most interest to them.

DATED: April 1, 1983.

Mark G. Schoenberg,

Executive Director.

How To Use the Unified Agenda

Each agency agenda appears as a separate Part in this edition of the Federal Register. The Parts are organized alphabetically in three groups: first, by cabinet departments; second, by other executive agencies; and third, by independent agencies. Departments are divided into agencies, which may in turn be divided into subagencies, in alphabetical order.

Each agency begins its agenda with a preamble providing information specific to its agenda. Each agency was asked to list its rules in three groups:

1. Current and projected rulemakings--those regulations the agency is currently developing or plans to develop during the next 12 months;

2. Reviews of existing regulations--those existing regulations the agency is reviewing to determine whether to propose modifications through rulemaking; and

3. Completed actions--those actions or reviews the agency completed or withdrew since it published its last agenda. This section also includes items that were begun and completed between issues of the Unified Agenda.

Within each of the three groups, each agency was asked to list priority actions before all other actions. Priority actions include:

- major rules under Executive Order (EO) 12291;
- rules designated for priority review by the Presidential Task Force on Regulatory Relief; and
- rules designated for priority review or development by the agency.

Under EO 12291, a major rule is any regulation that is likely to result in:

- an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more;
- a major increase in costs or prices for consumers, individual industries, federal, state, or local government agencies, or geographic regions; or
- significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

Each entry for a priority regulation indicates which of the above criteria the agency used to determine the regulation's priority status. The priority heading will only appear if the agency has designated the regulation as a priority action.

An agency may use a subheading to identify regulations that it has grouped according to a particular topic. When these subheadings are used, they appear before the title of the first regulation in the group.

A dot (●) preceding an entry indicates that the entry appears in its present section of the agenda for the first time.

The regulatory activities included in the agency agendas are those currently planned for the next 12 months. The agendas do not include regulations excluded from review under EO 12291 (such as military regulations and adjudicatory decisions), routine regulations, and regulations related to internal agency management.

OMB Bulletin 83-8 states that entries describing regulations under development and review should contain, at a minimum, the following information:

- Title of the Regulation;
- Agency Contact--the name, title, address, and phone number of a person in the agency who is knowledgeable about the regulation;
- Effects on Small Businesses and Other Entities--an indication of whether the rule is expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities" as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 USC 601(6));
- CFR Citation--the section(s) of the Code of Federal Regulations which affect or will be affected by the action;
- Legal Authority--the section(s) of the United States Code or Public Law or the Executive Order that authorize(s) the regulatory action (agencies may have used common name references to laws in addition to USC or PL references);
- Abstract--a description of the problem the regulation will address, the alternatives that the agency is considering, and the potential costs and benefits of the action;
- Timetable--the dates and citations (if available) for all past and at least the next future stage of rulemaking. If a date appears in this section as 00/00/00, it means the date of the action is presently undetermined. Similarly, 04/00/83 means the day of the month the action will take place is undetermined, but it will take place sometime in April 1983.

Data Limitations

Agencies prepared entries for this edition of the Unified Agenda to give the public notice of their plans to review, propose, and issue regulations. They have tried to predict their activities over the next 12 months as accurately as possible, but dates and schedules are subject to change. Agencies may withdraw some of the regulations now under development, and they may issue or propose other regulations not included in their agendas. Agency actions in the rulemaking process may occur before or after the dates they have listed. The Agenda does not create a legal obligation on agencies to adhere to schedules within it or to confine their regulatory activities to those regulations that appear. The information in this edition is accurate as of March 4, 1983, in the judgment of the submitting agencies, except as otherwise noted in individual agency preambles.

List of Abbreviations

The following abbreviations appear throughout this edition of the Agenda:

ANPRM--An Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking is a preliminary notice that an agency is considering a regulatory action. The agency issues an ANPRM before it develops a detailed proposed rule, describing the general area that may be subject to regulation and asking for public comment on the issues and options being discussed. An ANPRM is issued only when an agency believes it needs to gather more information before proceeding to a formal regulatory proposal.

CFR--The Code of Federal Regulations is a codification of the general and permanent rules published in the Federal Register by the departments and agencies of the federal government. The Code is divided into 50 titles, each title covering a broad area of federal regulatory law. The Office of the Federal Register revises the CFR annually.

EO--An Executive Order is a directive from the President to executive agencies, issued under Constitutional or statutory authority. Executive Orders are published in the Federal Register and in Title 3 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

FR--The Federal Register is a daily federal government publication that announces all proposed and final federal regulations. It also contains notices of public meetings and other events federal agencies may schedule.

FY--Fiscal year is a budgetary term. The federal fiscal year runs from October 1 to September 30.

NPRM--A Notice of Proposed Rulemaking is the document an agency issues and publishes in the Federal Register that describes and solicits public comments on a proposed regulatory action. Under the Administrative Procedure Act, an NPRM must include, at a minimum:

- a statement of the time, place, and nature of the public rulemaking proceeding;
- a reference to the legal authority under which the rule is proposed; and
- either the terms or substance of the proposed rule or a description of the subjects and issues involved.

PL--A Public Law is a law passed by Congress and signed by the President or enacted over his veto. It has general applicability, as opposed to a private law that applies only to those persons or entities specifically designated. Public laws are numbered in sequence throughout the two-year life of each Congress; for example, PL 97-17 would be the seventeenth law of the 97th Congress.

RFA--A Regulatory Flexibility Analysis is required by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 USC 601) to describe the impact of a proposed rule on small entities. An RFA describes why the agency is considering the action, the objectives of and legal basis for the proposed rule, an estimate of the number of small entities that could be affected and the compliance requirements they would have to fulfill, any other duplicative, overlapping or conflicting federal rules, and alternatives to the proposed action. When required, an initial RFA accompanies an NPRM and a final RFA accompanies a final rule.

RIA--A Regulatory Impact Analysis is required by EO 12291 for all major rules and other regulations designated by the Office of Management and Budget. An RIA is prepared to determine whether a proposed regulatory action meets the requirements of Section 2 of EO 12291, namely that regulatory actions:

- be based on adequate information concerning the need for and consequences of the action;
- not be undertaken unless the potential benefits outweigh the potential costs to society;
- maximize net benefits to society;
- entail the least net cost to society of the alternatives considered; and
- take into account the condition of particular affected industries, the national economy, and contemplated future regulatory actions.

RIN--The Regulatory Information Service Center assigns a Regulatory Information Number to identify an individual action in the agenda of an agency that uses the Center's automated agenda production system.

USC--The United States Code is a consolidation and codification of all general and permanent laws of the United States. The USC is divided into 50 titles, each title covering a broad area of federal law.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda: Spring 1983

AGENCY: Department of Agriculture, Office of the Secretary.

ACTION: Semiannual Regulatory Agenda.

SUMMARY: This agenda provides summary descriptions of major regulations being developed in agencies of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in conformance with Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation. The agenda also describes regulations affecting small entities as required by Section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, Pub. L. 96-354. In addition, descriptions of fifty-eight non-major regulations that appeared in prior agendas have been included in this agenda.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on any specific entry shown in this agenda, please contact the person listed for that action.

A few copies of the Agenda are available. Requests for copies should include a self-addressed, stamped envelope and be directed to: Regulatory Agenda, OBPA, Office of the Secretary, Room 147-E, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, (202) 382-1270.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

For major rules, the USDA Regulatory Agenda number appears in the "Additional Information" section. That number shows the month and year that the item was identified as major and placed on the Regulatory Agenda. The first two digits after the agency abbreviation identify the month, and the third digit provides the year. Thus, OFM 102-1 indicates that it was identified as major in October (i.e., "10") of 1982 (i.e., "2"). Any entry with a number indicating a date later than October 1982 is new on the Regulatory Agenda.

The dates shown for the steps of each action are estimated and are not commitments to act on or by the date shown. The "pre-notice" date, when given, is an indication the agency intends to seek public input prior to the "notice of proposed rulemaking."

In this Agenda, we have attempted to list all major actions and regulatory reviews pending at the time of publication, but some may have been inadvertently missed. There is no legal significance to the omission of an item from this listing.

●DETERMINATION OF PROGRAM PROVISIONS FOR THE 1984 CROP OF FEED GRAINS--AND LOAN AND PURCHASE PROGRAM FOR SOYBEANS

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1444d Agricultural Act of 1949, Section 105(b); 7 USC 1446 Agricultural Act of 1949, Section 201

Abstract: The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, requires USDA to provide for minimum levels of price support and to establish, if necessary, a production adjustment program as authorized by the legislation. The following alternatives are under study: (1) Implement no acreage adjustment program--with normal weather conditions, burdensome 1984 feed grain supplies would still be expected. A record demand would be projected, although projected to be less than production estimates. Carryover stocks would probably increase 3 to 5 percent. Prices would be expected to fall from the 1983 projected level--and could be expected to be 10 to 15 cents below the loan rate. All producers would be eligible for program benefits. (2) Implement a production adjustment program--implement a 10 to 15 percent acreage reduction program possibly coupled with a paid land diversion program or PIK program would probably reduce feed grain carryover by 7 to 8 MMT and should result in corn prices at or slightly above 1983 prices. Only program participants would be eligible for program benefits.

Priority: Major

Legal Authority: Ag Act of 1949, Sec 110, amend by Sec 1001, Ag & Food Act 1981

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1421

Priority: Major

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1446 Agricultural Act of 1949, Section 201, as amended

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1430, (Proposed)

Abstract: The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, requires that the price support for milk shall be established at a level to assure an adequate supply of pure and wholesome milk to meet current needs, reflect changes in the cost of production, and assure a level of farm income adequate to maintain productive capacity sufficient to meet anticipated future needs. The minimum level specified for the 1982-83 marketing year is $13.00 per cwt. There is also provision for a fifty-cent deduction for each hundredweight of milk marketed commercially beginning October 1, 1982. Effective April 1, 1983, the Secretary may deduct an additional 50 cents per hundredweight– provided that a program is established to refund this second 50 cent deduction to those producers who cut production by a specified amount from the base period production.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1446 Agricultural Act of 1949 as amended, Section 201

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1430

Abstract: The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1982, requires that the price support for milk shall be set at a level to assure an adequate supply of pure and wholesome milk. The minimum level specified for the 1983-84 marketing year is $13.10 per cwt. The Act provides that, effective October 1, 1982, the Secretary may provide for a deduction of 50 cents per cwt. from the proceeds of sale of all milk marketed commercially by producers under certain conditions. The Act further provides that, effective April 1, 1983, the Secretary may provide for a deduction of an additional 50 cents per cwt. from the proceeds of sale of all milk marketed commercially by producers under certain conditions.

Abstract: The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, requires USDA to provide for minimum price and income support and to establish, if required, a production adjustment program as authorized by the legislation. The following alternatives are under study: (1) No production adjustment program. Total supply for the 1984-85 marketing year would increase substantially, resulting in only moderate increases in utilization, sharply higher ending stocks, depressed prices, and significant increases in government costs; (2) Implement a production adjustment program. An acreage reduction program either alone or in combination with either a cash land diversion and/or a payment-in-kind program could be used to reduce production and ending stocks, raise farm income and hold down government costs.

Abstract: The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, requires USDA to provide for minimum levels of price support and to establish, if necessary, a production adjustment program as authorized by the legislation. The following alternatives are under study: (1) Implement no acreage adjustment program – 1983/84 marketing year supplies may be about the same as the previous year but still burdensome levels. Domestic use is projected to be marginally higher and exports unchanged resulting in a further buildup in carryover stocks. All producers would be eligible for program benefits with this alternative. (2) Implement an acreage reduction program coupled with a land diversion (either cash or payment-in-kind) that would reduce supplies to a more manageable level. 1983/84 supplies may be about the same as a year earlier but still more than 25 percent above desired levels. Only program participants would be eligible for program benefits.

Abstract: The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, requires USDA to provide for minimum levels of price support and to establish, if necessary, a production adjustment program as authorized by the legislation. The following alternatives are under study: (1) No product adjustment program. Total supply for 1984 could reach a record level under normal weather conditions. Domestic use is forecast to increase by about 4 percent and export use is expected to rise by an estimated 5 percent from the 1983 level. In spite of increased utilization, ending stocks would increase to a record level. Farm prices and net farm income could be expected to decline. (2) Implement an acreage reduction program. An acreage reduction program of 15 to 25 percent would insure that planted acreage would not increase to excessively high levels which could result in excessive stocks, low prices, and low farm income. Under an acreage reduction program, program expenditures would be reduced significantly. Net farm income under such an option would be higher than under no production adjustment programs. Semiannual Agenda of Department of Commerce Regulations

AGENCY: Commerce Department.

ACTION: Semiannual Agenda of Department of Commerce Regulations.

SUMMARY: In compliance with Executive Order (EO) 12291, entitled "Federal Regulation," and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (Pub. L. 96-354), the Department of Commerce (DOC) in October and April of each year publishes in the Federal Register an agenda of the regulations that the Department expects to propose or to issue over the next 12 months. In addition, the agenda lists all existing regulations currently under review for possible revision or repeal and all such reviews scheduled to begin over the next 12 months. Finally, the agenda lists all rulemakings and reviews of existing regulations completed since publication of the last agenda. The purpose of the agenda is to provide information to the public on those regulations currently under review, those being proposed, and those issued by the Department. The agenda is intended to facilitate comments and views by interested members of the public.

DOC's April 1983 regulatory agenda includes all regulatory activities that are expected to be conducted during the period April 1, 1983, through March 31, 1984. Regulatory activities undertaken after March 1, 1983, are not included in this agenda but will be included in the next.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For additional information about a specific regulatory action listed in the agenda, contact the individual identified as the contact person. Comments or inquiries of a general nature about the agenda should be directed to H. Stephen Halloway, Associate General Counsel for Legislation and Regulation, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230, Telephone: (202) 377-1328.

For information on this edition of the agenda contact: M. Kendall Fleeharty, Assistant General Counsel for Regulation, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230, Telephone: (202) 377-1328.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On February 17, 1981, President Reagan signed EO 12291. That EO requires all executive agencies to publish semiannually an agenda of those regulations that are under consideration. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Bulletin No. 83-8, issued December 15, 1982, establishes guidelines and procedures for the preparation and publication of the April 1983 Government agency agendas. The EO and the OMB Bulletin direct agencies to provide in the agenda the following information on all regulatory activities being conducted or planned to be conducted by the agency during the twelve month period from April 1, 1983, to March 31, 1984: the title of the regulation; the name, title, address and phone number of an agency person who is knowledgeable about the regulation; whether the regulation has or is expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities; the section(s) of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) which affects or will be affected by the action; the section of the United States Code (USC), Public Law (PL), or Executive Order (EO) that authorizes the action; an abstract describing the problem the regulation addresses, alternatives to the regulation being considered, and potential costs and benefits of the action; and, where available, a timetable of dates and citations for past and future stages of the action. The Regulatory Flexibility Act requires the agency to prepare a regulatory flexibility analysis (RFA) where there is a positive finding that a rule will have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities. The EO requires that a regulatory impact analysis (RIA) be prepared by the agency for any regulation considered to be a "major rule."

The OMB Bulletin also requires that regulations designated for priority development or review by the agency head or the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief, and regulations which are "major rules" within the meaning of the EO be listed under a priority heading separate from non-priority rules and reviews. The Department also assigns this priority classification to all rules required to be reviewed, revised or issued by a Court Order and those new rules whose issuance is needed to protect the public or the environment and those revisions whose issuance furthers the regulatory reform and relief goals of the Administration. The OMB Bulletin also requires that all regulations issued or withdrawn, and all reviews completed since publication of the preceding agenda, be listed with the following information: the title of the regulation; the name and phone number of the agency contact person; the Federal Register citation of the final action, if available; and the final action taken including the reason therefore.

Explanation of Information Contained in the Agenda

Within the Department, the Office of the Secretary and various operating units may issue regulations. Operating units such as the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), the International Trade Administration (ITA), and the Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) issue the greatest share of the Department's regulations, while other operating units such as the Minority Business Development Agency (MBDA) currently have no regulations in effect.

The abbreviations and names of the organizational units and subunits reporting regulatory activities in this agenda are as follows:

Office of the Secretary (OS)
  Assistant Secretary for Administration (ADM)
Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA)
Bureau of the Census (CENSUS)
Economic Development Administration (EDA)
International Trade Administration (ITA)
National Bureau of Standards (NBS)

DOC

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA)
Office of the Administrator (OA)
National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS)
National Ocean Service (NOS)
Office of Minerals and Energy (OME)
Office of Ocean and Coastal Resource Management (OCRM)
National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA)
Office of Productivity, Technology and Innovation (OPTI)
Patent and Trademark Office (PTO)

Under the subheading "TIMETABLE", "ANPRM" stands for Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, and "NPRM" stands for Notice of Proposed Rulemaking. Under the subheading "ADDITIONAL INFORMATION" is indicated whether a RIA and/or a RFA is required, whether such documents are available, and the availability of other documents such as Environmental Assessments or Environmental Impact Statements.

The Department's agenda lists 120 regulatory actions. Of these, 58 are priority current and projected rulemakings of which three have been determined to be "major rules" for the purpose of EO 12291 and which therefore require preparation of a Regulatory Impact Analysis (RIA). Thirty-four regulatory actions are non-priority current and projected rulemakings. The Department is reviewing seven existing regulations--one is priority and six are non-priority. Finally, there are 21 "completed actions" of which 15 were priority and six non-priority. Twenty-two regulations potentially will have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities" within the meaning of the Regulatory Flexibility Act and therefore require the preparation of a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis (RFA).

In addition, Department units have or will undertake economic analyses of five regulations listed in the agenda even though these are not "major rules" within the meaning of EO 12291. In these instances, the agency involved, in conjunction with the Office of the General Counsel, has determined that such an analysis will contribute to the development of cost effective rules.

A large number of the regulations presented in the agenda deal with fishery management programs of NOAA's National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS). To avoid repetition of programs and definitions, as well as to provide some understanding of the technical and institutional elements of the NMFS programs, a section on "Explanation of Information Contained in NMFS Regulatory Entries" is provided below.

Explanation of Information Contained in NMFS Regulatory Entries

The Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976 (16 USC 1801 et seq.)(Act) requires that a preliminary fishery management plan (PMP) be prepared for all fisheries within a fishery conservation zone (FCZ) fished in by foreign fishing nations. The FCZ refers to those waters from the outer edge of the United States territorial sea to a distance of 200 miles. Fishery management plans (FMPs) are to be prepared if those fisheries require conservation and management measures. Although PMPs apply only to foreign fishing, the FMPs regulate both foreign and domestic fishing. When promulgated, the FMPs supersede the PMPs. Under the Act, eight Regional Fishery Management Councils (Councils) prepare FMPs for fisheries within their respective areas. In the development of such plans and their implementing regulations, the Councils are required by law to conduct public hearings on the draft plans and to consider the use of alternative means of regulating.

The Council process for developing FMPs makes it difficult for NMFS to determine the significance of some regulatory actions under consideration at the time the semiannual regulatory agenda is published. Frequently, NMFS does not have specific plan objectives or alternatives for management since the Councils may not have approved or submitted plans to the Secretary of Commerce for review, adoption, and implementation.

Malcolm Baldrige,

Secretary of Commerce.

●DOC IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS TO FEDERAL ACQUISITION REGULATION

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 41 USC 251; EO 12352

CFR Citation: 48 CFR 1 to 53

Abstract: The General Services Administration and the Department of Defense are jointly issuing a Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) which will establish uniform policies and procedures for the acquisition of supplies and services by all executive agencies. The FAR will replace the Federal Procurement Regulation (FPR) and the Defense Acquisition Regulation (DAR) and is intended to be a simplified, more understandable and unified version of the FPR and the DAR. The FAR is expected to be published in final form by July 1, 1983. Executive agencies are expected to implement the FAR by October 1, 1983. Even though agencies are advised to control and limit issuance of supplemental implementing regulations and not repeat, paraphrase or restate FAR material, substantial agency regulations are still anticipated to supplement the FAR which is projected to consist of about 2,000 pages. The extent of specific FAR parts requiring supplemental agency regulations cannot be readily determined at this time.

PROCUREMENT; DEBARRED, SUSPENDED & INELIGIBLE BIDDERS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 5 USC 301; 40 USC 486c; 41 USC 252a

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 1-1.6

Abstract: The amended regulations as issued prescribe DOC procedures for debarring and suspending bidders and contractors from participating in Government contracting and subcontracting. The amendments were needed to conform the DOC regulations to the recently amended GSA Federal Procurement Regulations which prescribe Government-wide procedures for debarment, suspension and placement of bidders in an ineligible status (41 CFR 1-1.6). Those regulations require that each Executive Agency issue regulations specifying responsibilities, in the case of potential suspension, for the granting or denying of a request for hearing and assigning responsibility for decisions with regard to debarment.

CFR Citation: 13 CFR 314.5

Abstract: An amendment to the existing regulation is needed to fulfill a need not contemplated when the regulation was originally drafted. This proposed amendment would permit the Assistant Secretary for Economic Development to waive the prohibition against placing a mortgage on property which has already been financed by an EDA public works grant, if certain conditions are met. The conditions for waiver are the same as those which must be met by EDA applicants who seek to place a mortgage on the property which is to be financed by an EDA public works grant. The benefits are that grantees will have the ability to raise needed funds from the private sector. The costs are a very slight risk that a public facility may lose its public character. The alternative of not amending this regulation was considered and rejected.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 794 Rehabilitation Act of 1973 as amended; EO 12250

Abstract: This regulation needs to be amended in order to incorporate pertinent portions of a recent DOC regulation (15 CFR 8(b))which establishes procedures and policies to assure nondiscrimination based on handicap in programs and activities receiving Federal financial assistance from DOC. The DOC regulation already applies to EDA financial recipients and this amendment is being undertaken so that EDA financial recipients will not have to refer to non-EDA issued regulations to be aware of or understand their responsibilities. Consequently, these regulations impose no additional costs or provide any additional benefits other than to provide an administrative aid to recipients.

Abstract: The existing regulations provide procedures for the administrative programs required to carry out the Department's responsibilities for regulating exports of U.S. goods and technology for purposes of national security, foreign policy, and short supply. Review of these regulations to remove artificial barriers to small business exports was initiated by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief. Revisions to the regulations will be proposed to improve organization, indexing, simplify language, eliminate unnecessary administrative requirements and obsolete provisions, reduce documentation requirements, review certain policy issues, and lessen the compliance burden. Economic impacts will be reviewed and addressed. A more readable and understandable set of regulations with reduced administrative and documentation requirements will result from these revisions. This should considerably aid small business in making exports.

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 330 to 332; 15 CFR 340 to 343; 15 CFR 350 to 354

Abstract: To implement those priorities and allocation authorities of Title I of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, that are assigned to the Office of Industrial Resource Administration, a new regulatory system was proposed that: 1) consolidates the existing regulations and eliminates duplication; 2) is clearly written, organized and presented; and 3) provides for an efficient and effective priorities and allocations system designed to meet likely future challenges and demands. Public comments received were overwhelmingly in favor of the proposed regulations. The benefit of these regulations will be a regulatory system that will be easy to understand and use, without any increase in cost or burden to the public.

GENERAL REGULATIONS GOVERNING FOREIGN TRADE ZONES IN THE UNITED STATES, WITH RULES OF PROCEDURES

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 19 USC 81a et seq Foreign-Trade Zones Act of 1934

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 400

Abstract: Revision of the regulation is needed to administer the Foreign-Trade Zones Act of 1934, as amended, to provide for the establishment, operation, and maintenance of foreign-trade zones in ports of entry of the United States. At the time the ANPRM was published the emphasis was on changing the rules to provide improved guidance to the public on procedures and criteria followed in making decisions concerning special-purpose subzones and operations detrimental to the public interest. Since that time, it has been decided to propose revisions to the entire 15 CFR 400 in order to update the language and conform it to current CFR format.

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 19 USC 1202; PL 89-805; PL 97-446

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 303

Abstract: The existing regulations governing watch quotas will be amended to incorporate the annual rules as an appendix and to conform to PL 97-446, signed into law on 01/12/83. PL 97-446 removes the foreign content limitation on insular watches and watch movements, establishes a new incentive to stimulate watch assembly activity in the insular possessions, and puts limits on the calendar year 1983 quota allocations. A NPRM was published on 01/04/83 proposing annual rules for calendar year 1983 quota allocations. A revised NPRM was published on 02/18/83 proposing quota allocations rules for calendar year 1983 in conformance with PL 97-446.

Priority: Major

Legal Authority: 19 USC 1303; 19 USC 1671 et seq

Abstract: Certain unfair trade practices by foreign governments that could be penalized as dumping or subsidization are either not subject to such remedies under the current law or regulations, subject to challenge if penalized, or escape detection by petitioners and the Department. While certain constraints are imposed by the statutes, the relevant Codes, and the effects on U.S. exporters, all possibilities will be examined with a goal of achieving the maximum benefit for U.S. trading interests and amendments to the regulations will be proposed to take care of as much of the problem as possible through the regulatory process.

FEDERAL INTERACTION WITH VOLUNTARY STANDARDS BODIES

Legal Authority: 41 USC 405; OMB Circular A-119

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 19

Abstract: 15 CFR 19, which never went into effect, established procedures by which the Secretary of Commerce could list voluntary standards bodies and their standards-developing groups based on their certification of their adherence to certain due process and other criteria. Listing was a precondition for Federal participation in such bodies and groups and implemented certain provisions of OMB Circular A-119 of January 17, 1980. On October 26, 1982, OMB Circular A-119 was revised. The provisions in the January 17, 1980 version of the Circular that called for the establishment of procedures for listing of voluntary standards bodies and their standards-developing groups were deleted. Therefore, as there was no longer any justification for the procedures set out in 15 CFR 19, they were withdrawn.

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conser & Management Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 611

Abstract: The amendment and implementing regulations are needed to prevent overfishing, regulate foreign fishing and provide an environment for expansion of the U.S. mackerel, squid, and butterfish fisheries. The objectives are to merge the current mackerel, squid, and butterfish fishery management plans (FMPs), and to develop a 3-year FMP to minimize the need for annual amendments. Because the proposed amendment does not change existing domestic regulations, there is no impact of this amendment on small entities in this fishery.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 TO THE ATLANTIC BILLFISHES AND SHARKS PRELIMINARY FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conser & Management Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 611

Abstract: The Preliminary Fishery Management Plan (PMP) controls the foreign incidental catch of billfish and sharks in the directed tuna longline fishery in the FCZ. The foreign incidental catches diminish the value of U.S. fishermen's right to the first opportunity to harvest Atlantic billfishes and sharks in the FCZ. The regulations would increase availability of billfishes and sharks to U.S. fishermen; reduce conflict between domestic and foreign fishermen; and provide reasonable opportunity for foreign nations to fish for tuna under international agreements. The regulations will have significant impact on substantial number of small entities. The domestic recreational industry and commercial fisheries will benefit through anticipated increased recreational fishing success, more efficient commercial fishing, and reduced gear damage. In view of the area closure and compensatory payment system, the beneficial impacts of the PMP cannot be quantified until the season is over. The PMP was amended to revise the foreign longlining area to prohibit foreign fishing in the portion of the FCZ claimed by Canada.

Abstract: The problem being addressed is the incidental catch of chinook salmon by foreign fishermen. Alternatives considered were to do nothing or to be more restrictive. There will be a very minor economic benefit to chinook salmon fishermen in western Alaska as their salmon catches increase. The total increase in catch to be shared by a large number of U.S. fishermen is expected to be about $193,000/year with a slight potential adverse economic impact on foreign fishermen.

REEF FISH RESOURCES OF THE GULF OF MEXICO FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 641

Abstract: Biological data indicate a substantial decline in reef fish stocks in the Gulf of Mexico. Overfishing contributes to this decline in many nearshore areas by recreational & commercial users. In addition, there is expanding competition between recreational & commercial users for limited resource. Objectives are: rebuild declining reef fish stocks; establish fishery reporting system; increase reef fish habitats in approp. areas; provide protection for juveniles while protecting existing & new habitats; and minimize conflicts between user groups. Benefits from implementation of the plan over a 5-year period could reach discounted maximum of $8 million for commercial fishermen & $23.2 million for recreational fishermen. Annual costs for development & implementation of plan over a 5-year period are estimated at $393,315. The adopted measures would minimize burden on public & address the problems in the fishery in a cost-effective manner. The regulations will require some small entities to relocate their fishery areas. Net benefits will occur to the fishery because of the rebuilding of the resources.

SPINY LOBSTER FISHERY IN PUERTO RICO & THE VIRGIN ISLANDS FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 645

Abstract: A fishery management plan (FMP) and implementing regulations are needed to manage the spiny lobster resources of the Caribbean. Management measures will protect long-term yields, prevent depletion of the stocks, increase yields from the fishery, and acquire information necessary to better manage the fishery. The primary objective is to achieve optimum yields from a presently healthy fishery stock without encountering the problems of economic or biologic overfishing that have been known to occur in some other fisheries. The FMP imposes a minimum size limit which will cause an estimated loss in income during the first year of $228 per fisherman, and $117 per fisherman in the second year. Size limits in subsequent years are expected to improve landings in the third and subsequent years, resulting in $118 per fisherman increase in income. The prohibition of taking lobsters in certain areas may have minor supply and income effects on commercial and recreational harvesters which may be offset by aesthetic benefits to divers and research benefits to scientists. Additional reporting burdens will be placed on some fishermen.

SNAPPER-GROUPER COMPLEX OF THE SOUTH ATLANTIC REGION FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 646

Abstract: A fishery management plan (FMP) is needed to prevent overfishing of snappers and groupers and to obtain information required for improved management of the fishery. The main objective is to prevent overfishing for all species in the complex. The FMP and implementing regulations will be designed to eliminate the growth of overfishing by prohibiting the use of fish traps shoreward of the 100 fathom line. Other measures include prohibiting the use of certain gear and prohibiting the use of poison and explosives.

AMENDMENT NO. 7 TO THE TANNER CRAB FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 671

Abstract: Amendment No. 7 would eliminate the 16.5 million pounds of total allowable level of foreign fishing for C. opilio; reduce the optimum yield (OY) for C. opilio in the Bering Sea management area from 130 million pounds to equal the domestic annual harvest within a range of 39.5 - 91.0 million pounds; establish OYs for C. bairdi in the Chignik management area at 5.0 million pounds and in the South Peninsula management area at 6.0 million pounds; and increase the range OY for C. bairdi in the Bering Sea management area from 22.0 - 33.0 million pounds to 28.0 - 36.0 million pounds. Amendment No. 7 should increase harvest levels and abundance of C. bairdi tanner crab and harvest of the full acceptable biological catch of C. opilio in the Bering Sea by U.S. fishermen. The amendment focuses on the elimination of the C. opilio total allowable level of foreign fishing. The only substantial economic impact will be on foreign fishery fleets.

AMENDMENT NO. 8 TO THE TANNER CRAB FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 671

Abstract: Amendment No. 8 to the Tanner Crab Fishery Management Plan (FMP) would establish a minimum harvest size of 3.1 inches for C. opilio (the standard industry practice is to take 4.0 inch crab); remove permanently the FMP's provision for storing pots on fishing grounds 72 hrs. before the fishing season opens (a minor adverse economic impact offset by more effective enforcement); rescind the pot limit in Cook Inlet and establish pot limits in Kodiak District and all of Registration Area E (Prince William Sound); prohibit the use of side loading pots in the Yakutat District; and revise fishing season dates for the South Peninsula, Chignik, Western Aleutians, Southeast, and Yakutat Districts. The amendment represents a technical adjustment necessary to update the FMP and more accurately reflect current management practices by the State of Alaska. No new economic burdens would be imposed on U.S. fishermen. Any impacts will be minor and potential benefits significantly outweigh adverse impacts.

HIGH SEAS SALMON FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: REGULATORY AMENDMENT TO CLARIFY CLOSURE AUTHORITY OF THE SECRETARY: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 674

Abstract: This amendment to the High Seas Salmon Fishery Management Plan and implementing regulations would clarify the authority of the Secretary, as delegated to the Alaska Regional Director, NMFS, to close the high seas salmon troll fishery at any harvest level within the chinook salmon optimum yield range that he determines to be necessary for the conservation and management of chinook salmon. The reduction in troll catch proposed for 1982 was estimated to be evenly distributed over approximately 965 power trollers and 2,137 hand trollers. Reductions in revenues were insignificant—estimated between $465 and $537 per power troller and $33 and $38 per hand troller in 1982.

KING CRAB (BERING SEA/ALEUTIAN ISLANDS) FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 676

Abstract: This fishery management plan (FMP) and implementing regulations seek to ensure effective conservation and management of King Crab stocks in the Bering Sea and Aleutian Islands area while providing continued active participation of the State of Alaska in management of these fisheries. Non-resident Alaskan fishermen will have more effective input to fishery management. There is a need for enforcement of sex and minimum size limits to prevent overharvesting the King Crab optimum yield, and to prevent harvesting of females and under-sized crab. The regulation protects smaller vessels that compete with larger vessels in their ability to move between fishing areas. Regulatory measures also seek to ensure equitable representation of all components of the harvesting sector. Alternative measures under the FMP could have a significant impact on small entities. This is a framework FMP.

CORAL & CORAL REEFS IN THE GULF OF MEXICO & THE SOUTH ATLANTIC FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Management Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 638

Abstract: Regulation is needed to control the potential harvest of coral in the Gulf of Mexico and the South Atlantic Ocean. Although the present harvest is at a very low level, rapid increases in effort could lead to extensive destruction of the corals. The objective is to develop more and better data and to optimize benefits generated from the coral resource while conserving the coral and coral reefs. Certain types of gear will be prohibited and fishing will be restricted in certain areas, with a consequent adverse economic impact on small entities. Benefits will accrue through the conservation of the coral and coral reefs which are important habitats sustaining spiny lobsters, snappers, groupers and other fishes.

CIVIL PROCEDURES

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act; 16 USC 773 et seq Northern Pacific Halibut Act of 1982

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 904

Abstract: The existing regulations (15 CFR 904) provide uniform procedures for enforcement and civil proceedings under the various fishery and marine resource statutes administered by NOAA. The regulations are being revised to consolidate all aspects of NOAA's civil process which can be uniformly treated. The revised regulations will provide uniform permit processing procedures and sanction procedures; means of addressing the respondent's ability to pay in civil penalty proceedings; procedures for issuance and appeal of written warnings for violations of law; and procedures for selling seized perishable fish. The revisions will clarify for the public the procedures which NOAA follows in carrying out its enforcement responsibilities. The amendments thus are beneficial rather than burdensome to the public. These procedural regulations will not increase costs to the public or local governments. Nor will they have a significant adverse effect on competition, employment or industry. The alternative of not further consolidating the procedures was considered and rejected. There is no alternative to making the updating and housekeeping portions of the amendments.

Under such circumstances, foreign fishing vessel owners would pay observer fees directly to supplementary U.S. observers or their agents. The Secretary of Commerce must certify observers and procedures for monitoring performance. ●FOREIGN RECREATIONAL FISHING

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1821(j) The Magnuson Fishery Conser. and Management Act

The Secretary of Commerce and the Governor of a coastal State may impose reasonable fees and conditions and restrictions on such recreational fishing. The proposed regulations will: (1) specify the vessel types and activities which qualify for fishing without a permit, (2) require no fees or special conditions for vessels which qualify for recreational fishing without a permit, and (3) provide the mechanism for a Governor to propose either fees or conditions and restrictions to such fishing in the fishery conservation zone adjacent to his State. Abstract: Housekeeping amendments to the foreign fishing regulations covering the Preliminary Fishery Management Plan of the Hake Fisheries of the Northwestern Atlantic (PMP) will be proposed to simplify the procedures for handling joint venture applications (joint ventures involve transfer at sea of U.S. harvested hake to foreign processing vessels). The proposed revision would: (1) provide a 15-day public comment period in the procedure the NMFS Northeast Regional Director would follow in making new estimates of domestic annual processing capacity (DAP) upon receiving a joint venture permit application, and (2) require the DAP reassessment procedure to be applied only if a foreign fishing application is received for a joint venture and if the amount of U.S. harvested hake requested by the applicant exceeds the amount of JVP (joint venture processing) that can be made available to the applicant.

AMENDMENT NO. 4 TO THE HIGH SEAS SALMON FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 674

Abstract: Amendment No. 4 and implementing regulations to the High Seas Salmon Fishery Management Plan (FMP) may be needed to prevent depletion of the stocks by overfishing if naturally spawning stocks of southeast Alaska and Pacific Northwest chinook salmon are depressed. Reducing the optimum yield (OY) could contribute to resolution of the problem; alternatively reducing the harvest level within the current OY range may be adequate to address the problem. Adjustment of fishing season dates may also be appropriate. Adjustment of OY levels or the fishing season would impact over 3,000 commercial salmon trollers. Adverse impacts could include lower catch/revenues or increase competition for available catch. It is unknown at this time whether a 1984 amendment will be necessary.

FEDERAL CONSISTENCY WITH APPROVED COASTAL ZONE MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS: DEFINITION OF THE TERM: "DIRECTLY AFFECTING" IN SECTION 307(C)(1) OF THE COASTAL ZONE MANAGEMENT ACT

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1456 Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 930

Abstract: Section 307(c)(1) of the Coastal Zone Management Act (CZMA) provides that Federal activities "directly affecting the coastal zone" of a State with a Federally-approved coastal zone management program must be consistent with that program to the maximum extent practicable. The definition of "directly affecting" has been the subject of long-standing controversy both among Federal agencies and between the Federal agencies and the coastal states. The coastal states' interpretation has generally been broader than that of the Federal agencies, although, until 1981, the Department of Commerce supported the states' position. A final rule, issued July 8, 1981 (46 FR 35253), defined a Federal activity narrowly as "directly affecting the coastal zone" if the Federal agency finds that the conduct of the activity itself produces a measurable physical alteration in the coastal zone or if the activity initiates a chain of events reasonably certain to result in such alteration, without further required agency approval. "Direct effects" did not include effects identified by the Federal agency as uncertain, speculative or remote. In May 1981, California filed a (cont)

ABSTRACT CONT: lawsuit seeking to enjoin the Department of the Interior from leasing certain tracts offshore California on the grounds among others that the activity directly affected the California coastal zone and a consistency determination was required. The District Court's opinion, issued in August 1981, held that the lease sale directly affected the coastal zone and in other respects adopted California's interpretation of the CZMA. NPRM to withdraw rule published October 16, 1981 (46 FR 50937); Final Rule withdrawn January 29, 1982 (46 FR 4231); notice confirming withdrawal published May 11, 1982 (47 FR 2011). The broad definition of "directly affecting" was affirmed by the Ninth Circuit August 12, 1982. A petition for Supreme Court review is pending. NOAA's narrow definition of the term in the rules issued in July 1981 was subsequently withdrawn on April 27, 1982. New regulations will be proposed when the outcome of the litigation is final.

●PROPOSED REGULATIONS FOR THE PROPOSED HAWAIIAN HUMPBACK WHALE NATIONAL MARINE SANCTUARY

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1431 to 1434

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 941

Abstract: Regulations will be proposed in conjunction with the designation of the Hawaiian Humpback Whale National Marine Sanctuary to complement existing Federal law aimed at eliminating or reducing harassment of the seasonal humpback whale population in Hawaii. The regulations will also define the limits of the Sanctuary within which increased State-Federal coordination will occur--particularly in the issuance of research permits, enforcement, public education, and research effort. The present regulatory regime has proven to be an inadequate means for ensuring the long-term protection of the endangered humpback whale and its habitat.

●PROPOSED REGULATIONS FOR THE PROPOSED FAGATELE BAY NATIONAL MARINE SANCTUARY

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1431 to 1434

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 940

Abstract: The American Samoa Government does not currently possess the legal authorities necessary for managing site-specific marine resources such as the Fagatele Bay National Marine Sanctuary. Regulations will be proposed for the Fagatele Bay National Marine Sanctuary to fulfill a need evidenced by uncontrolled harvesting of reef fisheries and the loss of habitat via destructive fishing methods. Long-term benefits include resource protection and restoration of habitat; public education and development of an environmental ethic; and ecological succession studies. This project will serve as a prototype for other resource protection initiatives by the American Samoa Government.

DEEP SEABED MINING REGULATIONS FOR COMMERCIAL RECOVERY

Priority: Major

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1401 et seq Deep Seabed Hard Mineral Resources Act

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 971

Abstract: Under 15 CFR 970, prospective deep seabed miners may apply to NOAA for the exploration license needed to explore the deep seabed for manganese nodules. Under the new regulations, prospective miners will be able to apply to NOAA for a permit to commercially recover and process nodules to obtain strategic metals (nickel, copper, cobalt, manganese). These permits would provide security of tenure for applicants with respect to other U.S. citizens and other nations' permittees in accordance with applicable international agreements. Fees for securing and maintaining a permit will be based on the Government's processing costs. These fees would be an inconsequential portion of the cost of a commercial recovery operation. The cost of a commercial recovery operation is expected to exceed one billion dollars. Alternatives to the regulation would require amending the Deep Seabed Hard Mineral Resources Act, which would be considered in the context of the U.S. law of the sea policy.

NATIONAL MARINE FISHERIES SERVICE

AMERICAN LOBSTER FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 649

Abstract: The New England Fishery Management Council has developed the American Lobster Fishery Management Plan (FMP) which, if approved and implemented, is intended to promote conservation of the American lobster resource, reduce the possibility of recruitment failure, and allow full utilization of the resource by the U.S. industry. The management program is to minimize social, cultural, and economic dislocation in the fishery. The FMP would establish conservation measures for the offshore fishery in the fishery conservation zone (FCZ), and encourage the States to adopt similar restrictions. The principal alternative is no Federal action and to leave lobster management to the States. Short-term (1983) costs to industry are identified (approx. a 3% reduction in revenues); substantial long-term increases in resource productivity expected from establishing minimum size limit for lobsters retained in fishery. While fishery revenues may be redistributed among vessels, positive net economic benefits are expected in the long term through long-term increase in resource productivity.

TREATMENT OF PROHIBITED SPECIES

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 611

Abstract: Foreign and domestic fishermen are presently required to discard all prohibited species caught incidentally with permitted fish. This includes fish caught by U.S. fishermen and delivered to foreign processors at sea ("joint ventures"). Fish that are frequently already dead must be discarded. Obviously, this is wasteful. Alternative ways of minimizing the bycatch of prohibited species are being considered. If dead prohibited species are allowed to be kept, fishing vessels will experience a substantial increase in revenues.

Abstract: The regulations interpret certain statutory terms applicable to, and establish procedures governing, formal adjudicatory hearings to be held before the Secretary of Commerce can apply Federal fishery regulations to certain waters within State boundaries. Section 306(b) of the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act authorizes the Secretary of Commerce to regulate a fishery within State boundaries in certain circumstances. The standards would be used in a voluntary program of fishery products inspection and certification by NMFS. The total value of the industry product in 1981 was $19 million. Industry has expressed a high level of interest in and support for the voluntary standards.

Abstract: The final rule will establish general quality grading standards for all non-breaded forms of fresh or frozen shrimp. These grading standards will provide for the systematic differentiation of the quality of shrimp into four categories -- U.S. Grades A, B, C and Substandard. The proposed standards will be applied to all commercial species of fresh or frozen shrimp in raw or cooked states in all non-breaded market forms. The adoption of grading standards is expected to facilitate trade in shrimp of all commercial species, as consumers will be able to select shrimp on the basis of identified quality. Industry has shown great interest in and support for the standards.

Abstract: These regulations (15 CFR 981) established a stable legal system and a streamlined licensing process to facilitate commercial development of ocean thermal energy conversion (OTEC) facilities and plantships. These regulations are being reviewed to determine if they should be revised. The details of the simplified licensing system for ownership, construction, location, and operation of OTEC facilities and plantships which are associated with the United States or U.S. Citizens, are being examined to gauge the effect on the developing OTEC industry. Section 117 of the Ocean Thermal Energy Conversion Act of 1980 requires NOAA to review these regulations periodically, at intervals of not more than every three years, and to revise them as necessary based on that review.

AMENDMENT TO THE HAKE FISHERIES OF THE NORTHWEST ATLANTIC PRELIMINARY FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 611.53

Abstract: The purpose of the Preliminary Fishery Management Plan (PMP) amendment and implementing regulations is to decrease silver hake optimum yield (OY) and the total allowable level of foreign fishing (TALFF) in response to latest fishery data. The PMP only affects foreign fishing vessels, and does not impact upon U.S. fishing entities. The benefit of lowering the OY and TALFF is to set a harvest level which maintains a spawning stock of adequate size, and which protects the stock from any unforeseen increases in fishing effort. The alternative of taking no action was considered and rejected because the present OY might allow undesirable reductions in spawning stock. No costs to industry are expected.

COASTAL MIGRATORY PELAGIC FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 642

Abstract: The fishery management plan (FMP) covers coastal pelagic resources located in the fishery conservation zone (FCZ) in the Gulf of Mexico and the South Atlantic. The species of primary interest are king mackerel, Spanish mackerel, and cobia. The purpose of the FMP and the implementing regulations is to prevent overfishing that could result from the rapid increase in mackerel effort; and to respond to gear conflicts between commercial fishermen and user conflicts between commercial and recreational fishermen. The FMP imposes mandatory reporting requirements on individual fishermen. Closure of segments of the fishery will adversely affect purse seine and gillnet fishermen, and possibly commercial hook and line fishermen. The prohibition of possession of Spanish mackerel of less than 12 inches will have a minimal effect on fishermen.

WITHDRAWAL OF SECRETARIAL APPROVAL OF THE FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN FOR THE ATLANTIC HERRING FISHERY OF THE NORTHWEST ATLANTIC (FMP): REPEAL OF IMPLEMENTING REGULATION

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 653

Abstract: Withdrawal of approval was necessitated by serious operational difficulties in implementing the Fishery Management Plan for the Atlantic Herring Fishery of the Northwest Atlantic (FMP), which no longer met the national standards of the Magnuson Act. The intended effect of the repeal of the regulations is to eliminate Federal management of the Atlantic herring fishery until such time as the New England Fishery Management Council prepares a new management plan which can be approved and implemented. After approval of Amendment 3 to the FMP, NMFS/NOAA was unable to implement the FMP in accordance with the Magnuson Act during the 1980-81 fishing year. Review of the FMP revealed that erroneous assumptions were made in approving the FMP, and that changed fishery circumstances rendered the FMP invalid and inoperative since its approval. The council failed to take remedial action within a reasonable time. Alternatives considered included Secretarial amendment to the FMP or withdrawal of approval of selected parts. The action chosen was least costly alternative for resolving the management problems.

AMENDMENT NO. 1 TO THE STONE CRAB FISHERY OF THE GULF OF MEXICO FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 654

Abstract: This amendment and implementing regulations would provide flexibility in amending regulations, modify reporting requirements and delete exceptions pertaining to live bait shrimping. The major benefits from this regulation are a reduction of the reporting burden for participants in the fishery, and protection of the stone crab stocks from lost or abandoned traps. The amendment establishes a mechanism for changing the location and effective period of the line of separation for the use of trawl gear and stone crab gear. The amendment modifies the reporting burden and the deletion of the exception for live bait shrimping within the separation line. Neither of these changes is expected to have any impact on the fishery resources, or the physical or human environment. The amendment provides for the disposition of lost or abandoned non-wooden stone crab traps. Because most traps are made of wood, this measure will not have a significant impact.

SPINY LOBSTER FISHERIES OF THE WESTERN PACIFIC FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN: IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conservation & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 681

Abstract: This fishery management plan and implementing regulations would establish size limits for retention of lobster, close certain areas to lobster fishing to protect endangered species, prescribe legal gear, and establish reporting requirements. The fishery has never had more than six firms operating in it and no more than nine are anticipated. The present discount value of benefits for the next 10 years is $6 million. Federal costs are estimated at $21,000/year.

FISHERIES OBLIGATION GUARANTEE PROGRAM

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 46 USC 1271 et seq Title XI of the Merchant Marine Act; 16 USC 1801 American Fisheries Promotion Act of 1980

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 255

Abstract: The American Fisheries Promotion Act extended the benefits of the Fishing Vessel Obligation Guarantee Program to newly constructed shoreside facilities as well as used vessels or shoreside facilities involved in underutilized or developing fisheries. The existing regulations are being revised to employ a less stringent economic soundness criteria for vessels or facilities operated in underutilized fisheries. The revised regulations are designed to stimulate the development of new fisheries by making long term financing available and by providing a U.S. Government guarantee of repayment of the debt portion of vessel or shoreside facility construction, reconstruction, reconditioning or purchasing costs where there is insufficient economic information to assess the prospects for commercial success.

FEDERAL CONSISTENCY WITH APPROVED COASTAL MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS: IMPLEMENTATIONS OF SECTIONS 307(C)(1),(2) (3) AND 307(D) OF THE COASTAL ZONE MANAGEMENT ACT (CZMA) ETC

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1456 Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972; EO 12372; Recission of OMB Circular A-95

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 930; 15 CFR 931

Abstract: Under existing regulations, applications for financial assistance for public facilities and services and for other construction projects under the Coastal Energy Impact Program are subject to the Project Notification and Review System established by the now-rescinded OMB Circular A-95. The existing regulations also encourage Federal agencies undertaking actions that are likely to significantly affect the coastal zone to notify state coastal zone agencies using the A-95 process. State agencies are encouraged by the regulations to use the A-95 process to monitor Federal agency activities. These regulations will be revised to conform to the provisions of Executive Order 12372 and departmental regulations to be promulgated under that Order.

INTERIM FISHERY MANAGEMENT PLAN FOR ATLANTIC GROUNDFISH; IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq Magnuson Fishery Conserv & Mgmt. Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 651

Abstract: The New England Fishery Management Council prepared a new plan, the Interim Plan, to replace the previous fishery management plan which regulated domestic fishing for cod, haddock, and yellowtail flounder since 1977. It allows the industry to operate with minimal regulations and permits the Council time to formulate another more comprehensive plan addressing the whole multispecies groundfish complex. The Interim Plan will, during its 3-year life span: (1) protect concentrations of spawning cod, haddock, and yellowtail flounder (regulated species); (2) reduce the risk of recruitment overfishing of regulated species; and (3) permit the acquisition of reliable data critically needed to support development of the future comprehensive plan. The Interim Plan impacts on approx. 1,000 fishing vessels and affiliated shore-side facilities that service these vessels. Elimination of the quotas under the old plan is expected to result in an increase in landings to 109,700 mt in 1982 and to 115,600 mt in 1983.

FINANCIAL AID PROGRAM PROCEDURES

Legal Authority: 46 USC 1271 to 1279 Title XI of Merchant Marine Act; 46 USC 1177 Sec 607 of the Merchant Marine Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 251

Abstract: This amendment involves revising the conditional fisheries mechanism in order to develop the harvesting of domestic underutilized species by allowing use of financial assistance programs in the construction of so-called combination vessels whose operation for underutilized species is often necessarily associated with economically viable, traditional, and often conditional species. The primary purpose of NOAA's Fishing Vessel Obligation Guarantee and Capital Construction Fund Programs is to enable a sound capitalization of the cost of construction of new fishing vessels. The present conditional fisheries regulations often impede the construction of combination vessels. Revision of this regulation is no longer necessary because of a provision in the American Fisheries Promotion Act.

PUBLIC TELECOMMUNICATIONS FACILITIES PROGRAM

Legal Authority: 47 USC 390 et seq Pub Telecommunications Financing Act of 1978; PL 97-35 Public Broadcasting Amendments Act of 1981

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 2301

Abstract: Under the Public Telecommunications Facilities Program (PTFP) NTIA makes matching grants to nonprofit organizations to assist in the planning and construction of public telecommunications facilities. By a PTFP Report and Order published in 1979 in 44 FR 30895 and made part of 15 CFR 2301 NTIA had required grantees to use federally funded equipment "only" for public telecommunications purposes. By Interim Rules and a Policy Statement published in 1982 in 47 FR 11228, NTIA amended its PTFP regulations to allow grantees more flexibility in the use of federally funded equipment. The purpose of this change was to assist grantees in meeting their increasing financial needs by authorizing them limited use of federally funded equipment for "other than public telecommunications purposes." This was done by amending the regulations to require grantees to use Federally funded equipment "primarily" for public telecommunications purposes. In the course of making these amendments, NTIA rewrote numerous sections of the rules governing the PTFP to simplify and clarify them and to rewrite the list of priorities under which grants would be made. This action (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: will result fn some increase in the use of federally funded equipment and a concomitant increase in the need for repair and replacement of equipment. Neither an RIA nor an RFA was required or prepared. NTIA's PTFP rules affect a number of small entities, generally nonprofit organizations and educational institutions. The changes in NTIA's regulations now authorize grantees to a limited extent to engage in "other than public telecommunication activities" with the view toward increasing their economic viability and thereby decreasing their dependence on federal support. While the changes allow grantees to generate revenue, it is not anticipated that the amount of revenue will be substantial enough to displace federal support at this time. Therefore, the economic impact on small entities is not viewed as significant.

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 17a

Abstract: 15 CFR 17a provides for grants and technical services from the Department of Commerce to establish Centers for Industrial Technology (CIT) under the Cooperative Generic Technology Program (COGENT). Proposed rules, published May 12, 1982 for comment, cancelled funding of the COGENT program and proposed substitute CIT program procedures for provision of non-grant technical services to the private sector in establishing cooperative R&D activities. By April 1983, the Department of Commerce will announce program procedures for the Industrial Technology Partnerships (ITP) Program which will supersede the substitute rules and the original COGENT program. The new ITP program will provide services for assisting the private sector to establish joint innovative research ventures, including R&D limited partnerships, and cooperative R&D arrangements, among private firms, universities, and government agencies. Potential benefits include fostering innovation and commercialization of new products and processes and enhancing U.S. competitiveness.

CFR Citation: 37 CFR 1.8; 37 CFR 1.253; 37 CFR 1.301 to 1.304; 37 CFR 2.145

Abstract: In order to conform to changes brought about by the Federal Courts Improvement Act of 1982, PL 97-164, the PTO's rules of practice were amended relating to court review of decisions of PTO's Board of Appeals, Board of Patent Interferences and Trademark Trial and Appeal Board. The Act transferred jurisdiction to review decisions of these boards, previously vested in the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, to a new United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit and abolished the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals. The change is reflected in the amendment to PTO's rules. The amendment also incorporates changes in PTO practice to conform to procedures required by the rules adopted by the new court. A correction was published on 11/5/82 (47 FR 50242).

Improving Government Regulations; Semiannual Agenda of Regulations for Period: Sept. 1, 1982–Mar. 1, 1983

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, DoD.

ACTION: Publication of DoD's semiannual agenda of regulations under review or development.

SUMMARY: The Department of Defense is publishing its fourth semiannual agenda of regulations for public information and comments under E.O. 12291, "Federal Regulation." This agenda incorporates the objectives and criteria, when applicable, of the regulatory reform program under E.O. 12291, and other regulatory reform programs. It contains DoD issuances initiated by DoD Components that have been reviewed to determine their economic and environmental impact on state, local, public or private interests under the criteria of E.O. 12291. Although most DoD issuances listed in the agenda are of negligible public impact, their nature may be of public concern and interest and are therefore published to provide notice and an opportunity for participation in the DoD rulemaking process.

This agenda updates the report published in October 1982 and covers the period from Sept. 1, 1982—Mar. 1, 1983. The next agenda is scheduled to be published in October 1983. In addition to this agenda, DoD Components also publish, for public review and comment, issuances pertaining to their specific statutory administrative requirements.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For information concerning the overall DoD regulatory improvement and general semiannual agenda information contact Colonel Peter H. Karalus, telephone 202–695–4281 or write to Directorate for Organizational and Management Planning, OASD(C), Washington, D.C. 20301.

For questions of a legal nature concerning the agenda and its statutory requirements or obligations contact Ms. Kathleen Buck, legal counsel, Office of the General Counsel, Washington, D.C. 20301, or call 202–697–2714.

For specific agenda items, contact the appropriate individual indicated in each DoD Component report.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This consolidated agenda is composed of the regulatory status reports from the Office of the Secretary of Defense and the Departments of the Army, Navy, and Air Force. Included also in this agenda is the fifth regulatory report from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, whose civil works functions fall under the reporting requirements of E.O. 12291. Their agenda will reflect these requirements, and follow-on reporting actions will be taken, as necessary.

DoD issuances range from DoD Directives (reflecting departmental policy) to Implementing Instructions and Regulations (largely internal and used to implement Directives). The OSD agenda section contains the primary Directives under which DoD components promulgate their implementing regulations.

To ease identification and to clarify the differences between the variety of issuances reported, they are identified by their DoD internal numbering system, which denotes Component level of authority and type of issuance in addition to the required CFR number.

In addition, this agenda, although published under the reporting requirements of E.O. 12291, will continue to be the DoD single source reporting vehicle which will identify issuances that are currently applicable under the various regulatory reform programs in progress. Therefore, when applicable, DoD Components will identify those rules which come under the criteria of the:

a. Regulatory Flexibility Act.
b. Paperwork Reduction Act.
c. GATT International Trade Agreement.

Although few of any DoD issuances are directly applicable under these statutes, those that may meet the criteria specified will be identified in the agenda and their action status indicated. Accordingly, this DoD Agenda incorporates those additional regulatory reform requirements, when determined applicable, to all DoD issuances reported in this agenda. The individual DoD Component's agenda reports contained herein may vary this reporting format due to their separate and individual mission functions and reponsibilities in the DoD rulemaking process.

Although not a regulatory agency, the Department of Defense will continue to participate in regulatory initiatives designed to reduce economic costs and unnecessary environmental burdens upon the public. Comments and recommendations are invited on the rules reported and should be addressed to the DoD Component representatives identified in each section.

Although sensitive to the needs of the public and regulatory reform, DoD reserves the right to exercise the exemptions and flexibility permitted in its rulemaking process in order to proceed with its overall defense-oriented mission.

Note.—The publishing of this agenda does not waive the applicability of the military affairs exemption in title 5, section 553 and section 1 of E.O. 12291.

March 1, 1983.

D. O. Cooke,

Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense.

AGENCY: Department of the Air Force.

ACTION: Semiannual agenda of regulatory information for the period September 1, 1982—March 1, 1983 under review or development by the Department of the Air Force.

SUMMARY: The regulations listed on the agenda are existing or proposed regulations which affect the public and are under internal review for revision or development. The Department of the Air Force has no "major rules" under development or review as defined by Executive Order 12291. Also, it has determined that the relevant provisions of the Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96–354) do not apply to these rules and that these rules do not contain reporting or recordkeeping requirements under the criteria of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96–511). These rules do not have an impact on international trade and therefore the provisions of the GATT Agreement do not apply.

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations

AGENCY: Department of Education.

ACTION: Publication of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: The Secretary of Education publishes a Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations as required by Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Bulletin No. 83-8 issued under the authority of Executive Order 12291 ("Federal Regulations"). The purpose of the agenda is to encourage more effective public participation in the regulatory process by giving the public early information about pending regulatory activities.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Questions or comments related to specific regulations listed in this agenda should be directed to the contact person listed for that set of regulations. Questions or comments on the overall agenda should be directed to A. Neal Shedd, Director, Division of Regulations Management, Office of the General Counsel, Department of Education, Room 2129 FOB-6, 400 Maryland Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20202. Telephone (202) 245-7091.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291, dated February 17, 1981, and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, Pub. L. 96-354, enacted September 19, 1980, require the Department of Education to publish, in October and April of each year, an agenda of regulations that the Department expects to issue and currently effective regulations that are under review. The agenda includes both notices of proposed rulemaking (NPRMs) currently being drafted and pending final regulations for which NPRMs have been published.

Under the authority of Executive Order 12291, the Director of OMB has issued OMB Bulletin No. 83-8, dated December 15, 1982, prescribing the content and structure of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations. The unified agenda will be issued semiannually and will cover the succeeding 12 months from the date of publication.

For each set of regulations listed, the agenda provides the title of the document, the type of document, a citation of any rulemaking or other actions taken since publication of the most recent agenda, and planned dates of future rulemaking. In addition, the agenda provides the following information:

- An abstract, which includes a description of the problem to be addressed and any principal alternatives being considered.
- An indication of whether the planned action is likely to have a significant effect on a substantial number of small entities.
- A reference to where a reader can find the current regulations in the Code of Federal Regulations.
- A citation of legal authority.
- The name, address, and telephone number of the contact person at the Department from whom a reader can obtain additional information regarding the planned action.

This publication in the Federal Register does not impose any binding obligation on the Department with regard to any specific item on the agenda. Regulatory action in addition to the items listed is not precluded. Dates of future regulatory action are subject to revision in subsequent agendas.

DATED: March 15, 1983.

T. H. Bell,

Secretary of Education.

Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Department of Energy.

ACTION: April 1983 Regulatory Agenda.

SUMMARY: The Department of Energy (DOE) is publishing an agenda of regulatory activities that DOE expects to take in the next year or has completed since October 1982. This Regulatory Agenda includes (1) all rules expected to be issued as proposed or final rules before April 1983, (2) all rules being reviewed within the Department to determine whether to propose modifications through rulemaking, and (3) all rules for which regulatory action has been completed since the October 1982 Regulatory Agenda. In addition, the Agenda identifies each rule that DOE expects to propose or promulgate which is "likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities," and thus also serves as the Department's regulatory flexibility agenda. The Agenda does not include routine regulations and those that relate to internal agency management. Many of the included rules relate to programs that are inconsistent with the Administration's policies and DOE is promulgating such rules only because they are required by statute to be promulgated.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

General

For further information on the Agenda in general, contact: William Funk, Assistant General Counsel for Regulatory Oversight, Department of Energy, Room 6A-141, Forrestal Building, 1000 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20585, (202) 252-6736

Specific

For further information about any particular item on the Agenda, contact the individual listed under that item.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Executive Order 12291 (46 FR 13193, February 19, 1981), requires each Federal agency to publish, in April and October of each year, an agenda of proposed regulations that the agency has issued or expects to issue, and currently effective rules that are under agency review. OMB Bulletin 83-8 sets forth standards and procedures for the preparation of these agendas.

Executive Order 12291 also provides that the regulatory agenda may be incorporated with the "regulatory flexibility agenda" required under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (Pub. L. 96-354, 5 U.S.C. 602). The regulatory flexibility agenda must contain: (1) a brief description of the subject area of and a summary of the nature of any rule which the agency expects to propose or promulgate which is "likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities"; (2) the objectives and legal basis for the issuance of the rule, and an approximate schedule for completing action on any rule for which the agency has issued a general notice of proposed rulemaking; and (3) the name and telephone number of an agency official knowledgeable concerning each such rule.

Appended to this Notice is DOE's April 1983 Regulatory Agenda, reflecting the status of rules listed as of March 1, 1983. Incorporated in this Agenda is the regulatory flexibility agenda required under 5 U.S.C. 602. Pursuant to OMB Bulletin 83-8 DOE has adopted the new standard format developed for the Agenda by the Government Printing Office. DOE believes the new standard format is clear and concise and involves financial savings for DOE in publication of the Agenda.

Many of these rules are required by statute to be promulgated. Were it not for these legal requirements, DOE would not promulgate these rules because the Administration has indicated that these programs are inconsistent with the Administration's policies. Rules of this type are identified in the additional information section. DOE will, of course, in promulgating these rules comply with the requirements of Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

The April 1983 Regulatory Agenda has been prepared in accordance with OMB Bulletin 83-8. Regulatory activities have been divided among the following three categories: (1) current and projected rulemakings (that is, rulemakings for which a Federal Register notice already has been issued or is expected to be issued prior to April 1984); (2) reviews of existing regulations (that is, pending reviews within the agency to determine whether to modify an existing regulation through a rulemaking); and (3) completed actions (that is, regulatory activities for which the agency has completed its action prior to the publication of the current agenda). Within the past two years DOE has completed two comprehensive reviews of its regulations. (46 FR 20506, April 3, 1981 and 46 FR 18574, April 30, 1982). Therefore there are only a few items listed in Category 2.

Each category is divided into two sections on the basis of whether the activity relates to a priority regulation. Priority regulations include all regulations designated for priority development or review by an agency head, all regulations that are "major rules" under Section 2(b) of Executive Order 12291, and all regulations designated for review by the Presidential Task Force on Regulatory Relief.

Each item will contain the following information: (1) title; (2) priority status (that is, if the regulation is a priority regulation); (3) agency contact (that is, the name, title, address and telephone number of a person who is knowledgeable about the regulation); (4) existing regulation (that is, if the regulation is an existing regulation under review); (5) effects on small businesses and other entities (that is, whether the action is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities" as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act); (6) CFR citation (that is, the section of the Code of Federal Regulations that will be affected); (7) legal authority (that is, a citation to the section of the United States Code (U.S.C.), Public Law (P.L.) or the Executive Order (E.O.) that authorizes the regulatory action); (8) abstract (that is, a description of the problem the regulation will address, the alternatives being considered for addressing the problem, and the potential costs and benefits of the action); (9) timetable (that is, the dates and citations, if applicable, for all past stages of the rulemaking that are not final and the next stage of the rulemaking). In addition, Category 3, which indicates regulations completed or withdrawn and reviews completed since the preceding Agenda, states why the regulation is no longer under development and provides the date and citation, if appropriate.

Those rules which are identified as being likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities include one rule for which a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) was issued prior to January 1, 1981. Although this rule is listed in the Agenda, under section 4 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act the regulatory flexibility analysis specified in 5 U.S.C. 603-604 is not required, and such analysis will not be completed in regard to this rule. This rule, where an NPRM was issued prior to January 1, 1981, is identified in the additional information section.

On March 2, 1983 a draft of this Agenda was transmitted to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration for comment, if any, to fulfill the requirement of 5 U.S.C. 803(b).

DOE's next Agenda will be published in October, 1983.

Issued in Washington, D.C. this 4th day of March, 1983.

Acting General Counsel.

COMMERCIAL AND APARTMENT CONSERVATION SERVICE (CACS) PROGRAM REGULATIONS

Priority: Major

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6295

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 430.32

Abstract: On January 16, 1981, DOE issued an NPRM in compliance with Title VII of the National Energy Conservation Policy Act, as amended, which requires DOE to establish a utility audit program for multifamily dwelling and small commercial buildings. The proposed rule was subsequently reviewed and reproposed on Nov. 24, 1982. The new proposed rule reflects DOE's ongoing effort to meet its legislative responsibilities without imposing unnecessary burdens on affected parties. Insufficient data exists to reliably estimate potential program costs and benefits.

FEDERAL STANDBY RESIDENTIAL CONSERVATION SERVICE (RCS) PLAN

Priority: Task Force

Legal Authority: PL 95-619; PL 96-294

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 456

Abstract: The National Energy Conservation Policy Act mandates a Residential Conservation Service (RCS) Program under which large electric and natural gas utilities offer energy audits and other related conservation services to their residential customers. Each state has the option of implementing a RCS Program for itself. The proposed Federal Standby RCS Plan, when made final, would be used to implement the RCS Program in nonparticipating or noncomplying States. The proposed Plan is largely based on the revised RCS Program regulations, issued June 25, 1982 (47 FR 27752). The alternatives considered and the benefits and the costs of the program are more fully described in the June 25 notice on the revised RCS Program regulations.

ENERGY EFFICIENCY STANDARDS FOR EIGHT TYPES OF CONSUMER PRODUCTS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6295

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 430.32

Abstract: Congress directed DOE to prescribe energy efficiency standards for certain specific consumer products unless DOE determines, by rule, that the establishment of such standard will not result in significant conservation of energy or it is not technologically feasible or economically justified. This rule deals with eight of these products: refrigerators and refrigerator-freezers, freezers, clothes dryers, water heaters, room air conditioners, kitchen ranges and ovens, central air conditioners and furnaces. The 1982 NPRM evaluates various efficiency levels for consumer products and determined that none would save a significant amount of energy and that for each the costs would outweigh the benefits. Accordingly, the NPRM proposed no standard for each appliance. DOE issued a partial final rule on December 22, 1982, with respect to two products (clothes dryers and kitchen ranges and ovens) in which DOE prescribed no standard for each appliance.

Abstract: Title VII of the National Energy Conservation Policy Act, as amended, requires large gas and electric utilities to offer audit and information services to small commercial and large multi-family customers. Each state has the option to implement plan for the operation of the program by its covered utilities. The statute requires DOE to implement a Federal Plan for States or nonregulated utilities which do not submit their own Plan or for States and non-regulated utilities which do not adequately implement their Plan. PROPOSED CHANGES IN CRITERIA AND PROCEDURES FOR DETERMINING ELIGIBILITY FOR ACCESS TO CLASSIFIED MATTER OR SIGNIFICANT QUANTITIES OF SPECIAL NUCLEAR MATERIAL

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2165; 42 USC 2201; EO 10450; EO 10865; 42 USC 5814; 42 USC 5815

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 710

Abstract: DOE proposes to amend Part 710 to delegate the authority to suspend DOE access authorization to the Managers of its Field Operations. Under the existing regulation, only the Assistant Secretary for Defense Programs has the authority to suspend an individual's access authorization in those cases where information is received which raises a question concerning the continued eligibility of an individual for access authorization. The proposed amendment would allow the Manager of a Field Operation to suspend access authorization for an individual subject to review of the suspension by the Assistant Secretary for Defense Programs. DOE also proposes to assign to the Managers of its Field Operations the preparation of notification letters, which enumerate the charges against the individual and explain the individual's rights to "due process." DOE also proposes to impose timeframes for completion of certain actions throughout its administrative review process.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 717 et seq; 42 USC 7151; 42 USC 7172

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 205; 10 CFR 590

Abstract: ERA is currently following the FERC procedural rules on an interim basis in natural gas import and export proceedings. The proposal would establish administrative procedures that generally would be informal, would provide more flexibility for tailoring the procedures to the needs of a particular case, and would reflect ERA's organization structure and legislative mandate. Evidentiary hearings would be reserved for situations where necessary to resolve disputes of material issues of fact. The proposal would also eliminate the FERC requirement that the ultimate decisionmaker or an Administrative Law Judge presides at hearings. The proposed rule would ease the regulatory burden on applicants and interested parties by simplifying the procedures and reducing the amount of information and number of documents required for an import or export application.

Abstract: This proposal would revise rules implementing Title III of the Powerplant and Industrial Fuel Use Act of 1978 (FUA) to eliminate the regulatory provision for issuing involuntary prohibition orders to existing major fuel burning installations. The proposal further deletes regulations made unnecessary by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981 amendments to FUA.

SECURITY POLICIES AND PRACTICES RELATING TO LABOR-MANAGEMENT RELATIONS

Legal Authority: PL 95-91

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 706

Abstract: DOE proposes to amend 10 CFR Part 706. This part previously was published as an Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) regulation and was revised to reflect its status as a DOE regulation. Section 301 of the Department of Energy Organization Act transferred to and vested in the Secretary of Energy all the functions previously vested in ERDA. To reflect better its present character as a DOE regulation, DOE is proposing to amend Part 706 in several sections to reflect current application of Part 706. For example, a definition of installation will be included in order to specify which DOE contractors are covered by Part 706. In addition, other changes are being made in the interest of brevity, consistency and clarity.

ADMINISTRATION OF GRANTS TO STATES OTHER THAN BLOCK GRANTS OR OPEN-ENDED GRANTS

Priority: Task Force

Legal Authority: 5 USC 301

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 74; 45 CFR 98

Abstract: Will reduce and simplify grants administration requirements imposed on States. Will apply to all HHS closed-end categorical grants to States, discretionary (project) grants as well as mandatory (formula) grants. Issues will probably be: degree to which planning requirements can be simplified; whether requirement for grant financial status reports from States should be eliminated; whether Federal controls should be removed from income earned by States from grant-supported activities; and whether States should be permitted unrestricted use of Federal funds exceeding budgeted amounts that result from carryover of unused grant funds from one funding period to the next of a discretionary grant. No significant expected impact on Federal budget but should reduce administrative costs of States (no estimate available or feasible). This regulation will be reviewed by the Presidential Task Force on Regulatory Relief.

It will facilitate public access to information by making necessary revisions, clarifying, and promulgating at one time all the subparts of the regulation. It will also help Departmental personnel processing FOIA requests by providing them with an integrated regulation that is compatible with current procedures for processing FOIA requests and assessing search and copy fees that reflect the increased cost of such services. The only alternative to this complete update is to continue to operate with a regulation that in the past has been revised on a piecemeal basis.

Abstract: These regulations implement the Equal Access to Justice Act. They describe the circumstances under which the Department of Health and Human Services may award attorneys fees and certain other expenses to eligible entities who prevail over the Department in specified administrative proceedings where the Department's position in the proceeding was not substantially justified. The Act imposes a cost obligation on the Department that cannot be estimated because it cannot be determined how frequently the Department's position in administrative proceedings will be found not to have been substantially justified, which is the criterion for awards under the Act.

PRIVACY ACT REGULATION

Legal Authority: 5 USC 552(a) Privacy Act of 1974

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 5(b)

Abstract: This will be the first complete update since 1975 of the Department's Privacy Act Regulation implementing the Privacy Act of 1974. It will facilitate individuals' access to information and records that the Department maintains about them in more than 400 designated Privacy Act Systems of Records, clarifying and promulgating at one time all the subparts of the regulation. It will also help Departmental personnel processing Privacy Act requests by providing them with an integrated regulation that is compatible with current procedures for processing such requests. The only alternative to this complete update is to continue to operate with a regulation that in the past has been revised on a piecemeal basis.

Abstract: This regulation will implement the provisions of the Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act of 1980 (titles IV-E, Federal Payments for Foster Care and Adoption Assistance, and IV-B, Child Welfare Services, of the Social Security Act) to establish a program of adoption assistance, strengthen the program of foster care assistance for neglected and dependent children, and to improve the child welfare services program. An NPRM was published on December 31, 1980 (45 FR 86817). A final rule governing fiscal requirements was published on July 15, 1982 (47 FR 30922). Legal Authority: 42 USC 1302; 42 USC 1382(e)

Abstract: This rule amends the standard-setting requirements for medical and nonmedical facilities where Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients reside. (These requirements are known as Keys amendment regulations.) This action is necessary because of the passage of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981 which amended section 1616(e) of the Social Security Act and deleted reference to title XX, thereby removing social services plans as the vehicle for providing public notice of standards for certain facilities.

OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE, BLACK LUNG, AND SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME PROGRAMS; WAIVER OF ADJUSTMENT OR RECOVERY OF OVERPAYMENTS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 30 USC 923; 42 USC 404; 42 USC 405; 42 USC 427; 42 USC 1302; 42 USC 1383(b)

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 404, Subpart F; 20 CFR 410, Subpart E; 20 CFR 416, Subpart E

Abstract: The proposed regulation would: (1) establish a time limit for requesting waiver of recovery of an overpayment of benefits; (2) standardize among the three programs the definition of "without fault" (a criterion for waiver of recovery); (3) identify a resource base for all three programs, recovery from which will be considered to "defeat the purpose" (another criterion for waiver) of the program; (4) limit the amount of miscellaneous living expenses considered in determining whether recovery will "defeat the purpose" of the program; and (5) provide that recovery will be considered "against equity and good conscience" only if the individual relinquished a valuable right or changed his or her position for the worse because of the incorrect payment or because of a notice that the payment would be made. The regulation would be expected to result in program savings and negligible administrative cost.

Abstract: Existing regulations provide that individuals are not eligible for SSI benefits if they do not apply for other benefits when notified to do so by SSA. These benefits include payments based on past employment and military service. These proposed rules amend the regulations by adding to these benefits which must be applied for amounts payable as earned income tax credits (EITC's) under the provisions of sections 43 and 3507 of the Internal Revenue Code. These payments became countable as earned income for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) purposes with the enactment of Pub. L. 96-222 (section 101(a)(2)(B)). It is estimated that these regulations will have no significant program or administrative costs or savings.

SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME PROGRAM; BURIAL SPACES AND CERTAIN FUNDS SET ASIDE FOR BURIAL EXPENSES

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: PL 97-248, Sec 185

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 416, Subpart L

Abstract: These regulations provide for the exclusion of burial spaces for the use of an individual and members of his or her immediate family. The amendment also provides for the exclusion of up to $1,500 each for an individual and spouse held in separately identifiable burial funds. However, the amount excluded as a burial fund will be reduced by the face value ($1,500 or less) of life insurance policies where the cash surrender value was already excluded from resources and by any amount held in an irrevocable trust arrangement available to meet the burial needs of the individual spouse (not considered a resource because it cannot be redeemed for cash). Thus, the exclusion of burial funds is not an exclusion of additional amounts of resources. Rather, it gives SSI recipients an alternative to life insurance and irrevocable burial plans for providing for their burial expenses without affecting their SSI eligibility. The provision also stipulates that future SSI benefits will be reduced by any amounts of the excluded burial funds used for purposes other than those for which they were set aside. Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1302; 42 USC 1382a; 42 USC 1382b; 42 USC 1382c; 42 USC 1383

Abstract: The regulation reflects a temporary change in policy which provides that the Secretary, in appropriate circumstances, will not apply the ordinary SSI rules for deeming certain family members' income and resources to a noninstitutionalized person. The regulation enables a patient to retain Medicaid eligibility while being treated at home at considerably less cost to the government than if he or she were in an institution. This temporary policy deals with this concern while States develop appropriate programs of home and community based services under their Medicaid programs. The regulation will have inconsequential impact on administrative costs. The program costs that would result will be more than offset by the Medicaid savings that will accrue. Because of the relatively small number of persons affected, costs and savings will be minimal.

Abstract: This proposed regulation describes revised procedures for processing certain cases where a person's benefits are being stopped because he or she has been found to be not now disabled or blind, as defined in the law. The proposed regulation amends the rules describing when a person's disability will be determined to have ended and, therefore, when cash disability benefits will be stopped (and, for a disabled worker, when a period of disability ends). Abstract: Sections 4 and 5 of Pub. L. 97-455 require SSA to make face-to-face evidentiary hearings available at the first stage of appeal, known as reconsideration, in cases in which an initial determination is made that an individual receiving title II disability benefits is not now disabled. Regulations are necessary to implement this statutory requirement, which will make the reconsideration stage more meaningful. Although not specifically required by the statute, the proposed regulations will include SSI disability and blindness cessation cases in the new reconsideration process. The availability of an evidentiary hearing at the reconsideration stage in disability and blindness termination cases should enable reconsiderations to be based on more complete information, enable more appeals to be resolved at that level, and thus reduce the workload at the administrative law judge hearing level and in the Appeals Council.

Abstract: The proposed regulation would provide a title II disability beneficiary, whose benefits have ceased because his impairment is found to have ceased, not to have existed, or to no longer be disabling, with the option to have benefit payments continued through reconsideration and the Administrative Law Judge hearing. The continuing benefits would be treated as overpayments subject to the waiver requirements of the Social Security Act, if the cessation of disability determination is not reversed to continuance on reconsideration or hearing. This continuance of benefits would apply to termination determinations made between January 1983 and October 1983. Cases pending a reconsideration or Administrative Law Judge decision as of January 1983 also may be continued, although retroactive payments are not authorized. The last month of payment continuance will be June 1984.

Abstract: This regulation will implement provisions of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981. These provisions provide for replacement of the system under which State Vocational Rehabilitation (VR) agencies were given a lump sum advance to cover costs they might incur in attempting to rehabilitate beneficiaries with a system under which States or other participants will be paid on a case-by-case basis, though they may continue to get lump sum advances. The regulation will limit reimbursement for VR services to cases of successful rehabilitation attributable to VR involvement. Program savings are anticipated through FY 1983.

Abstract: This regulation will implement statutory cost reduction provisions in the disability program (1) by offsetting disability benefits with other public disability payments (in addition to workmen's compensation); (2) by extending the period of offset through age 64; (3) by authorizing offset for the first month for which the worker is entitled to workmen's compensation regardless of when SSA receives notice of such entitlement; and (4) by providing that "reverse" offset under State law would not preclude Federal offset unless the State law was in effect on February 18, 1981. Legal Authority: 42 USC 418; 42 USC 1302

Abstract: This proposed regulation reflects policies and procedures concerning agreements between States and the Secretary for Social Security coverage of State and local employees, termination of those agreements, payment of Social Security contributions, filing of wage reports by States, charging interest for late payments, etc. The current rules need to be organized into a logical sequence and to be updated to reflect many policies which SSA has followed for many years. In preparing this regulation, we reviewed all policies to assess their impact on the trust funds and to reduce recordkeeping burdens. This proposed regulation primarily reflects current policies so that any program and administrative savings will be minimal.

OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE PROGRAM; REPEAL OF MINIMUM BENEFIT, ROUNDING OF BENEFIT AMOUNTS

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 404, Subpart C; 20 CFR 404, Subpart D; 20 CFR 404, Subpart E

Abstract: This proposed regulation explains that effective January 1982 there is, in general, no longer a minimum primary insurance amount (PIA). Instead, the PIA is the amount computed based on the individual's earnings. The regulation also explains the amended rules on rounding, i.e., amounts computed will be rounded down to the next lower multiple of $.10 at intermediate steps of the calculation and the next lower $1 at the final step. The repeal of the minimum benefit will result in decreased OASDI benefits, but will increase costs to the Supplemental Security Income program as more people become eligible for Supplemental Security Income benefits. The amended rules on rounding will result in program savings.

OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE AND SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY I PROGRAMS; FEE SCHEDULE FOR INFORMATION

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 401; 20 CFR 422, Subpart E

Abstract: The substantive changes in these rules conform current rules on who can deny or release a record to those published in final by HHS on May 12, 1982 at 47 FR 20309. They conform the SSA Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) fee schedule to that published by HHS in a final regulation on 9/22/82 at 47 FR 41751. They also announce a fee schedule under which we will charge the full cost of providing certain records as allowed by section 2207 of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981. The HHS FOIA fee schedule and our proposed fee schedule to charge full cost of providing certain records will result in savings to the Social Security trust funds by permitting SSA to charge more than currently allowed for providing records and record related services.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 602(a); 42 USC 603(a)(3); 42 USC 613; PL 96-265, Sec 406

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 205

Abstract: The regulation will make available, at State option, 90 percent matching funds for the planning, design, development, and installation of a statewide claims processing and information retrieval system for the AFDC program. The 90 percent matching includes the purchase or rental of computer equipment and software used for the operation of this system. The regulation will result in short-run administrative costs, but is expected to result in greater long-run program savings through increased accuracy of processing.

OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE PROGRAM; FILING OF APPLICATIONS AND OTHER FORMS, WITHDRAWAL OF AN APPLICATION

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 404, Subpart G

Abstract: The proposed regulation would permit a person eligible for widow's or widower's benefits to withdraw a deceased worker's application for reduced old-age benefits if the worker died before SSA certified the worker's entitlement to the Treasury Department for payment. The change would permit avoidance of the reduction in widow's or widower's benefits that is required where the worker was entitled to benefits reduced because of his or her age. The reduction appears inequitable if the worker died before his or her entitlement was certified. The regulation would result in some program costs and negligible administrative costs.

SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME PROGRAM; MEDICAID ELIGIBILITY DETERMINATIONS

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 416, Subpart U

Abstract: The proposed regulation gives the rules under which SSA agrees to make determinations of Medicaid eligibility for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) beneficiaries on behalf of States and to give States other assistance in Medicaid program administration. The agreements avoid duplication of effort between State and Federal governments and simplify the Medicaid application process for applicants. This revision makes the rules clearer and easier to read. The rules also provide for SSA's making Medicaid determinations for a State that implements sec. 1912 of the Social Security Act. Sec. 1912 authorizes a State to require, as a condition of Medicaid eligibility, that a person assign to the State any rights he or she has to payments from someone else for medical care. The regulations will result in no program or administrative costs or savings for SSA.

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 416, Subpart B

Abstract: This proposed regulation has been developed because SSA has begun to receive applications on behalf of severely retarded individuals in public institutions. Individuals in public educational institutions enrolled in or registered for education or vocational training have been excluded from the status as a resident of a public institution and, thus, may be eligible for SSI benefits. This proposed rule would restrict the exception to residents in public educational institutions primarily to receive educational or vocational training. The education or vocational training must have the objective of gainful employment. Adoption of this proposed regulation will entail no program costs but will prevent anticipated program and administrative costs.

SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME PROGRAM; SHELTERED WORKSHOPS AND EARNED INCOME TAX CREDITS

Legal Authority: PL 96-222; PL 96-265

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 416, Subpart K

Abstract: The regulations provide that sheltered workshop remuneration is earned income as of 10/1/80 and that earned income tax credits are earned income as of 1/1/80. The regulations eliminate the need to determine whether sheltered workshop services are employment or therapy--which determines whether remuneration received is earned or unearned income. Earned income is advantageous to a beneficiary as it provides greater exclusions and higher benefits. The earned income tax credits, which did not affect benefits prior to 1980, would have been unearned income as of 1980 and would have resulted in lower benefits, if this law had not been enacted. The administrative costs from both provisions will be negligible while generating some program savings.

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 416, Subpart K

Abstract: This regulation provides that deeming of parental income and resources to an eligible child ends when a child reaches age 18 unless a savings clause applies to children between 18 and 21, and that a sponsor's income and resources are deemed to an alien for a period of three years after admission for aliens who first apply for SSI benefits after September 30, 1980. The regulation eliminates different treatment of children aged 18 to 21 depending on status as students, and assumes that sponsors will support aliens and sets more rigid rules for the sponsor to alien deeming than apply to other deeming categories. Section 203 of Pub. L. 96-265, which pertains to age 18 deeming, will generate minimal program savings and insignificant cost outlays. However, section 504 of Pub. L. 96-265, which pertains to sponsor to alien deeming, will result in some cost savings as well as program savings.

Abstract: This regulation will implement statutory provisions for retrospective monthly accounting and spell out how they affect various regulations that deal with eligibility for and the amount of SSI benefits. This regulation will implement a significant change from quarterly to monthly determinations of eligibility and benefit amount. Although in the first year (1982) of implementation of retrospective monthly accounting there will be an administrative cost, it will be followed by an administrative saving thereafter. Some significant program costs are projected in 1982 through 1984 and neither cost nor savings in 1985.

This type of transfer is presumed to be for the purpose of establishing SSI eligibility unless the individual can present convincing evidence that the transfer (disposal) was exclusively for some other purpose. During this period a person may be paid benefits for all months in which he or she does not do substantial gainful activity. ●OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE PROGRAM; REAL ESTATE AGENTS AND DIRECT SELLERS AS SELF-EMPLOYED

Legal Authority: 42 USC 405; 42 USC 410; 42 USC 1302; PL 97-248, Sec 269(b)

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 404.1005; 20 CFR 404.1069

Abstract: The regulation will conform SSA regulations to sec. 269(b) of P.L. 97-248, the "Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982." That section provides, effective for services performed after 1982, that a real estate agent or direct seller who meets specified criteria shall be treated as self-employed for Social Security coverage purposes. As a result, many real estate agents and direct sellers who were employees under the common-law rules that previously determined their status must be treated as self-employed. As a further result, we estimate there will be a decrease of $59 million in total Social Security taxes paid in fiscal year 1983, because (1) self-employment Social Security taxes are a smaller percentage of covered earnings than the combined employer-employee Social Security taxes, and (2) the self-employed pay Social Security taxes on their net income, while employees pay these taxes on their gross income.

●FEDERAL OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE PROGRAM; ADDITIONAL EXCEPTION TO REDUCTION OF BENEFITS OF SPOUSE RECEIVING GOVERNMENT PENSION

Legal Authority: PL 97-455, Sec 7

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 404.408a

Abstract: P.L. 97-455 provides an additional seven months for application of the exception to the requirement of law that Social Security benefits of a spouse be reduced by the amount of the spouse's pension which is based on the spouse's employment by a Government entity. For the exception to apply, the spouse must be eligible for a Government pension before July 1983 and must have been receiving one-half support from the insured worker on whose record he/she is entitled to Social Security spouse's benefits. The cost will be less than 100 million dollars for FY 1983-1987.

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 205.40; 45 CFR 205.42; 45 CFR 205.43; 45 CFR 205.44

Abstract: These proposed rules amend the regulations on the quality control (QC) system in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and the adult assistance programs under titles I, IV-A, X, XIV, and XVI (AABD) of the Social Security Act. The QC system is the Federal government's and the States' major management tool for measuring the accuracy of AFDC and adult assistance payments. Under these rules, the States' allowable error rate will be reduced from 4 percent to 3 percent and the QC system in general will be tightened up. These rules are expected to save the Federal government $62 million in 1985, $66 million in 1986, and $69 million in 1987 as States receive reduced Federal financial participation because of incorrect payments in excess of 3 percent.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 405; 42 USC 1302; 42 USC 1383; 30 USC 923; 30 USC 936

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 404, Subpart J; 20 CFR 410, Subpart F; 20 CFR 416, Subpart N; 20 CFR 422, Subpart C

Abstract: The proposed regulations explain that five unrelated changes are being made on when a determination or decision affecting someone's rights under programs administered by the Social Security Administration may be reopened and revised. The programs are Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance; Black Lung Benefits (Part B); and Supplemental Security Income for the Aged, Blind, and Disabled. Two of the changes are to take account of legislative changes. The other three add longstanding policies to the regulations. In addition, the time limit for appealing a determination or decision on benefit rights to a Federal district court pursuant to the "expedited appeals process" is being made the same as the other time limits for other appeals of determinations or decisions. Each of the proposed changes and all of them together will result in negligible program or administrative cost or saving.

Major changes: Strengthen work requirements, target assistance to the most needy, and improve program administration. Changes are limited to AFDC program. Small entities or businesses are not impacted, although the effect on the economy per year may exceed $100 million. The primary impact is on State governments and individuals.

OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE PROGRAM; PROVISION FOR INFERRING A PERSON IS DEAD

Legal Authority: 42 USC 405; 42 USC 1302

Abstract: The proposed regulations explain that the claimant at all times bears the burden of proving the insured person's death and clarifies that SSA will not presume a missing insured person is dead if there are known circumstances that could reasonably explain the absence, even without direct evidence that such circumstances actually were the reason for the absence. The proposed changes will result in negligible program or administrative costs or savings.

REIMBURSEMENT OF STATE AGENCY IN INITIAL MONTH OF INELIGIBILITY FOR AFDC

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 42 USC 654(5); PL 97-248, Sec 173

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 302.32

Abstract: Under former law, amounts of child support collected which were sufficient to make the family ineligible for AFDC had to be paid to the family beginning with the first month of ineligibility. The regulation would implement section 173 which requires that amounts collected which are sufficient to make the family ineligible for AFDC are to be retained by the State rather than paid to the family. This would allow the State to reimburse itself for AFDC that would have already been paid for that month, before the support was collected and known to have made the family ineligible. Thus, the family would not receive a double payment for the first month of ineligibility, once in the form of child support collected which was sufficient to make the family ineligible for AFDC and once in the form of the child support collection for that month.

FEES FOR SERVICES TO NON-AFDC FAMILIES

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 42 USC 654(6); PL 97-248, Sec 171

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 302.33; 45 CFR 304.50

Abstract: Law prior to P.L. 97-35 allowed States to provide child support enforcement services to non-AFDC families without charge or to charge the custodial parent an application fee of up to $20 (regardless of the services provided) and to recover costs in excess of the application fee by retaining a portion of any child support payments which were collected. P.L. 97-35 maintained the option of charging an application fee (except if only collection services were provided) and replaced the optional provision of recovering costs in excess of the application fee by retaining a portion of the collection with a requirement that States impose a fee equal to 10 percent of the support owed, to be charged against the absent parent and added to the amount of the collection. Section 171 repeals the P.L. 97-35 10 percent fee amendment and restores the provision of prior law under which States have an option as to whether or not to recover costs in excess of the application fee and to charge the application fee for any services provided. It gives States the additional option of allowing them to recover costs either from the absent parent or from the custodial parent. If a State elects to (cont)

Abstract: The final regulations provide that, at its option, a State may collect and enforce support obligations from an absent parent both for the children and the spouse or former spouse with whom the children are living. A State may not attempt to establish a separate spousal support obligation and may collect spousal support only if the existing support obligation includes both child and spousal support. If a State chooses to collect spousal support, it may use all existing collection mechanisms and enforcement remedies used to collect and enforce child support.

Abstract: These regulations would require child support enforcement agencies to determine periodically whether any individuals receiving unemployment compensation owe child support obligations and, if so, to enforce the obligations through an agreement with the individual to have specified amounts withheld from the compensation. In the absence of an agreement, the child support enforcement agency would be required to use legal process to enforce withholding in cases which meet State-developed selection criteria. State child support enforcement agencies would be required to reimburse State unemployment compensation agencies for the administrative costs of their efforts to enforce child support obligations.

REQUESTS TO USE THE FEDERAL PARENT LOCATOR SERVICE IN PARENTAL KIDNAPPING AND CHILD CUSTODY CASES

Legal Authority: PL 96-611, Sec 9; 42 USC 654(17); 42 USC 655; 42 USC 663

Abstract: These regulations provide that a State may enter into an agreement with the Secretary to use the Federal Parent Locator Service (PLS) in connection with the enforcement or determination of child custody and in cases of parental kidnapping of a child. Previously the Social Security Act permitted States to obtain information from the Federal PLS only for the purpose of locating absent parents to establish paternity or establish or enforce child support obligations. P.L. 96-611 provides no Federal funding for the use of the Federal PLS in connection with parental kidnapping and child custody cases. The States must, however, impose a fee sufficient to cover, or pay, the costs to the Federal and State governments for providing this service. Initially, OCSE will charge a fee of $10 per request with an additional $4 fee for requests without social security numbers. These fees are expected to offset Federal costs of providing the information to the States.

PROCEDURES FOR CASE ASSESSMENT AND PRIORITIZATION

Legal Authority: 42 USC 652(a)(1); 42 USC 1302

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 303.10

Abstract: This proposed regulation would permit State child support enforcement agencies to implement case assessment and prioritization procedures to achieve greater program efficiency. Limited program resources and other operating constraints have compelled IV-D agencies to concentrate on cases with high potential for collection of support payments. Although many States have implemented such procedures, they are concerned that current Federal regulations require IV-D agencies to locate absent parents, establish paternity and establish and enforce support obligations for all cases, on a first come, first served basis. The proposed regulation would alleviate States' concerns and allow States to focus available resources on cases which have high probability for success.

PROMPT RECOVERY OF DISALLOWED FUNDS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 655(b)(2); 42 USC 1302

Abstract: In keeping with the Administration's effort to collect debts owed the Federal government, this proposed regulation would reduce the time period that State IV-D agencies may retain funds for expenditures that have been disallowed as a result of an audit and determined not to be subject to Federal funding. Current OCSE policy allows States that appeal audit determinations to retain disallowed funds pending resolution of the appeals process. This proposed regulation would provide for the prompt recovery of disallowed funds, regardless of a State's decision to appeal.

Abstract: Currently, medical support enforcement activities are pursued through optional cooperative agreements between the State IV-D agency and the State Medicaid agency. This proposed regulation would require all State IV-D agencies to attempt to obtain minimal medical support information during the normal processing of child support cases. This would result in increased use of available third party resources in the form of private medical insurance and in medical cost savings to State and Federal governments. State IV-D agencies would also be required to petition to include medical support in new or modified orders for support, if coverage is available to the absent parent at reasonable cost.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 652(a)(1); 42 USC 652(a)(4); 42 USC 603(h); 42 USC 1302

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 305

Abstract: These proposed regulations revise the audit regulations to permit OCSE to incorporate the audit criteria currently in the regulations and new performance measurement criteria into an audit guide. Since 1977, OCSE has conducted an annual process-oriented audit of each State's Child Support Enforcement program that reviews the establishment and use of procedures to carry out specific child support activities. However, since State IV-D programs have been in operation for 7 years and in many instances have reached a degree of maturity where it is no longer necessary to focus primarily on process-oriented functions, we believe that the OCSE audit should evaluate the States via both established functions and performance measures. This change will better enable the Federal government to measure program efficiency and results.

Abstract: This proposed rule would clarify or revise certain existing requirements concerning obligations of persons who sponsor clinical investigations involving a drug or medical device and extend those requirements to cover other products regulated by FDA. The rule is intended to provide greater protection of the rights and safety of subjects involved in clinical investigations and to help assure the quality and integrity of the data filed with FDA under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and the Public Health Service Act.

Abstract: The Food and Drug Administration is considering proposing to require certain over-the-counter (OTC) and prescription salicylate-containing drug products for human use to bear a warning against the use of the products for the treatment of flu or chickenpox in children or adolescents under 16 years of age, because salicylates may be associated with the development of Reye syndrome in this age group.

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 21 USC 321 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 343 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 371 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 101.9; 21 CFR 101.13; 21 CFR 105.69

Abstract: This proposed rule would have three primary purposes: (1) to require that the sodium content of foods be included as part of the nutrition labeling information whenever nutrition labeling is required or is provided voluntarily; (2) to define certain terms, some of which are now used in the marketplace, to ensure consistency in their meaning and applicability to the general food supply; and (3) to revoke the requirement that sodium be listed in milligrams per 100 grams and require only listing of sodium in milligrams per serving. The proposal would leave intact the current exemption in 21 CFR 101.9(a) which permits manufacturers voluntarily to provide information on sodium content alone without triggering a requirement for full nutrition labeling; by doing so, the agency hopes to encourage voluntary quantitative sodium labeling.

Additional Information: SMALL BUSINESSES CONT: FDA estimates that approximately 3,500 food manufacturing firms would incur total first year costs of as much as $14.7 million and recurring annual costs of $0.5 million to comply with this proposed rule. The agency believes that this proposal would not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small businesses. If certain products or sectors of the industry anticipate unique burdens from it, FDA is interested in minimizing their burdens by special provisions. The exemption of very small firms, special labeling variations for certain products, or extension of the effective date are among alternatives the agency is willing to consider if information on the need for, and the anticipated cost saving of, such flexibilities are reasonably demonstrated.

CFR Citation: 21 CFR Chapter 1

Abstract: The Food and Drug Administration is considering proposing a new policy for use in assuring the safe use of food additives and color additives that contain minor amounts of carcinogenic chemicals. This policy would replace the current case-by-case approach to regulating such additives with an approach that applies consistent standards. This advance notice of proposed rulemaking describes the scientific and regulatory problems confronting the agency with respect to such additives and explains the need to consider a change in FDA's present approach. This advance notice also discusses the alternatives that the agency is considering.

DETACHED CIGARETTE FILTERS AS MEDICAL DEVICES; CLASSIFICATION

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 21 USC 360c Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 371(a) Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 868

Abstract: FDA plans to issue a proposed rule to classify into one of three regulatory classes those detached cigarette filters that FDA has concluded are medical devices based on evidence showing that manufacturers or vendors intend the articles to cure, mitigate, treat, or prevent disease or to affect the structure or function of the body within the meaning of section 201(h) of the act. The classification would be dependent upon the regulatory controls needed to assure the safety and effectiveness of the device. The proposal is a follow-up to FDA's November 25, 1980 decision granting, in part, a request to regulate certain detached cigarette filters as medical devices and denying requests to regulate as devices cigarettes and attached cigarette filters, generally.

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 21 USC 321(n) Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 343(a) Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 371(a) Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 514.1; 21 CFR 514.2; 21 CFR 514.3; 21 CFR 514.11

Abstract: This proposed rule would permit applicants to file abbreviated new animal drug application (ANADAs) for products identical to approved post-1962 drugs and to omit certain reports that are required in full NADAs to show safety and effectiveness of the product. It would apply only to certain drug products specified by FDA. HEALTH SYSTEMS AGENCY AND STATE HEALTH PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT AGENCY REVIEWS; CERTIFICATE OF NEED

Priority: Agency Determination, Task Force

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 143, Subpart D; 42 CFR 123, Subpart E

Abstract: The Certificate of Need (CON) Program is a State-run program requiring health care providers to submit certain proposed large capital expenditures for review by the State Health Planning and Development Agency which determines whether the expenditures are needed. If the proposed expenditures are found to be unneeded, the provider faces penalties--which vary from State to State--if the project proceeds. The proposed rules would raise minimum thresholds for planned projects to be reviewed. Also, States could exempt from review certain projects intended solely for medical research. States also may modify the requirements for a health maintenance organization (HMO) or combination of such organizations to qualify for an exemption. The proposed rules also would give State agencies greater discretion in determining the types of projects to be reviewed, the procedures to be followed, and the criteria to be considered in reviewing applications. This is an item that will go under review by the Presidential Task Force on Regulatory Relief.

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 100, Subpart A

Abstract: This NPRM sets forth provisions under which the Secretary may deny Federal reimbursement under Title XVIII (Medicare) and Title XIX (Medicaid), for expenses related to capital expenditures (1) which the Designated Planning Agency (DPA) has found to be inconsistent with established standards, criteria or plans developed under the Public Health Service (PHS) Act; or (2) for which the DPA was not provided notice as required. The NPRM includes changes made in response to comments received on the NPRM published in the Federal Register on March 19, 1976, and changes necessary to conform to the amendments to Title XV of the PHS Act enacted by the Health Planning and Resources Development Amendments of 1979 (P.L. 96-79), the Health Programs Extension Act of 1981 (P.L. 97-35). Also, many States have discontinued their agreements with the Department to perform reviews under the section 1122 program because the requirements of section 1122 are inconsistent with the Department's requirements for acceptable certificate of need (CON) programs. Now, requirements for CON and section 1122 reviews are as alike as possible. This is an item that will be reviewed by the Presidential Task Force (cont)

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 42 USC 216, as amended; 42 USC 300e to 300e-17, as amended

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 110

Abstract: The regulations at 42 CFR Part 110, Subparts A,B,C,H, & I would be amended, through a notice of proposed rulemaking, to provide needed regulatory guidance concerning certain provisions in the Health Maintenance Organization Amendments of 1981. These rules govern the organization and operation of health maintenance organizations (HMOs). These rules specifically establish criteria for submitting a grant, loan, or loan guarantee application; establish requirements for certain employers and States to offer to their employees the option of membership in qualified HMOs; and establish requirements for continued compliance of Federally qualified HMOs. Changes would include regulatory interpretations of community rating by class (CRC), the definition of primary care outside of the HMO's service area, and the protection of HMO members from liability of payment of any fees which are the legal obligation of the HMO. In addition, the regulations would be amended to delete burdensome or unnecessary regulatory provisions.

●HOME HEALTH SERVICES

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: PL 97-414, Sec 6

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Abstract: Title III of the Public Health Service Act was amended by section 6 of the Orphan Drug Act of 1983 (P.L. 97-414). The effect of the amendment authorizes a new program of grants and loans to support home health services. Specifically, it authorizes grants to nonprofit agencies and loans to proprietary agencies to establish and operate home health programs. It also authorizes grants and contracts for training paraprofessionals to provide home health services, with special consideration given to trainees 50 years of age or older. The amendment requires five separate reports to Congress and requires the Secretary to develop and carry out demonstration projects regarding patients at risk of institutionalization and alternative reimbursement methodologies. The program is expected to impact in cost savings through better methods of identifying patients at risk and decreasing the length and frequency of hospital stays.

SPECIFICATIONS FOR MEDICAL EXAMINATIONS OF UNDERGROUND COAL MINERS

Legal Authority: 30 USC 843 Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 37

Abstract: The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health administers an X-ray examination program for coal miners as mandated by the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977. The proposed amendment will enable X-ray readers in the Department's medical surveillance program for underground coal miners to classify miner's chest X-rays more accurately in accordance with the latest standards. The existing regulations currently provide for the use of the 1971 version of the International Labor Office (ILO) system for classifying radiographs (X-rays) of the pneumoconioses. The amendment proposes to adopt the 1980 revision of the ILO classification system which has now become the recognized international standard for classifying this type of disease.

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 85; 42 CFR 85a

Abstract: In performing its research activities under the provisions of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 and the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977, the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) is often required to conduct onsite investigations of the workplace. The procedures governing these investigations are contained in 42 CFR Parts 85 and 85a. Part 85 governs health hazard evaluations, while Part 85a concerns the conduct of investigations under NIOSH-initiated research projects. NIOSH proposes to amend Parts 85 and 85a to expressly provide for the use of personal sampling devices as an investigative technique. This action is necessary to give notice that employees may be requested to wear personal sampling devices as part of the environmental sampling procedures used by NIOSH during its workplace investigations.

ALLERGENIC SOURCE MATERIAL

Legal Authority: 42 USC 262 Public Health Service Act

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 680

Abstract: This proposal would amend the biologics rules to establish criteria for source materials used in the manufacture of a final allergenic product. Specific requirements would be prescribed for the propagation and maintenance of materials used to prepare certain allergenic products. Inspection and recordkeeping requirements would apply to all manufacturers of allergenic products. These procedures are believed necessary to reduce the likelihood of misidentified or contaminated source materials and assure their suitability for manufacture into final allergenic products.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 352 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 701(a) Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 201

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the rule setting forth requirements for designating a manufacturer's name on a drug product actually made by a corporately related firm under common ownership and control. The action responds to a petition pointing out various marketing and labeling problems that the current rule poses for certain diversified corporate structures. The rule would permit any member of a diversified corporate "family" to claim to have manufactured a product made within the "family."

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 600.21

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the biologics rules by changing the required minimum frequency of inspections for all licensed biological establishments and their additional location(s) from at least once every year to at least once every 2 years. This action would (1) provide flexibility for the agency to reduce the inspection burden on a specific portion of the regulated industry, (2) provide the agency with greater flexibility in management of its resources, and (3) provide a uniform requirement for frequency of inspections of all manufacturers of drugs and devices, consistent with requirements in the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 895

Abstract: This proposed rule would make prosthetic hair fibers intended for implantation into the human scalp to simulate natural hair or conceal baldness a banned medical device. FDA has determined that prosthetic hair fibers intended for such use present substantial deception and an unreasonable and substantial risk of illness

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 50

Abstract: This proposed rule would establish conditions under which biomedical research on prisoners would be accepted in satisfaction of FDA's regulatory requirements. In the Federal Register of July 7, 1981 (46 FR 35085), FDA stayed indefinitely the effective date of the original rule, pending final action on its proposal. FDA's original rule, published May 30, 1980 (45 FR 36386), had been challenged in court by several prisoners and a drug manufacturer because the rule would have virtually banned research on prisoners. Under the new proposal published December 18, 1981, FDA would accept, in addition to the categories of research listed in the original rule, the results of biomedical research on prisoners if the sponsor of the proposed research establishes that the conditions set forth by the National Commission for the Protection of Human Subjects of Biomedical and Behavioral Research had been met.

Abstract: This proposed rule covers the new four year pregraduate scholarship program authorized by the Indian Health Care Amendments of 1980, Pub. L. 96-537, which is intended to encourage Indians to enter the health professions and to ensure the availability of Indian health professionals to serve Indians. The proposal would also change the current regulation governing the Health Profession Preparatory Scholarship Program for Indians (1) to provide for the contingency that the stipend could be reduced if Federal salaries were reduced; and (2) to remove the requirement that an annual list of scholarship recipients be published in the Federal Register.

CONTRACT HEALTH SERVICE DELIVERY AREA FOR THE PENOBSCOT RESERVATION

Legal Authority: 25 USC 13 Snyder Act; 42 USC 2001 to 2004 Transfer Act

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 36.22

Abstract: In response to a request from the Penobscot Nation, a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) was published on January 6, 1981 proposing to enlarge the Contract Health Service Delivery Area (CHSDA) for the Penobscot Reservation. The proposal would have expanded the CHSDA beyond reservation boundaries to twelve additional counties in the State of Maine.

Penobscot Indian Nation officially rescinded its request for a redesignation of its CHSDA by Resolution No. 9-30-82-7.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 701 to 709

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 51a; 42 CFR 51d; 42 CFR 51f

Abstract: The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981 (Pub. L. 97-35) revised Title V of the Social Security Act to establish the Maternal and Child Health Service Block Grant. In the block grant there is a Federal Set-Aside Program which provides for the retention of 10 to 15 percent of the appropriation in each fiscal year for continuation of certain categorical programs (special projects of regional and national significance, maternal and child health research and training, genetic disease testing, counseling and information and hemophilia diagnostic and treatment centers). A Final Rule, published on June 25, 1982, made regulations for the previous programs applicable to the set-aside authority until regulations specifically designed for the set-aside could be developed.

PROGRAM GRANTS FOR MIGRANT HEALTH SERVICES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 216 Public Health Service Act; 42 USC 254 b Public Health Service Act

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 56

Abstract: A notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) was published in the Federal Register on December 19, 1980 to revise the existing regulations to incorporate provisions of Pub. L. 95-626, the Health Services Amendments of 1979. Because of administrative changes and new policy direction, a new NPRM will be developed to place greater emphasis on and to facilitate State participation in this program. The new NPRM would also simplify the regulation and incorporate the provisions of Pub. L. 95-626. These regulations will simplify application requirements for States, give certain priorities to awards to States, and will offer alternatives for States to meet requirements which have tended to be barriers to States.

Additional Information: SMALL BUSINESSES CONT: This regulation will increase opportunities for States to become grantees under this program. Not every State will choose to implement this approach and it is anticipated that many who do will implement it in co-application with existing grantees. Therefore, it is expected that this regulation will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

GRANTS FOR COMMUNITY HEALTH SERVICES PROGRAM

Legal Authority: 42 USC 254c Public Health Service Act

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 51c

Abstract: A notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) was published in the Federal Register on December 19, 1980 to revise the existing regulations to incorporate provisions of Pub. L. 95-626, the Health Services Amendments of 1979. However, administrative changes and new policy directions—passage and implementation of the Primary Care Block Grant Program in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, Pub. L. 97-35—rendered the NPRM obsolete. Since it is anticipated that the Primary Care Block Grant will incorporate the Community Health Centers Program within two years no further action is anticipated on these regulations at this time.

Additional Information: SMALL BUSINESSES CONT: It is anticipated that the Community Health Centers Program will be subsumed in the Primary Care Block Grant Program during the next two years and, therefore, revision of the regulations would be unnecessary at this time. COMMON OR USUAL NAMES FOR NON-STANDARDIZED FOODS—JUICE BEVERAGES

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 21 USC 321(n) Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 343 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 371(a) Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 102.30; 21 CFR 102.32; 21 CFR 102.33

Abstract: As part of its retrospective review, FDA is currently reviewing these final rules concerning a common or usual name for diluted fruit or vegetable juice beverages other than diluted orange juice beverages, diluted orange beverages, and noncarbonated beverage products containing no fruit or vegetable juice. Because of the similarity of these three rules, FDA has concluded that it would be appropriate to review them together. To avoid imposing substantial compliance costs that may later be found unnecessary should the review process result in a decision to revoke or modify the present rules, FDA proposed in the Federal Register of March 26, 1982 (47 FR 13003) to extend the effective date for compliance with a 1980 rule establishing common or usual name labeling requirements for diluted fruit or vegetable juice beverages. A final notice extending the effective date for a common or usual name for diluted fruit or vegetable juice beverages was published January 21, 1983 (48 FR 2735). By September 1983, FDA expects to decide whether to retain the rules unchanged or to initiate rulemaking to revise or revoke them.

INVESTIGATIONAL EXEMPTIONS FOR INTRAOCULAR LENSES

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 21 USC 331 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 351 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 352 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 360j Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 371 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 374 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 21 USC 381 Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 813

Abstract: As part of its retrospective review, FDA is reviewing this rule in Part 813 that requires sponsors to submit to FDA an application before beginning a clinical study of an investigational intraocular lens intended to be surgically implanted into the eye to replace the natural lens. FDA's regulations in Part 812 provide requirements for the performance of a clinical study of investigational devices other than intraocular lenses. To eliminate unnecessary regulations, FDA is considering whether a clinical study of an intraocular lens may be regulated by FDA under the more general requirements in Part 812, instead of the specific requirements in Part 813. By September 1983, FDA expects to decide whether to retain unchanged the specific rule in Part 813 or to initiate rulemaking to revise or revoke it.

This regulation establishes a Medicaid definition of conditions related to mental retardation that would meet the specific needs of the Medicaid program and would be independent of the definition of developmental disablility in the DDABRA.

Department of Housing and Urban Development

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

HUD

24 CFR Subtitles A and B

[Docket No. N-83-1214]

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Department of Housing and Urban Development.

ACTION: Semiannual agenda, under Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, of regulations expected to be issued and under review.

SUMMARY: In accordance with Section 5 of Executive Order 12291, "Federal Regulation," the Department is publishing its Agenda of proposed regulations already issued or expected to be issued, and of currently effective rules that are under review. Also, under Section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the Department has prepared a regulatory flexibility agenda of regulations expected to be proposed or promulgated which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. As permitted by Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the two agendas are combined for publication. The Agenda appearing hereinafter is also the agenda of rules under development or review prepared for transmittal to the House Committee on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs and the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs as required by Section 7(o) of the Department of HUD Act.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Grady J. Norris, Assistant General Counsel for Regulations, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Room 10278, 451 7th Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20410, (202) 755-7055. (This is not a toll-free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291, "Federal Regulation," issued on February 17, 1981 (46 FR 13193), requires each agency to publish semiannually an agenda of regulations that the agency has issued or expects to issue of currently effective regulations that are under agency review.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., requires each agency to publish semiannually a regulatory flexibility agenda of rules expected to be proposed or promulgated which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities," meaning small businesses, small organizations, or small governmental jurisdictions.

Executive Order 12291 and Section 605 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act each permit incorporation of the agenda it requires with any other prescribed agenda. Accordingly, the agenda set out below combines the information required by the Executive Order and by the Regulatory Flexibility Act. In addition, the Agenda contains certain information not required by either the Executive Order or by the Act which the Department considers useful, both better to inform the public and to enhance the Department's own inventory control over its body of regulations.

For purposes of Executive Order 12291, "regulation" or "rule" is defined as "an agency statement of general applicability and future effect designed to implement, interpret, or prescribe law or policy or describing the procedure or practice requirements of an agency," subject to certain exceptions. The Agenda published below concentrates upon regulatory material contained, or expected to be contained, in the Code of Federal Regulations (or incorporated therein by reference) following publication in the Federal Register. As appropriate, however, issuances in the nature of general statements of policy may be published in the Federal Register but not for codification in the Code of Federal Regulations.

The Department also is subject to certain requirements involving congressional review of rulemaking actions, including publication of an agenda. Section 7(o) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act (42 U.S.C. 3535(o)) requires that the Secretary transmit to the congressional committees having jurisdictional oversight (the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs and the House Committee on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs) a semiannual agenda of all rules or regulations which are under development or review by the Department. A rule appearing on the agenda cannot be published for comment before or during the first 15 calendar days of continuous session of Congress after transmittal of the agenda. If, within such period, either Committee notifies the Secretary that it intends to review any rule or regulation or portion thereof which appears on the agenda, the Secretary must submit to both Committees a copy of the rule or regulation, in the form it is intended to be proposed, at least 15 calendar days of continuous session before it is published for comment. The Semiannual Agenda appearing hereinafter is the agenda transmitted to the Committees in compliance with the foregoing requirement.

The agenda items are divided first by program office. Within each program office, the agenda items are divided into three groups: (i) current and projected rulemakings, (ii) reviews of existing regulations, and (iii) completed or withdrawn regulations and completed reviews. Within each grouping, priority regulations are listed together first and other regulations listed together second. Priority regulations include all regulations designated for priority development or review by the Department, all regulations that are "major rules" under section 1(b) of Executive Order 12291, and all regulations designated for review by the Presidential Task Force on Regulatory Relief.

Under Executive Order 12291, a "major rule" means "any regulation that is likely to result in: (1) an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more; (2) a major increase in costs or prices for consumers, individual industries, Federal, State, or local government agencies, or geographic regions; or (3) significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets."

Items listed in this Agenda are from the following Offices within the Department: Office of the Secretary; Office of Housing (including the former Office of Neighborhoods, Voluntary Associations and Consumer Protection); Office of Community Planning and Development; Government National Mortgage Association; Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity; Office of Administration; and Office of the Inspector General.

HUD

DATED: March 4, 1983.

John J. Knapp,

General Counsel.

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 14

Abstract: The Equal Access to Justice Act provides that in certain Federal agency adversary adjudications pending between October 1, 1981 and September 30, 1984, the agency that conducts the proceeding shall award attorney fees and other expenses to qualified parties who prevail against the agency, unless (1) the position of the agency as a party to the proceeding was substantially justified; (2) special circumstances make an award unjust; or (3) the prevailing party engaged in conduct which unduly and unreasonably protracted the final resolution of the matter in controversy. The rule will establish procedures for the submission and consideration of applications for award. In light of the limited number of proceedings to which the rule will be applicable, the potential costs of the rule are expected to be minimal.

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 42 USC 3535(d) Department of HUD Act

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 450

Abstract: Clarifies the Department's intent that evictions of tenants from certain subsidized and HUD-held projects be effected solely by judicial action. This rule requires the landlord to advise the tenant in a termination notice, that the tenant is entitled to a court proceeding at which he or she may present a defense to the eviction. The landlord is prohibited from resorting to "self-help" evictions or any non-judicial process even where such actions are authorized by state or local law. This rule is procedural only and does not alter in any way the grounds for which the landlord may terminate a tenancy.

Abstract: This rule is a revision of the method of calculating operating subsidies paid to Public Housing Agencies under Section 9 of the United States Housing Act of 1937. Under the current system, Federal funding is based on the amount needed to cover operating costs. MULTIFAMILY MORTGAGE INSURANCE – INSURANCE OF ADVANCES

Priority: Undetermined

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1713; 12 USC 1715(b)

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 207

Abstract: Under Section 207.19 (c)(7), a mortgagee's acceptance of letters of credit must meet two requirements: (1) the letter of credit must be irrevocable and unconditional and must be issued to the mortgagee by a banking institution and (2) In the event a demand under a letter of credit is not immediately met, the mortgagee shall forthwith provide cash equivalent to the undrawn balance thereunder. This rule would make it clear that the project mortgagee may issue letters of credit to itself, provided it has secured prior approval of the Commissioner. Since final responsibility under section two rests with the mortgagee in either case, this rule will merely formalize a procedural convenience currently applied administratively and will not affect assurance of payment under the letter of credit.

Abstract: Problem: Reduce the number of issue and maturity dates for debentures from 365 to 12 annually. Alternative: It has been suggested originally that HUD change the debenture issues dates to twice a year to correspond with the semi-annual payments of debenture interest. This, however, was thought to be too restrictive on the mortgagees. Benefit: This change, if approved, will enable the Treasury Department to include the HUD debentures in an automated book-entry system. This will not only save money for the Department but Treasury as well.

CONDOMINIUM PROJECTS - MUTUAL MORTGAGE INSURANCE AND INSURED LOANS

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1709 National Housing Act; 12 USC 1715 National Housing Act

Abstract: Provides for HUD/FHA mortgage insurance of condominium units in projects that have been approved for loan quaranty by the Administrator of Veterans Affairs. The rule also eliminates the requirement that a conventionally financed project be committed to a plan of condominium ownership at least twelve months prior to the time individual units are eligible for HUD/FHA mortgage insurance, although it is still required that at least 90 percent of the units be sold and the title conveyed with respect to conventionally financed projects. These changes are needed to facilitate homeowner purchases of condominium properties. Interim rule published September 18, 1981, (46 FR 46317), effective September 18, 1981. PUBLIC HOUSING DEVELOPMENT, REVISION OF REQUIREMENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1437 U.S. Housing Act of 1937

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 841

Abstract: Would prohibit the transfer of existing Public Housing Agency (PHA)-owned city, county or state assisted projects to the public housing program under the U.S. Housing Act of 1937, except with the prior written approval of the Assistant Secretary for Housing. The Department has determined that the transfer of such projects does not contribute to the goals of the Administration in providing additional low-income housing but only provides additional subsidy for projects developed and funded under state law. No additional costs are anticipated since the proposed rule will not result in a change to the existing status of locally assisted projects.

Abstract: Would insure financing of properties with manufactured homes under Title II of the National Housing Act, as a means to broaden affordable home ownership opportunities. CFR Citation: 24 CFR 203.32; 24 CFR 213.520; 24 CFR 234.55

Abstract: Would reverse current prohibition against the use of insured mortgages on properties with secondary mortgages or liens. These amendments also provide for the recapture of funds placed into escrow accounts to reduce the mortgagor's monthly payments to principal and interest in the early years of the mortgage. No alternatives are being considered. No potential costs have been identified. Potential benefits include greater homeownership opportunities for homebuyers, allowing sellers to recapture funds used to buy down interest rates and increased use of buy down which would allow more families to qualify for mortgages.

Abstract: This rule simplifies the process for giving public notice of changes in the maximum mortgage interest rates and financing charges for various mortgage and loan insurance programs under the National Housing Act. This rule ends the administratively burdensome practice by which each affected section is amended to reflect the change in the maximum interest rate or financing charge only. This rule provides changes in the interest rates and financing changes on FHA-insured loans to be implemented by notice published in the Federal Register. The benefit of this rule is that it will reduce administrative cost and make for a more efficient and cost effective method of announcing changes in the interest rates and financing charges.

Abstract: As a result of conducting numerous research projects, collecting other related program data, the introduction of new technology, changes in energy prices, the need to clarify portions of the standards, etc., it is necessary for the Department to revise the existing construction and safety standards. As a result of the standard revisions, the safety and durability of manufactured homes will be improved. As part of this revision, changes have been made in the regulations with a de-regulatory purpose. Was listed on previous agenda as NVACP-3-81. Includes: H-71-82. Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking published August 28, 1981 (46 FR 43466).

MANUFACTURED HOMES-ALTERNATIVE CONSTRUCTION METHODS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 5401 et seq Natl Mfctrd Hous Cnstn & Sfty Stds Act 1974

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 3282

Abstract: Would permit manufactured home manufacturers to file requests for alternative construction methods with the Secretary in limited circumstances. The rule would also allow manufacturers to build homes which, though not in technical compliance with the standards contained in 24 CFR 3280, meet the same level of quality, durability, and safety as required by the standards. This measure facilitates the use of innovative construction methods or technology and allows the Department to refrain from taking enforcement action based on failures to conform with the standards created during the employment of these innovative approaches. A determination whether to issue a final rule is under review. (Was listed on previous agenda as NVACP-2-81.)

ELIMINATION OF 90 DAY DEFAULT TRIGGER FOR RECAPTURE OF ASSISTANCE PAYMENTS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1715b National Housing Act; 12 USC 1715z National Housing Act; 42 USC 3535(d) Department of HUD Act

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 235.12

Abstract: Section 235 of the National Housing Act was amended in 1980 to require recapture of assistance payments made on behalf of lower income families under the Section 235 Program under certain circumstances. The Housing and Community Development Amendments of 1981 amended this recapture provision to eliminate the requirement that assistance payments be recaptured in the event of the homeowner's failure to make mortgage payments for a period of 90 days or more. This regulation implements the 1981 amendment.

Priority: Task Force

Legal Authority: 42 USC 4321 The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969; PL 95-557 Housing & Community Development Act of 1979

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 50

Abstract: This interim rule will replace an interim rule published on November 27, 1979 (44 FR 67906). The rule provides policies and procedures for HUD consideration of environmental factors in decision-making under HUD programs (except the Community Development Block Grant Program). The rule implements the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and several specific environmental laws and authorities. The rule changes a number of elements of the November 1979 interim rule to reduce the regulatory burden and procedural details. It revises thresholds for environmental impact statements (EIS) to single threshold of 2500 dwelling units; increase reliance on environmental assessments for determining when an EIS is required; provides a basis for HUD acceptance of environmental reviews prepared by the Veterans Administration; clarifies activities that are "categorically excluded" from NEPA; and contains other elements in compliance with regulations of the Council on Environmental Quality. Legal Authority: 42 USC 4321 et seq National Environmental Policy Act of 1969; 42 USC 3535(d) Dept of Housing & Urban Dvlpmnt Act

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 51

Abstract: The regulation establishes explosion and thermal radiation (fire) safety standards, which can be used to determine an acceptable separation distance (ASD) for HUD projects from chemicals or petrochemicals of an explosion and/or fire prone nature. Alternatives: (1) Maintain status quo of having no regulations; (2) Apprise local public housing authorities, planning agencies, CDBG recipients, and others of the dangers involved and identify methods for reducing or negating potential hazards to proposed HUD-assisted projects; (3) Publish the regulation, which will establish safety standards and guidance for applying the safety standards. Costs: Any additional land costs or costs resulting from incorporation of mitigation design measures into the project, such as an earthen berm, would be borne by the project developer, or in the case of a public housing project by the sponsor and HUD, through its housing assistance activities. Benefits: The basic benefit of the regulation will be to assure that people and property are not exposed to potential explosion and thermal radiation hazards represented by chemicals or petrochemicals. A secondary benefit is to protect the (cont)

SITING OF HUD ASSISTED PROJECTS IN DESIGNATED CLEAR ZONES AND ACCIDENT POTENTIAL ZONES AT CIVIL AIRPORTS AND MILITARY

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1441 Housing Act of 1949; 42 USC 1441(a) Housing and Urban Development Act of 1969; 42 USC 3535(d) HUD Act of 1965

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 51

Abstract: The rule adds a new Subpart D to 24 CFR 51. It will clarify and expand current HUD policy governing properties exposed to unusual hazards; promote compatible land use around airports and airfields; and strengthen HUD policy that is supportive of existing Department of Defense and Federal Aviation Administration policies and programs. This rule has been developed because it was determined that our existing policies related to noise and hazards did not provide sufficient guidance to ensure that HUD funds were not used to support projects in these areas. The intended effect of the regulation is to discourage incompatible development in these areas. Alternatives: have no regulation and rely on existing guidance. Costs: some lands would be unsuitable for development, however, this is small. Benefits: assure that people in HUD-supported projects are not located in a hazardous area and protection of the Federal and local financial investments in airports and airfields.

GRANT ADMINISTRATION REQUIREMENTS FOR LUMP SUM DRAWDOWN OF CDBG FUNDS FOR PROPERTY REHABILITATION FINANCING

Legal Authority: 42 USC 5301c Housing & Community Development Act of 1974

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 570.513

Abstract: Rule will preclude new lump sum drawdown agreements that only provide minimal interest earnings (e.g. lump sum deposits where the sole benefit gained from the private sector lendor is interest earned at passbook savings rate). Also, advance HUD review of agreements will be eliminated in accordance with the 1981 Act. The proposed policy to prescribe payment of higher interest rates plus an additional benefit (e.g. provision of administrative services) will: (a) improve quality of new agreements and benefits received by recipients; and (b) reduce the number of agreements in jurisdictions where private lenders are unwilling to provide adequate benefits. RECOGNITION OF SUBSTANTIALLY EQUIVALENT LAWS

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 42 USC 3601 et seq Civil Rights Act of 1968

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 115

Abstract: This proposed rule will make two substantive changes in the procedures for recognition of State and local fair housing laws as substantially equivalent to Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act 1968. First, it will require substantially equivalent coverage based on sex discrimination. Secondly, it will provide for publication of proposed and final recognition of substantially equivalent jurisdictions as a notice in the Federal Register rather than as an amendment to 24 CFR Section 115.11. The requirement of substantially equivalent coverage based on sex discrimination will eliminate jurisdictional questions in compliance referrals. The change to a notice procedure will expedite the recognition process by eliminating the time consuming procedure of rulemaking for the ongoing process of recognizing additional jurisdictions as they meet the recognition criteria.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 3535(d) Department of HUD Act

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 3

Abstract: Subpart C delegates authority from the Secretary to the Comptroller and then to certain Divisions. This subpart is almost entirely obsolete. The alternatives being considered are to eliminate Subpart C entirely or to update all the obsolete references. Neither one will have any significant costs; each will require a minimal amount of staff time and Federal Register publication costs. The benefits of both alternatives are to eliminate a potentially confusing delegation of authority.

HUD PROCUREMENT REGULATIONS RE: THE OFFICE OF SMALL AND DISADVANTAGED BUSINESS UTILIZATION

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Abstract: This rule proposes to amend the HUD Procurement Regulations to incorporate the role of the Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization (OSDBU) and its role with other HUD elements as it relates to the procurement process. This is a strictly technical rule without any major policy alternatives. The choices are to make the technical change or to not make the change. The second choice is not feasible. The benefit of the rule will be to incorporate (and therefore clarify) OSDBU's role in the procurement process.

U.S. FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE

CURRENT AND PROJECTED RULEMAKINGS

CFR Citation: 50 CFR Part 20 Title: Migratory Bird Hunting

Abstract: The Service will publish a series of major documents establishing migratory bird hunting regulations for the 1983-84 season. The documents consist of proposed frameworks providing outside limits for dates and hours of shooting, as well as bag and possession limits; final frameworks for hunting seasons from which States may select regulations; and final rules approving such State selections.

Originally Scheduled: October 1982

Legal Authority: 16 U.S.C. 703-711

Determination Under E.O. 12291: The Department of the Interior has determined that these documents are major rules under E.O. 12291. These rules are major because of the economic values associated with migratory game bird hunting; however, the need to obtain and consider the latest population data for these migratory birds requires that the regulatory scheduled be shortened.

Effects on Small Businesses and Other Small Entities: The Department of the Interior has determined that these rules will have a significant economic effect on a substantial number of small entities under 5 U.S.C 601 et seq.

Small entities likely to be affected by these rules include some sporting goods stores, hardware stores, motels and hotels, restaurants, clothing stores, boat and marine equipment stores, marinas, gasoline stations, private hunting clubs, land owners leasing hunting rights, and mail order houses selling hunting equipment and supplies.

Agency Contact: John P. Rogers 202-254-3207

Timetable: A Notice of Intent to propose frameworks is scheduled to be published in March 1983.

Proposed frameworks (3) are scheduled to be published in May, July, and August 1983.

Final frameworks (3) are scheduled to be published in July and September 1983.

Final rules (2) are scheduled to be published in mid-August and mid-September 1983.

Notices of meetings and public hearings are scheduled to be published in March, May and July 1983.

The regulatory impact analysis, as required by E.O. 12291, and the small entity flexibility analysis, as required by 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., have been combined into one analysis as provided for by both authorities. Copies of the combined analysis will be available from the Agency Contact upon publication of the Notice of Intent in March 1983.

CFR Citation: 50 CFR Part 402 Title: Endangered Species: Interagency Cooperation

Abstract: The Endangered Species Act Amendments of 1978, 1979 and 1982 made some changes in the consultation requirements of Section 7. These proposed rules would amend existing rules governing Section 7 consultation by implementing changes required by the amendments, incorporating other procedural changes designed to improve interagency cooperation, and responding to public comments requested by the Presidential Task Force on Regulatory Relief and the Secretary of the Interior.

Originally Scheduled: July 1979

Legal Authority: 16 U.S.C. 1531-1543

Determination Under E.O. 12291: The determination as to whether this document is a major rule under E.O. 12291 has not been made at this time.

Effects on Small Businesses and Other Small Entities: The determination as to whether this document will have a significant economic effect on a substantial number of small entities under 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq. has not been made at this time.

Agency Contact: Arthur J. Ferguson 202-653-7499

Timetable: Final rule is scheduled to be published by June 1983.

CFR Citation: 50 CFR Part 10, Subpart B Title: General Provisions: Definitions

Abstract: The list of migratory birds found at 50 CFR 10.13 would be amended by adding formerly unprotected species which are covered by the convention concluded with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics for conservation of migratory birds and their environment. Also, the laughing gull, which was inadvertently omitted when the list was last revised, would be restored. Several species of birds belonging to groups protected under conventions concluded with Canada and Mexico have recently been found in the United States and would also be added to the list. The Mexican duck, which is no longer found in the United States, would be deleted from the list; Mexican-like ducks which are found in the Southwestern United States would continue to be protected as hybrids of the mallard, a migratory bird.

Abstract: 50 CFR 17.21(g), Captive-bred Wildlife, provides regulatory relief for activities that enhance the propagation or survival of living, captive-bred, exotic species listed as endangered and born in the U.S. There is also a provision by which certain specifically situated native species may be eligible. The Service recognizes that a number of native species that do not presently qualify for the benefits of this regulation are specifically situated such that their continued survival would be enhanced by being qualified; therefore, the Service will propose to establish criteria by which species are to be so qualified.

Abstract: While listed specimens found dead may be salvaged without permit for scientific purposes by qualified parties, the area of consideration for revision of this Part requires the issuance of permits for the import or export of such specimens or their parts such as blood, tissue, sperm, etc. The Service wishes to review these restrictions to determine whether or not they are in the best interest of the enhancement of the survival of listed species. Affected parties of the scientific community have commented on the seeming counterproductive effect of the restrictions of these regulations. The Service has therefore agreed to review pertinent parts in order to determine the need, if any, to revise the regulations.

CFR Citation: 50 CFR Part 22, Subpart C Title: Eagle Permits

Abstract: Potential conflicts between the prohibitions of the Eagle Protection Act, 16 U.S.C. 668-668d, and resource development and recovery operations throughout the country, particularly future coal mining activities in the Western States, resulted in Congress amending the Act to allow the Secretary to promulgate regulations which permit the taking of golden eagle nests which interfere with resource development or recovery operations. To implement the amendment, the Service would amend Subpart C to allow and regulate the otherwise prohibited destruction or removal of golden eagle nests which interfere with resource development or recovery operations, if the nests are not under construction or occupied and the taking is compatible with the preservation of the golden eagle.

CFR Citation: 50 CFR Part 23 Title: Endangered Species Convention

Abstract: The Convention requires the issuance of an original permit for the export of listed species. These have been issued by the Service's Federal Wildlife Permit Office (WPO) located in Washington, D.C., since U.S. implementation of the Convention in 1977. A large volume of trade occurs in some Appendix II species which requires the quick issuance of permits so that businessmen may react to favorable market conditions. WPO therefore designed a trial system in 1980 whereby permits could be issued to exporters very quickly at the time and place of export under a Letter of Authorization (LOA) issued by WPO, or in other cases, from WPO's office under a 'Dial-a-Permit' (DAP). The Service believes it has gained sufficient experience with the LOA and DAP systems of issuing permits and wishes to continue the systems through a rulemaking.

Abstract: These rules are being amended to emphasize the availability of tiering and incorporation by reference in the preparation of environmental reports for submission to the Department with regard to OCS operations. An alternative considered was to leave the regulations as they currently exist. The amendment will emphasize the availability of tiering and incorporation by reference thereby reducing the paperwork burden. Abstract: This part is being amended to allow the status report to be filed monthly rather than weekly. The MMSS-OCS-1 edition will incorporate advances in technology, include the latest edition of documents incorporated by reference, clarify the requirements for drilling operations on the Outer Continental Shelf zones known to contain H2S, clarify the required preventive measures for the detection and control of H2S in zones where the presence of H2S is unknown, incorporate amendments published in several Federal Register notices, and make editorial changes in order to clarify the meaning of some sections. Alternatives considered include no change in the current standard. This was rejected because of the benefits of updating the standard to reflect the state of the art. This rule is not codified.

Abstract: This rule will revise the existing Order which established requirements for well-completion operations. The revision will broaden the title and scope of the Order to include safety precautions for workover operations. Alternatives considered include not revising the Order which would allow workover operations to remain unregulated. By revising the Order, it is intended to provide requirements which prevent damage to life, property and the environment. Such requirements are in response to recommendations of accident-investigation review boards. This rule is not codified.

Abstract: This order is being revised to eliminate the Maximum Efficient Rate (MER) concept of production control except for those reservoirs that are determined to be rate sensitive and to reduce the recordkeeping and reporting burden imposed on OCS operators. It is estimated that the proposed change would result in a significant reduction in the burden hours imposed on the public. This rule is not codified.

REVIEWS OF EXISTING REGULATIONS

CFR Citation: 30 CFR Part 256 Title: Outer Continental Shelf Minerals and Rights-of-Way Management; General

Abstract: The regulations previously found in 43 CFR Part 3300 were transferred to and redesignated as 30 CFR Part 256 in order to implement, in part, Amendment No. 1 to Secretarial Order No. 3071, which consolidated all of the Department's Outer Continental Shelf functions in the Minerals Management Service. The rule now will be reviewed to determine, among other things, the feasibility of providing for deposit into an interest-bearing account the cash deposit of the high bidder in a Federal Outer Continental Shelf lease sale. If the award to the high bidder were then sustained, the Government would receive the accrued interest; if the award were defeated, the bidder would receive accrued interest in addition to a refund of the cash deposit. Alternatives considered include leaving the rules unchanged. The proposal would result in benefits both to the Government and to bidders in the form of increased revenues.

Title: Alaska Region OCS Orders

Abstract: It is proposed to revise and consolidate the currently effective Gulf of Alaska Area and the Arctic Area OCS Orders into a single set of OCS Orders applicable to all areas of the Alaska Region OCS, including the Bering Sea Area. An alternative considered was to leave the Orders as they currently exist. The proposed consolidation would decrease costs by not having to deal with numerous Orders in one area. Abstract: This rule will revise the revegetation standards to broaden the approaches available for determining success and to consider other alternatives in addition to reference areas and published technical guides. Performance requirements for post-mining land uses other than cropland will be modified. Tree and shrub shocking rates may be replaced with accepted local and regional reforestation practices. The requirement for a reference area where the post-mining land use is recreation, wildlife management, and other forest uses, and the special performance standard for permits that are 40 acres or less in size will be deleted. Abstract: These rules will be revised to assure that prime farmland soils are returned to their original premining capability by returning the soil horizons in sequence and to a friable rooting medium. In addition, these rules would implement the special planning requirements for prime farmlands required by the permitting sections of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act. The operator would have to demonstrate the technological capability to restore mined prime farmlands to equivalent or higher levels of yield as nonmined prime farmland in the surrounding area under equivalent levels of management.

CFR Citation: 30 CFR Parts 784, 785, 816, 817, and 818 Title: General Performance Standards: Subsidence/Concurrent Surface and Underground Mining Abstract: This rule will revise subsidence requirements to place greater emphasis on surface owner protection. If underground mining results in subsidence that causes material damage or reduces the value of surface lands, the intent is to give the operators the option to: (1) restore, rehabilitate, replace, or purchase the damaged structure or valuable resource of surface land; or (2) compensate the owner for any damage or loss incurred by subsidence. The regulatory authority will have authority to suspend underground coal mining under urbanized areas and areas adjacent to major impoundments or permanent streams if imminent danger to inhabitants of the urbanized areas and communities is found. This rule will also revise Part 818, relating to concurrent surface and underground mining, and will incorporate its provisions with section 816.79. Because there appears to be no clear authorization for Section 816.79(b), beyond aspects which are redundant to other performance standards, consideration will be given to deleting this paragraph.

Title: General Performance Standards: Coal Processing Waste

Abstract: This rule will revise regulations applicable to coal processing waste. Specific items to be addressed include: (1) clearly defining what is a coal processing waste bank and what is a coal processing waste dam or embankment, by taking into consideration the current definitions of 'Refuse Pile' and 'Impounding Structure' in MSHA's regulation 30 CFR 77.217, and revise the regulation to be more consistent with MSHA's existing regulation on Refuse Piles and Impounding Structures; (2) placing emphasis for periodic safety inspection equally on both coal waste banks and coal waste dams as required in Section 515(f) of the Act (current regulations place more emphasis on coal waste banks); and (3) reducing burdensome language in the existing regulation for coal waste banks to eliminate overburdensome design criteria.

The rule will promulgate policies and procedures dealing with acreage limitations, with specific reference to procedures to be used to approve sales of excess land.

Originally Scheduled: July 1980

Determination Under E.O. 12291: The Department of the Interior has determined that this document is a major rule under E.O. 12291.

Though there is a likelihood that the law and implementing regulations will not have a $100 million annual impact on the economy, there is an abiding interest in the new law by all entities contracting with the Federal Government for water development and delivery on reclamation projects. Because of this strong interest, public policy warrants designation of this rule as a major rule.

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT

CURRENT AND PROJECTED RULEMAKINGS

CFR Citation: 43 CFR Part 3900 Title: Federal Oil Shale Management

Abstract: This major rule will establish procedures for conducting a competitive leasing program, including procedures for issuing competitive oil shale leases, leasing multimineral deposits, issuing exploration licenses, and managing oil shale leases. Oil shale is a resource that has significant potential to increase the domestic energy supply and to reduce the Nation's dependence on foreign sources of energy. The rule is needed to establish procedures that will allow orderly development of this resource.

Originally Scheduled: April 1982

Legal Authority: 30 U.S.C. 181 et seq.; 43 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.

Determination Under E.O. 12291: The Department of the Interior has determined that this document is a major rule under E.O. 12291.

Annual Federal costs of administering the oil shale leasing program described in the rule are estimated to be $3.5 million to $4.0 million. Total production from Federal leases is expected to range from 120,000 barrels per day to 400,000 barrels per day by the year 2000. The annual production costs associated with Federal oil shale leases are estimated to range from $1.2 billion to $3.1 billion. The shift in balance of payments resulting from the Federal program is estimated to be $5.5 billion to $7.0 billion in 1990. The rule, therefore, has been determined to be major because it is anticipated to have greater than a $100 million annual impact on the economy.

Effects on Small Businesses and Other Small Entities: The Department of the Interior has determined that this document will not have a significant economic effect on a substantial number of small entities under 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.

CFR Citation: 43 CFR Subpart 1600 Title: Planning

Operators disturbing 5 acres or less on some of the special category lands listed in subpart 3809.1-4 would need to submit a notice rather than the operations plan now required for such activities. These amendments would reduce costs for claimants/operators by lessening the filing and bonding requirements and the processing delays associated with their review and approval. Prior to commencing operations under a notice, however, the operator would agree to reclaim disturbed lands and to take appropriate steps to prevent unnecessary degradation of the lands.

INTERGOVERNMENTAL REVIEW OF DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE PROGRAMS AND ACTIVITIES

Legal Authority: EO 12372

CFR Citation: 28 CFR 30

Abstract: Executive Order 12372 (issued July 14, 1982) established a new federal policy on consultation with state and local governments in the administration of federal financial assistance and direct federal development programs, to be implemented by all federal departments and agencies by the issuance of rules or regulations by April 30, 1983. The Office of Legal Policy is coordinating the Justice Department's implementation of the Executive Order. The following components of the Justice Department may issue new or amended rules or regulations concerning consultation with state and local governments in connection with direct development or financial assistance programs: Bureau of Prisons; Immigration and Naturalization Service; United States Marshals Service; National Institute of Corrections; Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention; Office of Justice Assistance, Research, and Statistics; and the Bureau of Justice Statistics. The alternatives for implementation of the Executive Order and the potential costs and benefits of such alternatives are to be determined.

●FLOODPLAIN MANAGEMENT AND WETLAND PROTECTION PROCEDURES

Priority: Task Force

Legal Authority: EO 11988; EO 11990

CFR Citation: 28 CFR 63

Abstract: The purpose of the regulation is to ensure that no direct or indirect support is given by Department of Justice programs to new construction activity in floodplains or wetlands whenever there is a practicable alternative. Destruction of wetlands can cause environmental harm; building in floodplains while perhaps less expensive initially is extremely costly in the long run due to the inevitable damage and/or destruction from flooding. Therefore, all feasible alternatives should be considered before such construction is approved. Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Labor.

ACTION: Semiannual Agenda of Regulations selected for review or development.

SUMMARY: This document sets forth the Department's Semiannual Agenda of Regulations which have been selected for review or development during the coming one-year period. The agenda complies with the requirements of both Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

DATES: The agenda includes all regulations which are expected to be under review or development between April 1983 and April 1984.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Roland G. Droitsch, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Policy, Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Room S2233, Washington, D.C. 20210, (202) 523-9058.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act require the semiannual publication in the Federal Register of an agenda of regulations.

Executive Order 12291 became effective February 17, 1981, and in substance requires the Department of Labor to publish an agenda, listing all the regulations it expects to have under active consideration for promulgation, proposal or review during the coming one-year period. It also requires the Department to conduct a Regulatory Impact Analysis for all "major" regulations being developed.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act became effective on January 1, 1981. It applies only to regulations for which a notice of proposed rulemaking was issued on or after January 1, 1981, and requires the Department of Labor to publish an agenda, listing all the regulations it expects to propose or promulgate that are likely to have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities" (5 U.S.C. 602). For any regulation that will have this impact, the Department must conduct a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis, to gauge the economic consequences of the rule, and to analyze the availability of more flexible approaches for lightening the rule's regulatory burden on "small entities."

If a proposed regulation will not have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities," the Department of Labor must publish a certification to that effect at the time of the general notice of proposed rulemaking or at the time of the publication of the final rule. That certification must be accompanied by a succinct statement explaining the reasons for the agency's determinations.

As permitted by law, the Department of Labor is combining in this publication its agendas under the Regulatory Flexibility Act and Executive Order 12291.

The regulatory reform process, of which the unified agenda is a part, continues to be an extremely valuable aid in the development of better regulations by the Department. We believe that our regulatory reform program has resulted in improved regulatory management, more clearly written regulations and significantly less burdensome regulations.

Further improvement is certainly needed, and we are constantly seeking new and innovative approaches in pursuit of this goal. All interested members of the public are invited and encouraged to let Departmental Officials know how our regulatory reform process can be further improved and, of course, to participate in and comment on the review or development of the regulations listed on the agenda.

The Department of Labor's next semiannual agenda, under Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, will be published in October 1983.

Raymond J. Donovan,

Secretary of Labor.

Abstract: These provisions contain OFCCP's rules covering nondiscrimination and affirmative action obligations of covered contractors under EO 11246, the Vietnam ERA Veterans Readjustment Act, and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The rules would be revised to make them more cost effective, reduce paperwork burdens, and better effectuate the goals of the program. Proposed changes to the regulations were published in the Federal Register on 12/28/79 and 02/22/80, and a final rule on these issues was published on 12/30/80 (45 FR 86215). The rule was stayed, and reviewed in accordance with the President's Executive Order 12291 of 02/17/81. An ANPRM was published on 07/14/81 (46 FR 36213) and supplemented on 08/21/81 (46 FR 42490) to elicit comments on several issues pertaining to the regulation. A notice of proposed rulemaking was published on 08/25/81 (46 FR 42968) with comments due by 10/26/81. The proposal suspended the effective date of the 12/30/81 regulation, and proposed revision of that regulation. Comments relating to the July and August 1981 ANPRM have been evaluated. A separate proposal on the NPRM issues and several other related issues was published on 04/23/82 (cont)

●JOB TRAINING PARTNERSHIP ACT (JTPA)

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1781

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 60

Abstract: These regulations will implement Section 481 of the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA). This section titled, Training to Fulfill Affirmative Action, provides that contractors subject to the affirmative action obligations of the Executive Order may establish or participate in JTPA training programs which are designed to assist such contractors in meeting their affirmative action obligations. Contractors which have such training programs must continue to meet their affirmative action obligations, but they need only maintain an abbreviated affirmative action program. While the Act encourages contractors to establish or participate in JTPA training programs, it also provides an incentive for them to do so by relieving them of paperwork burdens necessitated by a full affirmative action program.

Abstract: The proposed regulation describes procedures relevant to appeals under the Service Contract Act for a new Board of Service Contract Appeals. The existing regulation is related to 29 CFR Part 4, which has been targeted for review by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief. On 01/19/81 a notice withdrawing Part 8 was published (46 FR 4951) because 29 CFR Part 8, containing a new Subpart F (published 01/16/81; 46 FR 4398), provided for appeals to the Secretary on SCA matters instead of a Board. Abstract: These regulations govern the determination of prevailing wages and the administration and enforcement of labor standards applicable to Federally funded or assisted construction contracts subject to the Davis-Bacon and Related Acts, and contracts subject to the Contract Work Hours and Safety Standards Act. The existing regulation has been targeted for review by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief. An NPRM was published 08/14/81 (46 FR 4144), with comments due by 10/13/81, resulting from the Administration's reexamination of the rules previously published 01/16/81 (46 FR 4306, 4380) and stayed pending final publication of this rule. A final rule was published on 05/28/82 (47 FR 23644-79), followed by two minor correction documents on 06/04/82 (47 FR 24298-7). On 07/26/82 (47 FR 32070), a notice was published deferring the effective date of these regulations until further notice in order to comply with a preliminary injunction issued by the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia on 07/22/82. EMPLOYMENT OF FULL-TIME STUDENTS AT SUBMINIMUM WAGES (ESA/W-H)

Priority: Task Force

Legal Authority: 29 USC 214

Abstract: This regulation governs the issuance of certificates authorizing the employment of full time students at subminimum wages. Under this proposal the regulation would be revised to permit the issuance of certificates authorizing employment of full time students at subminimum wages for periods longer than the current one year duration. By eliminating unnecessary annual certifications, this change would free significant staff capacity within Wage/Hour for more important work, including workplace inspection and reduce a paperwork burden upon employers. Abstract: This regulation sets forth the occupations and periods and conditions for the employment of minors 14 and 15 years of age. A number of changes are being considered which would update the provisions of this regulation which have not been changed since 1938. As proposed, the regulation would (1) expand permissible hours of work, (2) tighten employment restrictions in certain occupations such as those involving work near open flames, and (3) remove employment restrictions where no hazard is deemed to exist. In general the proposals would provide a balanced approach to nationalizing the regulations in light of current employment conditions. Abstract: These provisions contain regulations and interpretations governing the administration of the Service Contract Act. The new revision would codify the Department's policies for administering the Act and improve the cost-effectiveness of the regulations, while ensuring consistency with statutory objectives. CFR Citation: 29 CFR 541

Abstract: These regulations set forth the criteria used in the determination of the application of the Fair Labor Standards Act exemption for "executive", "administrative", "professional" and "outside sales employees" from the minimum wage and overtime requirements of the Act. The existing regulation has been targeted for review by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief. A final rule increasing the salary test criteria was published on 01/13/81 (46 FR 12206) and was scheduled to become effective on 02/13/81. On 02/12/81 (41 FR 11912) an indefinite stay of the final rule was published. On 03/27/81 (46 FR 18998) a proposal to suspend the final rule indefinitely was published with comments due by 04/28/81.

MIGRANT AND SEASONAL WORKER PROTECTION

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 500, (New)

Abstract: These regulations will implement the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act (MSPA). Effective on 4/14/83 MSPA repeals and replaces the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act (FLCRA). The MSPA will provide important worker protections involving disclosure of working conditions, safe transportation, adequate housing, and maintenance of needed records. At the same time, it will relieve fixed-situs employers such as farmers and processors from unnecessary registration and paperwork burdens. It will exempt family businesses, small businesses and unions from its coverage, and will also eliminate ambiguous language which has caused much litigation under FLCRA.

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 60-1.11

Abstract: These provisions would have made it a violation for federal contractors to pay membership fees or other expenses for employees to join an organization which limits membership on the basis of race, color, religion, sex or national origin. The existing regulation has been targeted for review by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief. This regulation was proposed on 01/22/80 (45 FR 4954) and a final rule published on 01/16/81 (46 FR 3892). In response to the 01/81 Presidential memorandum, the effective date was deferred. On 03/27/81 (46 FR 19004), the Department proposed withdrawal of the regulation, invited public comments on the proposed withdrawal until 04/27/81, and further suspended the effective date of the regulation. Further action on the proposed withdrawal is pending completion of additional study of the issues involved.

Abstract: The revisions to this part are intended to provide administrative hearings in enforcement cases and substantial interest proceedings involving the Davis-Bacon Act, the Service Contract Act and the Contract Work Hours and Safety Standards Act,and substantial variance and arms-length hearings under the Service Contract Act. These revisions are designed to make such proceedings as uniform as possible. A proposal was published on 04/22/80. LIMITATIONS ON TAX CREDIT REDUCTIONS AND INTEREST ON ADVANCES TO STATES

Legal Authority: PL 97-35, Sec 2406; PL 97-35, Sec 2407; PL 97-35, Sec 2408

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 608

Abstract: The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981 amended the tax credit provisions of FUTA to authorize the placing of a "cap" on reductions in tax credits on a State-by-State basis in certain prescribed circumstances. The amendment requires these determinations to be made in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. TRADE ADJUSTMENT ASSISTANCE: BENEFIT PAYMENTS

Legal Authority: 19 USC 2320

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 635

Abstract: These regulations would implement the 1981 amendments to the Trade Act of 1974. The Trade Adjustment Assistance program provides adjustment assistance in the form of reemployment services, training, job search, relocation allowances, and cash benefits (adjustment assistance) to workers whose unemployment is linked to increased imports of foreign-made products. The amendments represent a fundamental shift in program emphasis from income maintenance to placement and employment services and benefits such as training, job search and relocation. The 1981 amendments are designed to assure that adjustment assistance and reemployment services are more appropriately targeted to trade impacted workers with emphasis placed on their return to work. These changes would be published under 20 CFR 635 and such publication would substantially revise and supersede 29 CFR 91.

Abstract: Adverse effect wage rates are wage rates which must be paid to U.S. and alien workers by employers seeking to temporarily employ nonimmigrant alien agricultural workers, so that the employment of these aliens will not adversely affect the wages of similarly employed U.S. workers. A revised regulation would establish a new methodology for computing and applying a wage rate offered by employers who request utilization of temporary alien workers in agriculture, but not sheepherding or logging. TRADE ADJUSTMENT ASSISTANCE CERTIFICATION

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 90

Abstract: ETA reviewed a proposed rulemaking which would have revised regulations governing the investigation and certification process in accordance with the provisions of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981. The new amendments eliminate the present "contributed importantly" standard for import impact certifications and require that increased competitive imports be the "substantial cause" of the adverse impact on employment and production. The proposed regulatory change has been rendered obsolete by enactment of the Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1982, which postponed the implementation of the new standard until October 1, 1983. The proposed rulemaking activity is therefore withdrawn.

eSUMMARY PLAN DESCRIPTION FILING

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1030; 29 USC 1135

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2520

Abstract: In addition to distribution Summary Plan Description (SPDs) and material modification to participants and beneficiaries, pension plans and certain welfare plans must file these documents with the Department. GAO has determined that this filing is costly to the government, inefficient for providing copies to those few participants and beneficiaries who request copies and an unnecessary cost for plans. This regulation would provide an alternative means of meeting the filing requirement.

Abstract: 29 USC 431 requires labor organizations to file annual financial reports with DOL. LMSA plans to revise Labor Organization Annual Report Form LM-2 which was developed for obtaining this required reporting. The planned changes would include a requirement that reporting labor organizations show how their financial resources have been allocated during the reporting period among certain specific categories of activities commonly undertaken by labor organizations. Other planned changes would clarify the instructions for completing the report, improve disclosure to union members and assist the Department in detecting violations of the LMRDA.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1024; 29 USC 1030; 29 USC 1135

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2520.104 b.2

Abstract: Every plan administrator is required to provide plan participants and beneficiaries and the Department of Labor with a summary of plan provisions, known as the summary plan description (SPD), at 5 or 10 year intervals. The proposed rule would establish the beginning point for the five- (or ten-) year periods for updating or replacing the SPD as the date the initial SPD was filed and distributed (generally 11/77). rather than the date the plan became subject to ERISA (generally 1975). The proposed regulation also provides that, in any event, distribution of an updated SPD would not be required before 11/16/82. The regulation has been targeted by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief.

Abstract: The Mine Act provides for closure under certain conditions, of mines having a pattern of serious violations until the mine is completely free of such violations. The proposed regulation would set forth criteria for determining if a "pattern of violations" exists. Since the proposal was published, the statutory concept of "significant and substantial violations" (S&S) has been redefined by the Federal Mine Safety and Health Review Commission. Abstract: The Carcinogen Policy describes the criteria and procedures OSHA will use to identify, classify, and then regulate carcinogens. The Policy also establishes a process for screening chemicals and-for setting priorities for potential rulemaking activities. The validity of the scientific criteria set forth in the policy and the cost-effectiveness of the rule are being reexamined. The original standard was issued in 1980 before the Supreme Court "benzene" decision on significant risk. COTTON DUST

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.1043

Abstract: The standard, issued in 1978, has been legally challenged and stayed as it applies to certain industries. In addition, where the standard is in effect, there have been problems with the device that is used to measure cotton dust. Further, control methods specified by the standard may not be cost effective. There is also question about the demonstration of a significant risk of disease in some of the industry sectors covered by the standard. Data are now being collected to determine how and to what extent the rule should be revised. Two ANPRMs have been published: 03/31/81 (46 FR 19501) and 02/09/82 (47 FR 5906). The second ANPRM modified and expanded the issues set forth in the first ANPRM. On 08/13/82 (47 FR 35255) OSHA proposed to stay enforcement of the current standard for knitting operations. The comment period on the proposed stay ended 09/13/82. A notice of final decision on the stay was published 02/04/83 (48 FR 5267). It is anticipated that a proposed standard for cotton dust will be published by 04/83.

Abstract: Since 1970 several independent scientific studies have concluded that Ethylene Dibromide (EDB) can cause cancer in laboratory animals. In addition, EDB has been shown to be mutagenic in several test systems. This evidence raises serious concern about the adequacy of the current permissible exposure limits for EDB, which were adopted by OSHA in 1971.

Abstract: The proposed standard would require chemical manufacturers to assess the hazards of chemicals which they produce and to provide information to their employees about these hazards by means of hazards communication programs including labels, material safety data sheets and training. Original proposal published 01/16/81 (46 FR 4412) was withdrawn 02/12/81 (46 FR 12020) to permit further analysis of regulatory alternatives. A new proposal was published 03/19/82 (47 FR 12092). NOISE - HEARING CONSERVATION AMENDMENT

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.95(c) to 1910.95(p); 29 CFR Appendices A to I

Abstract: The amendment requires employers to provide an effective hearing conservation program for all employees exposed to an 8 hour TWA of 85 dB. The amendment contains requirements for monitoring employee noise exposure, audiometric testing, and education and training of employees. OSHA reexamined certain requirements of the amendment originally published on 01/16/81 (46 FR 4078) to determine whether they were cost-effective and feasible. The regulation was also targeted for review by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief. The 01/16/81 standard was to have become effective 04/15/81, but was administratively stayed until 08/22/81 (see 46 FR 21365, 28845 and 39137). On 08/22/81 (46 FR 42822) the stay was partially lifted for many provisions of the amendment. The notice also made certain technical corrections and requested additional comment on the possible deletion or modification of other provisions. In addition, a notice of proposed rulemaking regarding other provisions of the amendment was published on 08/21/81 (42639) with comments due by 11/23/81. A public hearing was held on the proposal on 03/23/82.

LEAD - RECONSIDERATION OF WHOLE STANDARD

Priority: Major

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.1025

Abstract: The current standard for occupational exposure to lead was promulgated in 1978. It sets a PEL of 50 micrograms of lead per cubic meter of air (50 ug/m3), and requires the use of feasible engineering or workpractice controls. There are serious questions concerning significant risk, feasibility and cost-effectiveness of the standard in certain industries; therefore, OSHA has announced its intention to review and reconsider the regulation. The ANPRM asked for comment on such issues as economic and technological feasibility, and cost-effectiveness.

Priority: Major, Task Force

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.1000(e); 29 CFR 1910.134(a)(1)

Abstract: OSHA is reviewing its policy relating to the use of engineering controls and respirators for air contaminants. Current OSHA standards require that employers implement feasible engineering controls to maintain air contaminant concentrations in the workplace to within the prescribed permissible exposure limits. The use of respirators is permitted only in those cases where engineering controls are not feasible, are not yet installed or are not adequate. This policy has been criticized as being too inflexible, not cost-effective and often unnecessary for health protection. OSHA intends to perform a careful review of the relevant issues and to consider, as a first action, the possible revision of two standards, 29 CFR 1910.1000(e) [Air Contaminants] and 29 CFR 1910.134(a)(1) [Respiratory Protection]. OSHA's policy for the use of engineering controls and respirators was targeted for review by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief.

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.95(a) and (b)

Abstract: OSHA's existing standard specifies a maximum permissible exposure limit (PEL) of 90 dB and requires reduction of noise levels through the use of engineering or administrative means, whenever feasible. The noise standard has been targeted for review by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief. OSHA is reviewing the standard to assess the cost-effectiveness of various regulatory alternatives that the Agency has not previously studied. The Agency will base its review on its 10 years of enforcement experience, and on the industry-wide effectiveness of hearing conservation programs. In addition, the Agency intends to examine the PEL in view of current research data.

●ACCREDITATION OF TESTING LABORATORIES

Priority: Agency Determination

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1907

Abstract: This regulation established the criteria and procedures that OSHA would use to accredit testing laboratories desiring to test any equipment required to be "acceptable" to OSHA under its standards in 29 CFR Parts 1910, 1915, 1918 and 1926. To date, OSHA has not implemented this procedure, which was originally published in 1973 and proposed for revocation in June of 1974. OSHA intends to revise the regulation and has solicited information regarding the appropriate content, scope and format of a complete revision of 29 CFR Part 1907, and complementary changes to 29 CFR Part 1910 as may be necessary. Under the revision as currently envisioned, all qualified testing organizations (including those already specified in OSHA's standards) would be identified, thus allowing producers to utilize them for product testing. When the currently-specified testing organizations have been recognized also under the revised 1907 regulation, their names will be deleted from Parts 1910, etc. No new testing requirements or testing costs will be imposed under the revision.

A review of injuries incurred by employees servicing single-piece rim wheels indicates risks comparable to those associated with servicing multi-piece rim wheels prior to the issuance of section 1910.177. The proposed amendment, if adopted, would require employee training, both initial and periodic refresher, the use of clip-on chucks and observance of prohibited areas while inflating single-piece rim wheels, correct matching of tires and wheels, and adherence to safe servicing procedures. It is expected that the cost of the regulation would be minimal.

STATE PLAN BENCHMARKS

Legal Authority: PL 91-596, Sec 8(g); PL 91-596, Sec 18; PL 97-377 Fiscal 1983 Continuing Resolution

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1902

Abstract: The proposed rule will allow OSHA to grant final approval under Section 18(e) of the Act to eligible States when their compliance staffing is equivalent to Federal staffing. This action has been precluded for the past four years because of "benchmark" staffing requirements established in response to a 1978 Court decision and order. Through FY 1982 Supplemental Appropriations action (PL 97-257), Congress has required the modification of these previously established benchmarks and established the principle that State staffing need only be equivalent to current comparable Federal staffing. The proposed rule published 11/05/82 (47 FR 50307) gave notice of the actual required benchmark modifications for each State operating an approved State plan. On the basis of the Fiscal Year 1983 Continuing Resolution, enacted in December 1982, OSHA is precluded from pursuing this specific regulatory initiative and is holding further action in abeyance.

Abstract: OSHA contemplates revising this rule because NIOSH and other sources have provided data to OSHA indicating that the present OSHA permissible exposure limit (PEL) may not adequately protect workers from asbestos-related diseases. The revision may include a change in the PEL and modification of other requirements to assure that industry compliance is achieved in the most cost-effective way.

NONIONIZING RADIATION

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.97

Abstract: The current rule needs revision because it states that it is a guide and uses the advisory words "should" and "recommended" in its provisions. Hence it has been construed to be advisory and unenforceable. It is necessary to implement an enforceable standard because the hazards of exposure above the currently recommended level are widely accepted. Also, the ever increasing use of radio frequency radiation emitting devices has produced strong public and congressional concern.

Abstract: A number of different federal agencies have responsibility for regulating occupational exposure to ionizing radiation. OSHA is reviewing its regulations to insure that they remain consistent with other federal agencies' regulations. COMMERCIAL DIVING OPERATIONS: EXEMPTIONS

Priority: Agency Determination, Major, Task Force

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910

Abstract: The OSHA standard for commercial diving operations does not exempt diving operations performed solely for marine scientific research and development purposes by educational institutions. However, the U.S. Coast Guard standard, which is similar in content to the OSHA standard, does exempt educational/scientific diving. Therefore, OSHA is in this notice proposing an exemption for educational/scientific diving which is identical to that which is presently contained in the U.S. Coast Guard's standard for commercial diving operations (46 CFR Part 197). The commercial diving operations standard has been targeted for review by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief. Additionally, interested parties were given until 04/26/82 to file objections to the NPRM and request an informal hearing. Hearings were in June and July 1982.

INORGANIC ARSENIC

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.1018

Abstract: In 1978, OSHA issued a new regulation reducing the permissible limit for employee exposure to arsenic. Because of the Supreme Court's decision in Industrial Union Department v. American Petroleum Institute, 448 U.S. 607 (1980), the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals remanded the standard to the Agency to make findings with regard to the significance of risk of exposure to inorganic arsenic in the workplace. On 04/09/82 (47 FR 15358), OSHA published a notice reopening the inorganic arsenic rulemaking record for the purpose of receiving evidence and making findings on the degree of risk from occupational exposure to arsenic and the significance of that risk. Public hearings were held 07/13-07/16/82. On 01/14/83 (48 FR 1864), OSHA published a Supplemental Statement of Reasons for the Final Rule and forwarded its findings regarding risk to the Ninth Circuit Court. OSHA is awaiting the Court's decision in this matter.

LEAD - STAY OF COMPLIANCE PLAN PROVISIONS FOR 3 MAJOR INDUSTRIES

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655; 29 USC 657

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.1025(e)(3)(ii)(B); 29 CFR 1910.1025(e)(3)(ii)(E)

Abstract: Under the provisions of the lead standard, employers must establish and implement written compliance programs. Such programs describe the means by which the employer intends to reduce employee exposure to lead to or below the permissible exposure limit (or the interim level) by using engineering and work practice controls in accordance with the implementation schedule specified in the standard. Because the outcome of OSHA's current reconsideration of the lead standard (see 1218-AA11) may render unnecessary some or all of the expenditures required by these provisions, OSHA has administratively stayed these requirements for the primary and secondary lead smelting and battery manufacturing industries, the three industries for which the current standard was upheld in the courts. OSHA believes that a stay pending the reconsideration would prevent wasteful expenditures without adversely affecting worker health.

LEAD - AMENDMENT OF FIT TESTING REQUIREMENTS

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.1025(f)(3)(ii)

Abstract: The 1978 OSHA lead standard required the use of quantitative fit testing (QNFT), a method for numerically measuring facepiece seal leakage, on all users of negative pressure respirators. New information indicates that certain types of qualitative fit testing (QLFT), a method that relies on the wearer's subjective response to pressure, an irritant fume or a substance with a characteristic odor or taste, may be adequate to determine the fit of negative pressure respirators. On 05/19/81 (46 FR 27358) OSHA proposed an interim rule to permit the use of specified forms of QLFT.
